TESTIFIES MOORE CHARGED LAWYER USED INFLUENCE AT WHITE HOUSE

Witness Asserts Judge and Schwimmer Had Heated Discussion Over Sachs Tax Evasion Case.

United States District Judge George H. Moore accused the attorney for an income tax evader of using his "White House connections," a witness testified today in the trial of Matthew J. Connelly, T. Lamar Caudle and Harry I. Schwimmer.

David L. Sheffrey, a Kansas City attorney, testified the judge's statement was made during a "somewhat heated discussion" with Schwimmer in the course of a discussion of the income tax evasion case against Irving Sachs, whom Schwimmer represented.

Sheffrey said Schwimmer had persuaded him to come to St. Louis to have a discussion with the late Drake Watson, then United States Attorney here, after learning Watson planned to present the Sachs case to the federal grand jury.

A conference attended by Sheffrey, Schwimmer, Watson and Judge Moore was held in the judge's chambers, the witness related.

Files Had Been Closed.

"Schwimmer called Judge Moore's attention to the fact that the Justice Department had closed its files on the case and told the judge that Watson had no right to present it to the grand jury," Sheffrey said. "Schwimmer said something to the effect it was a miscarriage of justice.

The witness said he could not recall Schwimmer asking Judge Moore to do something to stop the indictment but added: "Somehow Judge Moore and Schwimmer got into a somewhat heated discussion and the judge accused Schwimmer of using his White House connections."

The name of Connelly, who was then appointments secretary to President Truman, was mentioned at the meeting, Sheffrey recalled.

On cross-examination, the witness was asked to tell who mentioned Connelly's name and in what connection during the conference.

Sheffrey replied: "I don't remember by whom it was mentioned or in just what connection, but President Truman's name was mentioned and Connelly's, probably I believe in response to some question of Judge Moore.

"Probably Schwimmer said he was proud because he knew them. I think the judge was kind of taking Schwimmer to task, charging that he used his connections in this case.

"After the heated discussion had gone on some time, I said: 'Your Honor, I don't think it should be held against a man just because he knows officials.' Judge Moore didn't seem to pay much attention. He was too busy taking Schwimmer to task."

The conference to which Sheffrey referred occurred in 1951. Schwimmer at the time was representing Sachs, head of Shu-Stiles Inc., a St. Louis shoe brokerage firm.

An investigation into the handling of the Sachs case led to the indictment of Connelly, Caudle and Sachs on charges of conspiring to defraud the Government by trying to help Sachs avoid prosecution.

Questioned About Calls.

Wyllys S. Newcomb, chief Government counsel, questioned the witness about telephone calls Schwimmer made to him after the three defendants were indicted last March.

Sheffrey told of getting a call from Schwimmer in Kansas City

Democratic Encounter in Oregon

With microphone close at hand to pick up any stray exchange, SENATOR ESTES KEFAUVER and ADLAI STEVENSON greet each other at campus rally at the University of Oregon where they continued their campaigns for the Democratic presidential nomination last night.

2 DOCTORS ADMIT SENDING WOMEN TO ABORTION MILL

So Do 2 Midwives, but None Can Be Prosecuted, Garnholz Points Out.

Two physicians and two midwives have admitted they referred women to an abortion mill that operated until May 3 in a Webster Groves residential area, but "this information is insufficient to serve as a basis for criminal prosecution." Edward W. Garnholz, St. Louis county prosecuting attorney, told the Post-Dispatch today.

A third doctor also was involved in referring women to the abortionists, Garnholz disclosed.

"Under the law an overt act must be shown by the doctors and the midwives in the abortion itself," the prosecuting attorney said.

Garnholz reported there were no corroborating witnesses to conversations between the doctors, midwives and their patients and thus he could not press the matter.

However, Garnholz said, a complete file of information obtained from the two doctors and the midwives will be presented by his office to the State Board of Medical Examiners in Jefferson City "for what action they deem proper."

Investigation has indicated that two other midwives also referred patients to the abortionists, Garnholz said.

"A thorough investigation failed to turn up evidence of money having been paid to doctors and midwives by the abortionists for the referral of patients," he said.

Warrants charging abortion were issued against Mrs. Julia Rackey, 54-year-old widow, 7932 Captain Conn drive, Affton, and Mrs. Fraulin Scown, 40, a divorcee, 404 East Big Bend boulevard, Webster Groves. They were arrested after extended police surveillance of the house at 415 Tuxedo boulevard.

They are awaiting preliminary hearing. Garnholz said the complaint would be the first considered by a grand jury which will be impaneled later this month.

An average of 10 to 12 young women were taken weekly to the three-bedroom house for illegal operations costing $125 each, St. Louis county authorities reported.

Hitches Stove to Gas Well.

NEOSHO, Mo., May 16 (INS)—Ivan Dale, who lives southeast of Neosho, is "cooking with gas" now—and it's all free. He connected his kitchen range to a natural gas well he struck while drilling for water.

Stevenson and Kefauver Share Oregon Platform; No Fireworks

In Fact, They Sound as Though They Are Reading Each Other's Speeches.

EUGENE, Ore., May 16 (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson met on the same platform last night, seeking Oregon's 16 Democratic convention delegates in a write-in feature of Friday's primary election.

About 5000 University of Oregon students and townspeople attended the abbreviated and friendly meeting on McArthur basketball court. Campaign sponsors had said in advance it would be no debate, asserting the Tennessee Senator and the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee were in fundamental agreement.

The applause was as close as many people foresee the outcome Friday. Kefauver, up first, was interrupted 18 times; Stevenson, who spoke a little longer, 23.

Both were introduced by Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon who remarked to a hometown audience that for once in his career he was in a neutral position on a political platform. Morse formerly was dean of the university law school.

Both Morse and Kefauver found it necessary to leave without hearing Stevenson. The two Senators flew east to vote on the Niagara power bill.

'Brains, Courage, Integrity.'

Morse introduced the two as great Americans meeting the standard for statesmenship—"brains, courage, integrity and dedication."

Kefauver, the opening speaker after University of Oregon president O. Meredith Wilson welcomed the candidates, said he would resume his Oregon campaign Thursday, returning after casting his Senate vote.

He said he supposed he would be back in the fall, too. He said he hoped he would be back to help his own presidential candidacy, but "if someone else should be the lucky person, I will come back to help him, too."

Stevenson and Kefauver covered much of the same ground in their talks.

Said Kefauver: "One of the next President's first tasks will be to recapture for America the respect of other nations. We must use the methods of peace in dealing with other nations and not depend on military alone or on threats."

Stevenson accused the Republicans of "squandering a great part of the national good will built up abroad over the years by the Democrats" and added, "we must never forget that our real goal is not to build a military alliance but to remove the necessity for it. We must find a workable basis for universal disarmament."

Charges G.O.P. Has Failed.

Kefauver said: "We have no choice but to keep ourselves strong, but we must be ready, willing and able to prepare our economy for peacetime existence. This the Eisenhower Administration has failed to do. Only yesterday (Monday) when the Soviet Union announced reduction in its armed forces, the stock market went down."

"It is . . . high time," said Stevenson, "that we stop merely talking so much about our desire for peace and take some initiative to allay the world's misgivings." He repeated his proposal to suspend tests of the hydrogen bomb and not to resume them unless the Russians do.

"I want the kind of America," said Kefauver, "in which each of you can have the chance to do your very best. I want you to be able to strike out for yourself if you wish without being squeezed or strangled by the growing concentration of economic power in the hands of fewer and fewer people. I do not want you to have to choose between working for big business on the one hand or big government on the other."

"This nation," said Stevenson, "was not founded by just cautious men, and complacent

OUTLOOK HERE IS FOR MORE RAIN THAN NORMAL

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—The southeastern quarter of the nation and the West Coast states will have temperatures averaging above seasonal normals in the next 30 days, the Weather Bureau predicted yesterday.

The bureau's forecast added: "Below normal temperatures are predicted over the Great Lakes, northeast, northern plains and central plateau. In other areas, mean temperatures should be near normal.

"Rainfall is expected to exceed normal in the Missouri and Mississippi valleys and the Great Lakes region. Subnormal amounts are indicated west of the Continental Divide and in the Southeast and near normal elsewhere."

CAB DRIVER GETS $1350 FARE — AT 50 CENTS A MILE

OAKLAND, Calif., May 16 (AP)—"The kind of thing that every cab driver dreams about," came true for Waukegan (Ill.) driver Raymond F. Gilbert—a $1350 fare to California and back.

The fare was Mrs. Arlene Andrews, wife of Victor J. Andrews, chairman of the board of Andrews Corp. Manufacturing Co.

Gilbert is getting $10 a day for expenses while here.

"Of course," he added, "any side trips in California will cost her the usual rate—50 cents a mile."

Gilbert's long ride was disclosed yesterday when he asked Oakland police where he could find a good hotel. He told them he had driven his passenger to Oakland via New Mexico and Nevada so she could visit with friends. The trip took six days.

The owner of the cab company, James Schmidt, said in Chicago that Mrs. Andrews had made lengthy trips before.

FTC DROPS CHARGES AGAINST AD-X2 MAKER

Upholds Finding of Hearing Examiner on Accusation of False Advertising.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission today dismissed its charges of false advertising against Jess M. Ritchie, maker of the battery additive AD-X2.

The 4 to 0 decision upheld a finding by a hearing exaaminer that the greater weight of evidence at extended hearings did not sustain the charges against Ritchie and his firm, Pioneers, Inc., of Oakland, Calif.

AIR FORCE DROPS CONTRACTS FOR 'FASTEST' NEW INTERCEPTOR

Lack of Funds Given as Reason — Pentagon Working on Mystery Plane to Replace Canceled Ship.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—The Air Force said today it has canceled contracts for development of a plane planned as the world's fastest long-range interceptor.

(A United Press dispatch said the plane was in the 1400-mile-an-hour class.)

An Air Force spokesman said lack of funds for research and development forced the cancellation.

Dr. Clifford C. Furnas, Assistant Secretary of Defense for research and development, told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee that lack of funds for more research "was one reason" for cancelling the contracts for the long-range interceptor, but said there also were other reasons. He said for one thing it has been determined the plane would be heavier than had been anticipated.

The Pentagon disclosed it is working on a new mystery plane that "has even greater potentialities" than the canceled interceptor but gave no details.

Program Defended.

Furnas defended the Administration-approved $5,300,000,000 military research program, which he heads. The adequacy of the amount has been challenged from several quarters on Capitol Hill.

Furnas said he feels the biggest problem is a shortage of scientists and engineers.

The canceled contracts were with Northrop Aircraft Hawthorne, Calif., and North American Aviation, Los Angeles.

A third contractor, Lockheed Aircraft Corp., Burbank, Calif., voluntarily withdrew from the competition last March because its heavy work load on other Air Force projects required the full services of its engineers.

The canceled plane was to be called on to outperform the McDonnell F-101, Convair F-102 and Lockheed F-104, all of which fly faster than the speed of sound and are now in production but not yet in operational use.

Supersonic Tactical Bomber.

At the time of the interceptor contract awards last fall, the Air Force also awarded similar "Phase I" design and development contracts for a supersonic fighter-bomber, and for the nation's first supersonic tactical bomber.

The Air Force said the cancellation of the interceptor project has not affected the other two projects, the contractors for which are North American, Republic Aviation Corp. of Farmingdale, N.Y., the Glenn L. Martin Co. of Baltimore and Douglas Aircraft Co., Santa Monica, Calif.

The Air Force declined to make public figures as to the value of the contracts or the cost of the cancellations.

WILSON DEFENDS NAVY'S AIR ROLE

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 16—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson yesterday cited the strategic bombing role of carrier-based aircraft as having clear advantages over Air Force long-range bombers in certain respects.

Wilson, pressed closely by reporters, said the Navy's newest-type carriers can get close to the target, that an enemy could not know, despite the probing eye of radar, where a carrier force might "steam to" from day to day; that the strategic bombing role of the Navy "is certainly not insignificant by any means," and that the Navy can now equip its bigger planes with hydrogen bombs.

The Secretary declined at his news conference to clear up growing inter-service confusion over roles and missions. New and intense rivalries have been disclosed in a series of recent congressional hearings. One of these involves the relative merits of the Army's Nike anti-aircraft missile and a new Air Force development called the Talos missle.

Some Day, Not Now.

Asked by a reporter to give an opinion of the Nike-Talos dispute, which has angered some Senators, Wilson smiled and said: "I think I'll have to some day," but not now.

Wilson agreed with top Navy officials that hydrogen bombs have now been developed small enough to be dropped from Navy light bombers. Gen. Twining concurred in that statement in an appearance before a Senate appropriations subcommittee yesterday.

Wilson declined to state, however, "when and how many

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 16—A $2,640,000 appropriation for a start on the St. Louis riverfront memorial was passed by the House today after Representative Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves, charged that railroad interests were trying to defeat the project.

House members from the St. Louis area beat back a last-minute attempt to kill the appropriation. Approval was on a standing vote of 134 to 10. The measure now goes to the Senate.

The compromise appropriation, $360,000 less than originally requested, carries a provision permitting the federal funds to remain available until expended, so that the work of relocating railroad tracks and grading the site can go ahead without any deadline.

The House action represented a major victory for backers of the project in their long fight to obtain federal aid for preliminary work on the proposed Jefferson National Expansion Memorial on the Mississippi riverfront at St. Louis.

Flurry of Debate.

Opposition to the project was led again today by Representative H. R. Gross (Rep.), Iowa, who had attacked the memorial when it first came up in the House.

Gross's objections produced a flurry of debate on the project. The Iowan succeeded in forcing a standing vote on the appropriation but mustered only scattered support.

Curtis told the House he believed "underlying opposition" to the project had come from railroads in St. Louis over the years. He did not identify the railroads.

"There still is an undercurrent fight which comes, in my opinion, from the railroads which would have to put up part of the money" to relocate tracks which now run along the levee, Curtis declared.

Tunnel Proposed.

Under an arrangement worked out by the National Park Service with the Missouri Pacific Railroad and the Terminal Railroad Association, the five sets of tracks would be placed in a tunnel to permit an unobstructed view of the proposed park and the river.

The Missouri Pacific and Terminal some time ago expressed willingness to negotiate on sharing the cost but exact extent of their participation has not been worked out.

Curtis told the Post-Dispatch he had no evidence that railroad opposition was responsible for obstacles and delays encountered by the riverfront project in the present session of Congress.

Quiet Opposition.

He said he was convinced, however, that the railroads had been quietly opposing the memorial for years, adding that "something must be behind all these efforts to beat the appropriation—it's inconceivable that it would have been so drawn-out otherwise."

Urging approval of the compromise figure, Curtis told the House: "the private railroads must put up some of the money, and that is wheer the underlying opposition has come from for some years."

Curious About Consultant.

He told reporters later that he was "curious" about the activities of Paul O. Peters, a public relations consultant with offices here. Peters worked on an investigation of vote frauds in the 1935 election at which St. Louis voters aproved a $7,500,000 bond issue for the city's contribution to the memorial.

Peters told the Post-Dispatch recently that he has been "unalterably" opposed to the memorial ever sice, believing that evidence of vote fraud uncovered by the Post-Dispatch in 1935 made the bond issue election illegal.

He denied, however, that he had worked against the riverfront appropriation in the present session, saying he had not been active in opposition to the project in recent years.

Peters, who publishes an economic report sent to some members of Congress, said he was not employed by any St. Louis railroad. He acknowledged that he had "several friends" on the Senate Appropriations Committee, which

FRENCH KILL 230, INCLUDING REBEL 'CHIEF OF DESERT'

ALGIERS, May 16 (UP)—French troops have killed 230 rebels including the insurgent "chief of the desert" in a battle on the Sahara desert, French authorities said today.

Dispatches said tough French Spahis caught rebel chieftain Si Mustapha and 250 of his men at a desolate spot 210 miles south of Algiers.

Two shepherds held by the marauders escaped and reported their location to French officials.

The battle which started yesterday raged on until nightfall in an area between Tiaret and Kjalfa. The French killed 179 partisans in the fighting yesterday and killed 51 more, including the chief, today.

Three young French reservists from France were killed.

MRS. FRIEDE SAYS WOMEN SHOULD NOT RETIRE AT 65

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 16—Any woman who retires to a rocking chair on reaching 65 is underestimating herself, in the judgment of Mrs. Irma Friede of St. Louis.

Mrs. Friede, a member of the St. Louis Board of Education, is attending the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Many women are gainfully employed into their 70s and many others could be," she said. "Women should ignore later birthdays just as they do at 30. Today's woman has a life expectancy that can extend almost 20 years beyond her grandmother's." She is 65.

Older women have better health nowadays and don't age as fast as they used to, she said. Mrs. Friede is chairman of the federation's gerontology division.

U.S. JET BOMBER CRASHES IN ATLANTIC, ONE MAN SAVED

Parachute From Crewman of B-47 Reported Off English Coast.

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—An American B-47 stratojet bomber crashed today in the Atlantic about 12 miles off Land's End, the United States Air Force announced.

One parachute was reported sighted about six and a half miles off shore. One survivor was reported picked up by a French trawler.

Brazilian Tax Raised 370 Pct.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 16 (AP)—Rio de Janeiro's municipal business tax has been raised 370 per cent over last year. The increase is one of many imposed by the federal and local governments to finance wage boosts of up to 70 per cent given government employes.

JET PLANE DIVES ON CONVENT; 15 DEAD OR MISSING

Canadian Fighter on 'False Alarm' Flight Turns Nuns' Rest Home Into Inferno.

OTTAWA, May 16 (AP)—A Royal Canadian air force jet fighter, ordered aloft on an interception mission that proved a false alarm, crashed into a Roman Catholic Nuns' rest home last night and left 15 persons dead or missing.

The plane's armament included rockets.

Most of the victims were aged and bedridden nuns. Others were the fighter's two-man crew, a priest and a woman cook employed at the home, operated by the Grey Nuns of the Cross alongside the Ottawa river seven miles east of Ottawa.

Report Like Thunderclap.

"Suddenly there was a noise like a thunderclap," said Sister Marie des Martrys, one of 22 nuns who escaped. "The panes blew out. The window frames, made of wood, splintered, and the next second there was fire everywhere."

Four of the nuns who escaped were injured.

Sister Marie Emond, assistant-general of the order, said there were 35 persons in the convent.

Eleven nuns, ranging in age from 21 to 77, were given up as dead.

The bodies of three nuns and the priest had been recovered from the smouldering debris early today. The Royal Canadian Air Force detailed 100 men to search for the others. The airmen tackled the job of removing the rubble largely by hand.

The Air Force disclosed the CF-100 had been ordered up to identify a mysterious transport from the Arctic on which it had not received a flight plan. The fighter's crew had ascertained the transport was a Royal Canadian Air Force North Star bound for Montreal.

An Air Force spokesman said the transport's flight plan had been filed, but that it was delayed because the North Star was coming in from the north. Communications from that area are occasionally difficult.

The air defense command at St. Hubert, Que., is charged with keeping track of all planes in Canadian skies. It was not immediately clear who was responsible for relaying of the Texas Builder Puts Up a Church In the Hope Someone Will Buy It

HAMILTON, Bermuda, May 16 (AP)—The United States Housing Administration Commissioner told a Texas tale today to show how big the building boom is in the Lone Star state.

In a mesage sent to a convention of the National Savings and Loan League aboard the cruise ship Queen of Bermuda, Norman P. Mason said:

"I recently visited a part of Texas where a lot of building was taking place. Homes were rising in all directions and among them was a fine modern church. I gazed with admiration at this structure and naturally asked what was the denomination.

"The answer from the builder was unexpected. He said, 'It hasn't got any denomination. I am building it on speculation.'"

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

ABOARD U.S.S. MT. McKINLEY AT BIKINI (Thursday) May 17 (UP)—America's first airdrop of the hydrogen bomb was postponed again today as the jet bomber carrying the powerful nuclear device was making its preliminary runs over the target.

The shot was called off because of "unacceptable" weather conditions which threatened to spread radioactive fallout beyond the test area.

R. Adm. B. Hall Hanlon, commander of the test task force, made the announcement at 4:15 a.m. Bikini time (11:15 a.m. Wednesday St. Louis time) one hour and 36 minutes before the scheduled shot time.

He said the test would be delayed for at least 24 hours.

Conditions had been nearly perfect for the long awaited drop until less than five hours before H-hour when unfavorable winds blew in across the mid-Pacific.

The task force has been trying to get the shot off since May 8, but has been plagued for nine days by wrong wind patterns. The latest postponement was the eighth delay. It occurred after the ships of the task force had deployed for the test.

The drop plane itself, an eight-jet B-52 global bomber, had taken off from Eniwetok with the big bomb aboard to make dry runs over the 100-yard bull's-eye target on Bikini's Namu island.

When the shot was called off again, the big bomber was on the verge of making a giant turn into its first live run.

Hanlon said the task force would continue to stand by on a "D-day minus one" status in the hope of firing the bomb Friday morning, Bikini time (Thursday U.S. time).

MOLLET URGES REDS TO DESTROY BARRIERS THAT SPLIT EAST, WEST

French Premier Calls for Freer Exchange of Ideas by Travel, Press, Radio — Bulganin Replies.

MOSCOW, May 16 (AP)—Premier Mollet of France appealed to the Soviet Union today to destroy the barriers separating East and West.

At a Kremlin caviar and cognac luncheon, Mollet made a toast urging increased communication between the western powers and the Communist bloc. He called on Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin to employ the press, radio and movies and free travel "without prejudice and without concern for propaganda."

French sources said Bulganin's reply was "very cordial."

"Exchange and meeting of ideas and of knowledge would be profitable for all—I repeat —for all, just as much for French citizens as for Soviet citizens," Mollet said.

"We have much to learn from each other . . . to break down the barriers which are raised against free movement of ideas and of men is to work for peace."

The luncheon followed a 2½ hour opening session of conversations between the French and Soviet premiers. Also participating were Foreign Ministers Christian Pineau of France and Russia's V. M. Molotov.

At the luncheon were Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party secretary; Molotov; deputy premiers Lazar M. Kaganovich, Maxim Saburov and Georgi Malenkov, and members of the Communist party presidium Ekatrina Furtseva and Dmitri Shepilov.

Mollet, the first top political figure from the Big Three western powers to visit Moscow since World War II, arrived yesterday.

Faced with continuing rebellion in Algeria, Mollet plans to return home Sunday. Pineau is scheduled to extend his visit until May 24, visiting Armenia, Kiev and Leningrad.

The ambassadors of France's two western partners—Britain's Sir William Hayter and the United States' Charles E. Bohlen—were watching the progress of the talks with close attention. It was reported that the embassies of all powers allied with France were making arrangements to be kept informed of developments.

Another keenly interested party was West Germany's Ambassador Wilhelm Haas. It was understood that Mollet will explore the problem of German reunification.

All Soviet newspapers today printed long front-page stories of Mollet's arrival and photographs of welcoming ceremonies at the airport. There was no editorial comment, although the Communist party newspaper Pravda carried an article urging more trade between France and the Soviet Union.

WOLFSON OFFERS TO SELL INTEREST IN CAPITAL TRANSIT

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) —Representative Harris (Dem.), Arkansas, said yesterday that Louis E. Wolfson has offered to sell his interest in Capital Transit Co. at a "fair and reasonable price" if "the same offer is made to all stockholders."

Harris is chairman of a House Commerce subcommittee. Wolfson is controlling stockholder and chairman of the board of the transit company which operates street cars and busses in Washington.

Congress last year ordered the company's franchise revoked in August of this year following a prolonged strike. Another bill to restore the franchise is scheduled for House action today.

REPAIRMAN 'FIXES' RADIO DURING TEST BLACKOUT

BOISE, Idaho, May 16 (AP) —Idaho's radio stations went off the air for 15 minutes yesterday in a state-wide broadcast blackout during national radio week.

Broadcasters said they wanted to show listeners what life would be like without radio.

One radio repairman in Boise, unaware of the observance, was called to fix a radio during the blackout. He said he took the set apart and installed a new set of tubes before he discovered nothing was wrong with it.

STEVENSON AT U. OF OREGON TALKS A GOOD 4-MINUTE MILE

EUGENE, Ore., May 16 (AP) —Adlai Stevenson, campaigning last night at the University of Oregon, drew a big hand by congratulating Jim Bailey, the university's distance runner, who recently ran the mile in 3 minutes 58.6 seconds. Senator Estes Kefauver had spoken to the same meeting earlier.

Stevenson remarked: "I don't know the political equivalent of the four-minute mile, but whatever it is, both Senator Kefauver and myself have equaled it in recent days."

Actor, Wife, Injured in Crash.

TERRACINA, Italy, May 16 (AP) — American movie actor Richard Basehart and his actress wife Valentina Cortese were injured slightly today in a three-way crash of his automobile, a police truck and a fire truck which killed two policemen. Also injured were 10 police and firemen and an unidentified friend riding with the Baseharts.

U.S. LOADING SHIP WITH MUNITIONS FOR SAUDI ARABIA

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) —The Defense Department said today a shipment of military equipment, chiefly ammunition and spare mechanical parts, is now being loaded at Sunny Point, N. C., for delivery to Saudi Arabia.

A spokesman told of the shipment when asked about a New York Post news story which said the 6714-ton freighter Monterey was taking on a military cargo for Saudi Arabia including huge crates lettered in red, white and blue: "From USA for mutual defense."

The spokesman said the shipment was part of an order by the Arab country that was approved months ago. Like the shipment in February of 18 M-41 Walker Bulldog light tanks, he said, it was paid for by Saudi Arabia and approved by the United States Government under the terms of an agreement made last year.

The Pentagon declined to give specific information about the supplies now being loaded.

A State Department press officer, Lincoln White, said however the value was less than $1,000,000 and that the shipment did not include any major weapons such as tanks or jet planes.

The tank shipment left New York on Feb. 20 after President Eisenhower lifted a temporary embargo that had been imposed by the State Department in view of the tense situation in the Middle East.

15 KILLED AS PASSENGER PLANE CRASHES IN NEPAL

KATMANDU, May 16 (UP)— Nepalese officials placed the death toll from Katmandu's first passenger plane crash at 15 today.

They said 14 of the dead were passengers. The fifteenth was a woman living in a house into which the Indian Airlines DC-3 crashed when it overshot the runway yesterday.

There were no foreigners aboard the plane.

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)— The number of long distance telephone calls placed here on Mother's day was almost double the average for a spring Sunday. The New York Telephone Co. said 200,172 calls were made.

LEO L. SPEARS, CHIROPRACTIC HOSPITAL OPERATOR, DIES

DENVER, May 16 (AP)—Leo L. Spears, a figure of controversy in the operation of his Spears Chiropractic Hospital, died today after a heart attack. He was 62 years old.

He was the chief figure in several court suits in which he sought damages totaling nearly $36,000,000. He never has been awarded a cent from any of the suits, although one still is pending before the Colorado Supreme Court.

Spears built his hospital in the early 1940's. When one of his early hospital patients died at his institution, Spears was charged with manslaughter. Acquitted, he sued state and city health officials for $300,000, charging malicious prosecution, but lost the suit.

He later brought, and also lost, a $500,000 libel suit against a Denver doctor, and a $24,000,000 libel suit against Colliers Magazine. An $11,000,000 conspiracy suit he brought against the Denver Post has been carried to the Colorado Supreme Court.

PAINTER FOR THE PUBS DIES

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—Austin Osman Spare, eccentric painter who preferred exhibiting his pictures in pubs rather than in the Royal Academy, died yesterday. He was 69 years old.

Spare was hailed as a painter of genius at the age of 17 when the Royal Academy accepted his first picture for hanging. He refused to submit any more, explaining: "I'd rather show them to the people in the pubs."

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Stobie, 73 years old, retired in January 1955 after working for 34 years in the office of the City License Collector. His wife is 69. The pair has a son, a daughter and three grandchildren.

HOUSE UNIT VOTES TO CUT AID TO BELGRADE BY HALF

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) —Chairman Richards (Dem.), South Carolina, said today the House Foreign Affairs Committee voted to cut by one-half the $30,000,000 in United States economic aid to Yugoslavia next year.

The committee action, its first closed session decision on President Eisenhower's $4,900,000,000 aid bill, cut from $78,700,000 to $63,700,000 the amount of defense support funds in the bill programmed for Europe in the year beginning next July 1.

Yugoslavia had been allotted $30,000,000 out of the current year's aid program, the same amount as the Administration had promised for next year.

Richards did not give reasons for the committee action. Some committee members voiced concern over what they regarded as Yugoslav Premier Josip (Tito) Broz's growing "neutralism" toward the free world and increasing friendliness toward the Russians.

SENATOR CHARGES RULING 'GAGS' POSTAL EMPLOYES

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) —Senator Pat McNamara (Dem.), Mich., says the Post Office Department has invoked a "gag rule" to stifle employe criticism.

He referred to a section in a new postal manual forbidding employes to engage "in campaigns for or against changes in the service" without special permission of the department.

McNamara said this could be interpreted only as "a deliberate attempt to stifle constructive criticism or opinions of postal employes."

Soviet Envoy Relieved.

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—The Soviet Ambassador to Luxembourg, Ivanovich Avilov, has been relieved of his post, the Moscow radio said yesterday. No reason was given. Ivan Alexandrovich Melnick has been appointed in his place, the broadcast said.

INDONESIA CHIEF IN U.S. DELIGHTS AIRPORT CROWD

Kisses Elderly Woman, Pats Children and Introduces Self to Timid Boy.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP) —President Sukarno of Indonesia arrived here today on an 18-day good-will visit, and promptly proved that United States politicians have no monopoly on the baby-kissing technique.

Sukarno delighted the crowd at an official welcoming ceremony by leaving his limousine to shake hands with some of his well-wishers. He kissed an elderly woman on the cheek, patted several children on the head and introduced himself to a timid 5-year-old boy in a cowboy suit..

Sukarno went from the airport to the White House to be greeted by President Eisenhower.

The visitor, who arrived at National airport in Mr. Eisenhower's plane, the Columbine III, was met by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and other officials.

He told them he expects his visit "will lead to a real understanding and a real friendship" between his strategic Asian country and the United States.

Nixon called Sukarno the George Washington of his country and said it was "a very great privilege to welcome" him to the United States.

At the White House, Mr. Eisenhower and Sukarno posed for photographers, then went to the state dining room for luncheon.

Sukarno, who speaks five languages, chatted easily with Mr. Eisenhower in English.

The United States is going all out to make a good impression on Sukarno because Indonesia's friendship is considered vital to the effort to check Communist advances in the Far East.

The Indonesian president will remain in Washington until Saturday and then begin a nationwide tour. He leaves for Canada June 3.

Sukarno, who has only one name but two wives, avoided any diplomatic trouble by leaving his wives at home.

A graduate engineer and student of political movements, he is known as the "father of his country." Indonesia gained independence from the Dutch less than seven years ago.

His visit to the United States is his first trip outside the Moslem world. He is carefully keeping his nation on a neutralist course to avoid any entanglements during Indonesia's infancy as an independent nation.

JAPANESE FIND SPILT TEA HELPS CATCH RED FISH

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP) —A Japanese official has accidentally discovered a new method of negotiating with the Russians.

Just spill some tea.

What happened next is described in a Moscow radio broadcast.

"It is a good sign in the Soviet Union to spill tea on an occasion like this," Bulganin soothed his guest. "The talks will surely come to a successful end," he added.

Soviet negotiators, at first willing to allow Japanese fishermen to take only 25,000,000 fish annually in a restricted area, later agreed to the Japanese proposal of 45,000,000 to 50,000,000 fish.

3 OF 4 FAMILIES HAVE TV

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP) —About three out of every four American families had television sets in the early part of this year, the Census Bureau reported yesterday. The bureau said 35,000,000 families had one or more TV sets last February. There are 45,000,000 households in the country.

POLISH-BORN DOCTOR LEAVES $2,000,000 TO CHARITIES

NEW YORK, May 16 (UP)— Twenty-one charities last week received nearly $2,000,000 from the estate of a Polish-born doctor who died, widowed and childless, in 1953 at the age of 91.

Dr. Max Einhorn, who arrived in this country in 1884, left an estate valued at about $3,000,000, his attorneys said.

Two Russian nieces of the doctor, Drs. Lise and Dora Einhorn, attempted to gain control of the entire estate, but settled for $90,000. The compromise money, however, is being held by the surrogate's court here, pending proof the two women will actually receive the money. The charities will receive additional money when the remainder of the estate is fully settled.

U.S. PAYMENT TO U.N. FUND

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 16 (AP) — The United States gave the United Nations Children's fund $1,742,850 yesterday in part payment of both 1955 and 1956 pledges.

The United States has agreed to put $9,000,000 into the 1955 fund provided its contribution is not more than 60 per cent of the total. It has agreed to put $9,700,000 into the 1956 fund provided its contribution is not more than 57½ per cent of the total.

CHARGE BY BAR GROUP AGAINST SENATE ASPIRANT

Wisconsin Ex-Speaker Accused of Taking Money From Convicts for Favors.

MADISON, Wis., May 16 (AP) — The Wisconsin state board of bar commissioners today accused Republican United States Senate candidate Mark Catlin Jr. of accepting money from prison inmates for favors.

The board filed the allegations of improper conduct against Catlin with the Wisconsin State Supreme Court and asked the court to discipline him if the charges are proved true.

The Supreme Court gave Catlin, speaker of the State Assembly in 1955, 20 days to answer the complaint.

The commissioners filed four charges alleging that the well-known politician accepted $5725 from three inmates at Waupun state prison and further amounts not specified from five other prisoners or their families to use his influence to win their freedom.

Catlin, 45 years old, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Senate seat now held by Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep.), Wisconsin.

Shortly after the bar announcement was made it was learned that Catlin's father, Mark Catlin Sr., 74, former Republican Assemblyman, had died of a heart attack on a parking lot in Appleton on the way to the law office he occupied with his son. Apparently the elder Catlin died without knowing about the accusation against his son.

The board described the charges as neither civil nor criminal, but a "disciplinary action." State law gives the State Supreme Court power to make a decision in such cases.

The board in its first charge against Catlin said that he "by his words, acts and conduct, induced one Frank Fazio to believe that defendant (Catlin) because of his prominent standing, acquaintance, and relations with public officials, and his political influence and position could procure favorable consideration of a petition of an executive clemency for Louis Fazio, an inmate in the state prison, and without correcting such belief, secured for himself payment of an excessive and extortionate sum of money by Frank Fazio, which defendant (Catlin) accepted, knowing that it was paid to him with the corrupt intention of influencing official conduct."

Louis Fazio was convicted of murder in Kenosha in 1946 and sentenced to life in prison.

CHARTER BOARD MEMBERS TAKE OATHS, RECEIVE COMMISSIONS

Congratulated by Mayor Who Offers Them Facilities of City—Temporary Officers to Be Named.

The newly elected board of charter freeholders held its first meeting today at City Hall where the 13 members were handed their commissions and were sworn in by Mrs. Lucille Darst, city registrar.

After assembling in the office of Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, they received the congratulations of the Mayor, who told them their election was an expression of the confidence of the people of St. Louis.

The Mayor offered the board whatever facilities of the city they might need and expressed the hope he would have the privilege of meeting with them just as any other citizen would whenever their deliberations touched a matter of interest to him.

To Name Chairman.

It was expected the board would name a temporary chairman and secretary to handle the board's preliminary organization and set up a committee to prepare rules under which it will conduct deliberations.

The new board also will be urged to name promptly a budget committee, to prepare an estimate of the anticipated expenses of its study. The board is permitted to employ legal and clerical assistants.

The board has one year from the date of its election to complete its work. It may draft a proposed new charter, or it can propose an amendment or series of amendments to revise the present charter.

Its recommendations, however, will not become effective unless approved by the city's voters in another election. Under terms of the ordinance authorizing the election of freeholders, the Board of Aldermen reserved the right to fix the date of a subsequent election on a charter revision proposal or proposals.

Legal Question Raised.

A question was raised yesterday of the legal right of the new freeholders to be sworn in before they filed reports showing their personal expenses in the election. Associate City Counselor Charles Dolan, who checked the matter, held that the administration of the oaths of office did not have to be delayed for this reason, since the freeholders were duly elected and their certificates of election have been issued.

Personal campaign expenses of the new freeholders are thought to have been negligible, since the bulk of expenses in their behalf were paid by the St. Louis Citizens Charter Committee, headed by Tom K. Smith, which sponsored the winning slate of candidates.

The Municipal Reference Library has prepared kits of material for the board's information. They contain a transcript of the deliberations of the 1949-50 charter board of freeholders, including copies of committee reports and legal opinions.

No decision has been reached on space to be used by the board. A list of the available space in several municipal buildings will be turned over to the board, so that its temporary officers and other members may visit the locations and decide which would be preferable.

List of Members.

Members of the new charter board are C. B. Broussard, Negro, an elementary school principal; Frederick E. Busse, attorney; John F. X. Callanan, office manager; Major B. Einstein, banker; David M. Grant, Negro, attorney; Dr. Ralph A. Kinsella, physician; Mel H. Krah, former alderman and a sales engineer; John J. Nally, business representative of the tile layers' union; Henry B. Pflager, attorney; Mrs. Conrad Sommer, housewife and former president of the St. Louis League of Women Voters; George L. Stemmler, former city counselor; William A. Webb, executive secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Union, and Frank L. G. Weiss, hardware store owner.

The Mayor's office reported that educational television station KETC had requested permission to televise some of the charter board's hearings and debates. The request will be turned over to the board.

Touring Trumans Arrive in Paris; Met by Cheers and 200 Newsmen

Associated Press Radiophoto.

Former President HARRY TRUMAN beaming at crowd on his arrival at Paris today for the start of a seven-week tour of Europe.

Ex-President Enjoys Limelight Despite Crush and Lame Foot—Makes Some Sharp Remarks About Russia.

PARIS, May 16 (AP)—Former President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman arrived today for a seven-week tour of Europe.

They reached Paris by train from Le Havre where they arrived earlier on the liner United States.

A crowd of at least 200 newsmen and photographers crushed in on Truman at St. Lazare station, showering him with questions in the light of flashbulbs. Truman, carrying a shiny black cane and favoring a foot lamed about two weeks ago, obviously enjoyed himself despite the jostling. He responded to the cheers of several hundred bystanders, mostly Americans, by waving his hat.

Still Skeptical About Rusisans.

Truman told reporters "I will believe it when I see it," when asked about Soviet Russia's announced plan to cut its armed forces by 1,200,000 men.

Asked if he thought the cold war was over, Truman said:

"I don't know. I don't have the Central Intelligence Agency working for me."

Would he support New York's Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman for the presidency?

"Of course, if he is nominated," Truman said.

He added that he wasn't supporting anyone in particular in advance of the Democratic national convention. He said he will certainly not run himself, "never again."

The questioning continued that by reporters who talked with Truman in the lounge of the liner as it nosed into Le Havre.

Had a Good Crossing.

"The crossing couldn't have been better," Truman told reporters. He looked fresh and rested after the five-day trip.

Asked if he thought President Eisenhower would win a second term, Truman replied:

"I'm not doing any crystal gazing but I'm going to try to beat him."

He said he would campaign for the Democrats if the national committee asked him. He then quickly added with assurance, "I judge there's some chance they will."

He refused to indorce any particular Democratic candidate and repeatedly denied any political ambitions "except to elect a Democratic president."

Asked if he trusted the Russians, Truman snapped "no" and said:

"The first year I was in office they broke 32 agreements with me."

The former President, visiting Europe for the first time as a tourist, will go to Rome tomorrow and later to Austria, West Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands and England. He is to visit Sir Winston Churchill and Prime Minister Eden but said he had nothing in particular to discuss with them.

WOMEN VOTERS WATCH STRANGE ELECTION BIRDS

A skit lampooning candidates for public office was on the menu yesterday for the Downtown Luncheon Group of the League of Women Voters at Bishop Tuttle Memorial, 1210 Locust street.

The skit was "An Election Year Bird-Watcher's Walk" and featured such well known "birds" as the hairy-chested back slapper, whose call is "Hiya, Bub," and the duck-billed platitude, who looked like a mocking bird.

The skit, received by much applause, was written by Miss Elaine Pautler and Miss Mary Furey. They were assisted by Miss Ellen Tenny and Mrs. R. A. Dunlap.

Another bird seen on the "tour" across the stage was the aldermanic job-trader, who sang: "One thing that makes me nervous is that divil Civil Service."

GAITSKELL ARRIVES IN U.S.

NEW YORK, May 16 (UP)—British Labor Party Chairman Hugh Gaitskell arrived by plane from London today for a one-week stay in the United States.

Highlights of his visit will be an address tomorrow to the International Ladies Garment Workers Union convention in Atlantic City, N.J., and a talk with President Eisenhower in Washington next Tuesday.

RUSH-HOUR BAR ON PARKING LIFTED IN EAST ST. LOUIS

An ordinance which prohibited parking during the evening rush hour on three streets in downtown East St. Louis was repealed today by the City Council. Downtown merchants had complained that the parking bar hurt business.

Mayor Alvin G. Fields said a survey by the merchants indicated that the ordinance had caused severe loss of trade. Some business men had moved to other parts of the city because of the bar, he added.

The council adopted the ordinance last July 6, in an effort to ease traffic congestion from 4 to 6 p.m. Weekday parking on both sides of Broadway and St. Louis and Missouri avenue between Third and Tenth streets was prohibited during those hours. Fields said from 25 to 50 persons a day parked in the area despite the ordinance and were fined.

SENATORS BEAT PLANS TO WIDEN SOCIAL SECURITY

Rejected Amendments Provided Food Stamp Setup, More Aid to Needy.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—Advocates of increased social security and public assistance benefits lost a series of votes in the Senate Finance Committee today. With the votes, the committee practically completed action on a House-passed social security bill.

The committee rejected 8 to 4 an amendment by Senator Russell B. Long (Dem.), Louisiana, to increase assistance grants to the aged needy by raising the federal grants to the state for this purpose.

It defeated 9 to 5 a proposal by Senator Robert S. Kerr (Dem.), Oklahoma, to establish a food stamp plan under which $10 a month worth of Government surplus foods would go to needy old persons and others on the assistance and unemployment compensation rolls.

Broadening Beaten.

And, by 11 to 3 votes, the committee decided to stick by its decisions of last week stripping from the bill two major provisions broadening social security voted by the House.

These would establish a program of payments for persons totally disabled at age 50 or higher and lower the retirement age from 65 to 62 for single women and wives of retired husbands.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, voted with a solid bloc of Republicans on the committee against the Long and Kerr amendments and against changing the group's position on disability and a lowered retirement age for women.

The committee decided last week to give the 62 retirement age only to widows. That was unchanged today, and the group decided to make this effective in September 1956.

Byrd said his committee had now completed its work on the bill except for a few "odds and ends." It will meet on it again next Tuesday to send it to the Senate floor.

Long Confident.

Long told reporters he was confident his amendment would be written into the bill on the Senate floor since it has 46 co-sponsors, only two less than half the full Senate membership.

The amendment would mean at least a $5 a month increase in the monthly checks now received by about 2,550,000 aged persons over the country. These are the recipients of assistance grants, not those entitled to social security payments.

Secretary of Welfare Marion B. Folsom told the committee the Administration opposes the amendment. He said it would cost the Treasury more than $200,000,000 a year.

Senate Democratic Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas indicated yesterday the floor battle may be delayed. He scheduled social security legislation for debate after both farm and highway construction bills.

CITY CHECKING UP ON COKING PLANT AFTER PROTEST

Officials Start Study After Citizens Complain to Mayor About Smoke, Fumes.

A complete survey of the coking plant of Great Lakes Carbon Co. to determine what can be done about reported excessive coal dust and smoke in the area around South Broadway and the city limits was under way today.

Smoke Commissioner James H. Carter, Deputy Health Commissioner C. M. Copley Jr. and a fly ash expert from the city began the survey shortly after a group of residents from the area visited Mayor Raymond R. Tucker today to protest against the fumes and smoke.

The residents, accompanied by Democratic Alderman Albert Villa of the Eleventh Ward, also protested against excessive amounts of sulphuric acid fumes from the National Lead Co. titanium pigment plant, which is just outside city limits.

'Difficult to Breathe'

They told Tucker in the presence of Carter and Copley that the acid fumes and coal dust from the two plants was making it "difficult for them to breathe, pitting paint on their homes and automobiles and eating up plants and shrubs."

Women members of the group said they had complained to Great Lakes Carbon many times about the coal dust. One woman quoted a company official as saying to her "We are bigger than the city of St. Louis."

Another resident told the Mayor: "Both companies seem to think we residents are trying to get them to buy our property, but we want to keep our homes." Another resident said the company had told her to buy an air conditioner after she complained about the dust and fumes.

Committee Appointed.

At Tucker's request the residents appointed a committee of five which met with Carter and Copley immediately following the protest meeting this morning to "get to the bottom of the complaints."

A representative of the city smoke control office told the Post-Dispatch much of the coking equipment at the Great Lakes Carbon plant is "more than 45 years old and has seen its day and generation." He added: "We think we can take care of the coal dust situation." The plant is at 526 East Catalan street.

The representative said since the National Lead Co. pigment plant is outside the city limits, steps would be taken with St. Louis county officials after the problem at Great Lakes Carbon is corrected. Following completion of their survey, Carter and Copley will report directly to Mayor Tucker.

FLORIDA AUTO DEALER FINDS DYNAMITE WIRED TO IGNITION

WINTER PARK, Fla., May 16 (UP) — A wealthy automobile dealer found six sticks of dynamite wired to the ignition of his automobile here today but the explosive failed to go off.

Police evacuated residents over a three block area and called demolition experts from Pinecastle Air Force Base at nearby Orlando to remove the explosives.

Walter T. Sumners said that he was going to take his two younger children, Jerry, 12 years old, and Vicki, 10, to school this morning but his automobile failed to start. He shut off the ignition and looked under the hood.

"I discovered the wiring and six sticks of dynamite," he told Sheriff Dave Starr.

CHANGES PLEA TO GUILTY OF INCOME TAX EVASION

Richard H. Schneider, a former pinball machine distributor, yesterday changed his plea of not guilty to guilty of income tax evasion, in United States District Court at East St. Louis. He is charged with evading $9267 in taxes in the years 1949 through 1952.

District Judge Fred L. Wham set no date for sentencing Schneider, who is at liberty on $5000 bond. A charge of making false statements to an Internal Revenue Service agent was dismissed.

Schneider and Everett Smith, his former partner in the East Side Service Co., were indicted jointly last month. Smith's plea of not guilty stands.

AUXILIARY POLICE, FIREMEN FINISH TRAINING COURSE

Pinball Machines Barred.

TACOMA, Wash., May 16 (AP) — Tacoma's city council voted 7-2 to bar pinball machines on the grounds they are a public nuisance. Police Chief Roy Kerr estimated the annual gross of the machines in the city at $2,000,000.

COMMITTEE OK'S POSTAL INCREASE ON NEWSPAPERS

Tentative Approval Also on Third Class Hike — Letter Rate Vote Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP)—The House Post Office committee today voted tentatively to increase postal rates for newspapers and magazines. The increases would be graduated over five years.

The committee, meeting in closed session, also voted the 30 per cent increase for third-class mail as recommended by the Post Office Department.

The committee plans to consider tomorrow Administration recommendations to increase first-class letters from 3 to 4 cents and air mail from 6 to 7 cents. After that, the committee will vote on the entire bill again.

The five-year graduated increase for second class mail was proposed by Representative John Lesinski Jr. (Dem.), Michigan.

It would increase rates on reading material in newspapers and magazines by stages from the present 1.95 cents a pound to 2.5 cents a pound.

It would increase the rates on advertising material in the publications from the present 1.95 cents a pound to 4.3 cents, with the 4.3-cent rate applying to the farthest zones.

The administration had recommended increasing second-class rates 15 per cent a year for two-years without regard to the amount of advertising material.

The Administration recommendation would have increased second class mail revenues about $34,000,000. Lesinski's proposal, it was estimated, would increase postal revenues by $43,500,000 a year after the five-year period. This would be an increase of $5,500,000 for reading material and $38,000,000 for the advertising content.

REPORT THAT MARGARET WILL MARRY PRINCE DENIED

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—The royal family today officially denied that Princess Margaret is likely to become engaged to Prince Christian of Hannover. The 35-year-old prince, German-born director of a London shipping firm, issued a similar denial.

Rumors that an engagement was likely had been published by several London newspapers. The royal family rarely comments on rumors about private affairs of its members. But in this case it decided to put a prompt official stop to speculation.

TESTIFIES MOORE CHARGED LAWYER USED INFLUENCE

after returning from a conference with Newcomb in St. Louis on the case.

"He said he had heard you (Newcomb) had called me down and he asked what happened," the witness said, telling of his telephone conversation with Schwimmer. "I told him I didn't think I should fill him in on the telephone but he insisted."

Sheffrey said he then told Schwimmer of information he gave to Newcomb about comments Schwimmer once made relative to the giving of an oil royalty to Caudle, who was head of the Justice Department's tax division at the time Sachs was being considered for prosecution.

"He said: 'No, Dave, you're all wrong,'" Sheffrey testified. "'That's not the way it happened. Caudle was interested in getting some oil shares and I got them for him. He couldn't pay and I had to take them back.'"

Schwimmer called again the following day, this time from New York, and said he was "terribly worried" about Sheffrey, the witness related.

"I asked him why," Sheffrey said. "He said: 'About what the bar association will do when they find out you stayed in a case in which you knew something was all wrong. I'm worried about myself, too.'

"I told him all I could do was to take the stand and testify to the best of my recollection and he said: 'Dave, you are way off base'."

In describing his conversation with Schwimmer relating to an oil royalty for Caudle, Sheffrey said: "Mr. Schwimmer told me he wanted to do something for Mr. Caudle. He told me of his respect and admiration for Caudle.

"He said Mr. Caudle wouldn't do anything for him on the merits of the (Sachs) case, that Mr. Caudle was adamant, but he was as respectful of a taxpayers' rights as of the Government's position."

'Must Be Crazy.'

Continuing, Sheffrey testified: "Schwimmer made a suggestion about an oil royalty and I told him he must be crazy. I told him he couldn't do anything like that. He said an oil royalty could be put in another name. I said: 'You can see there's something wrong if you have to put it in a fictitious name.'

"Schwimmer thanked me. I gave him an example of how it might be traced, telling him how a $1000 bill in payment for something could be traced and perhaps not be explained under questioning.

"I told him that his real duty to his client should be such that he shouldn't do anything like that, that it was only Mr. Caudle's duty.

"Schwimmer told me that attorneys in the Department of Justice got little compensation and didn't make fees like private attorneys and he said that was why he wanted to do something for Caudle."

'Got Rid of Stuff.'

A few days later, Sheffrey said, Schwimmer again brought up the subject, saying: "Dave, I got rid of that stuff." The witness stated he told Schwimmer he was glad.

Judge Hulen broke in to ask: "What do you mean by 'that stuff'?"

"I assume he referred to oil shares or oil royalties and I took him to mean he had sold them on the market or transferred them to another name," Sheffrey replied.

The Government, in its opening statement, said it will show that Schwimmer purchased a $3300 oil royalty for Caudle. Testimony has been introduced concerning Schwimmer's plan to purchase an oil royalty for Connelly.

Earlier, Sheffrey told the jury in United States District Judge Rubey M. Hulen's court that Schwimmer had boasted of his "contacts" in Washington and said he had "access to Government departments."

Sheffrey, who was retained in 1947 to help Sachs, described a conference in Kansas City Dec. 27, 1949, attended by himself, Sachs, Schwimmer and Ben L. Shifrin, a St. Louis attorney.

Thought He Could Help.

Schwimmer, who had just been asked to participate in the tax evasion case, told Sachs and Shifrin he wanted them to know he thought he could be of help, the witness said.

"Schwimmer said he had access to Government departments and had contacts in Washington so that the department heads would talk to him, but he told them not to expect any miracles," Sheffrey testified.

Sheffrey, retained as co-counsel in the Sachs case since 1947, said he recommended that Schwimmer be employed after it became evident the case was to be sent to Washington for final decision.

The witness acknowledged that he knew of no tax evasion case that Schwimmer, who had a law office in the same building, had handled prior to the Sachs matter. Sheffrey also stated he never handled any legal business in conjunction with Schwimmer.

Schwimmer wanted to know why the case was then being considered by the Internal Revenue Bureau in Kansas City and declared he wanted to see Frederick Seltzer, a Government attorney handling the case there.

Newcomb asked: "Did Schwimmer say in substance that he wanted to see Seltzer because he didn't want it said when he went to Washington that he was retained only because of his connections?"

"That is not the way I would express it," Sheffrey replied. "I would say he wanted to confer with Seltzer as a matter of propriety."

Sheffrey, recalling his conversation with Schwimmer about the Sachs case then being in Kansas City, testified:

"He said it was important for him to know that because a New York gambler had tried to retain him and he knew the only reason the gambler had done so was to try to cash in on his acquaintance with people in the Administration in Washington."

'Not For Sale.'

The witness quoted Schwimmer as saying this acquaintanceship was "not for sale."

Recommendations made by Internal Revenue Bureau officials for prosecution of the Sachs case have been placed in the trial record.

Memoranda sent the Bureau's chief counsel by the director and assistant director of its penal division, stating there was clear evidence of fraud in Sach's income tax returns, were introduced by the Government yesterday.

Theodore C. Uhler, who retired in 1951 as assistant in charge of the Internal Revenue Bureau's penal division, identified on the witness stand a memorandum he sent in 1948 to Charles Oliphant, then the Bureau's chief counsel, recommending the Sachs case be turned over to the Justice Department for prosecution.

Uhler, in his memorandum, stated he concurred with Oliphant's opinion there had been fraud in the tax returns and the taxpayer had not made voluntary disclosures entitling him to make a civil settlement.

Another memorandum, expressing the same conclusion, sent to Oliphant by E. Riley Campbell, then head of the penal division, was identified by Uhler.

Another Government witness, David Skeer, also a Kansas City attorney, quoted Schwimmer as saying he would "call Connelly in Washington" after receiving a letter from Oliphant regarding the Sachs case.

HOUSE APPROVES $2,640,000 FUND FOR RIVERFRONT

Bridges One of Friends.

Among these "friends," Peters said, is Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, a G. O. P. leader in the Senate. Curtis said he believes Gross and other opponents of the memorial receive material from Peters.

A general belief that railroad interests have blocked the memorial project has prevailed among its House sponsors during the prolonged fight for federal funds, but their efforts to prove this have been unsuccessful.

Gross, who raised a point of order against the appropriation when it first came up in the House, told the Post-Dispatch at that time that he had had no correspondence or dealings with any St. Louis railroad.

As approved by the House today, the $2,640,000 would "remain available until expended." Gross's point of order had stricken this provision from the bill, raising the possibility that the federal funds would have to be obligated in the form of binding contracts by June 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

$360,000 for Northwest.

The Senate deleted all funds for the memorial but gave the park service $360,000 for work in the Pacific Northwest, with the money "to remain available until expended." A Senate-House conference committee restored the House figure of $3,000,000 and retained the Senate language.

The conference committee report, accepted by the House today, thus would give St. Louis $2,640,000 with no strings attached. The report now will go to the Senate for approval or disapproval.

The House debated for an hour and a half before approving the conference committee report on a supplemental appropriation bill containing the memorial funds. The supplemental measure covers various Government activities.

Opening debate on the riverfront appropriation, Curtis pointed out that the bill which originally authorized the project had provided that no federal funds could be sought until the national budget was balanced. This requirement was met when President Eisenhower submitted a balanced budget this year, he added.

Bare Area 20 Years.

Citing the long delay in winning approval of the project, Curtis told the House: "for 20 years now we have had in the heart of downtown St. Louis this bare area where buildings were razed to make room for the memorial." He said the city had done its part by voting bonds to pay its share of the cost.

Opposing the appropriation, Gross said: "This is a question of whether Congress wants to embark on a policy of providing funds for the City of St. Louis or any other city for local improvements."

"The taxpayers of the country would be putting up money for the benefit of St. Louis," he declared.

NO FIREWORKS AS STEVENSON, KEFAUVER MEET

men did not bring it to its greatness. Such men cannot serve America well now, when we stand on the threshold of the age of our greatest promise, the age in which the guns can be permanently stilled, poverty routed once and for all, and the human spirit at last set free."

Kefauver and Stevenson at times sounded as though they were reading each other's speeches in the spacious court.

"We must begin at once to prepare our economy for peacetime existence," said Kefauver. "This the Eisenhower Administration has failed to do."

"On the record of more than three years in office," said Stevenson, "the Eisenhower Administration must be characterized as one that has attempted little, gained little and lost much."

Kefauver: "One of the next President's first tasks will be to recapture for America the respect of other nations."

Stevenson: "It is a shameful irony that loud talk, bad manners and saber rattle, not to mention Soviet propaganda, have left many sensitive people around the world with the impression that it is the United States, not Russia, that is the peril to peace."

Both candidates urged nonviolent acceptance of the Supreme Court decision on racial integration in public schools.

Kefauver pledged that if he became President "I will do my level best" to protect the rights of all Americans, irrespective of color, race or religion.

Stevenson said the Supreme Court decision "points not only in the right way but the inevitable way—toward the elimination of discrimination in all its forms in this land of freedom."

Kefauver Praises Morse.

Earlier in the day at Grants Pass, Kefauver spoke of his warm friendship for Morse.

Kefauver said he thought such a statement was necessary because Marvin T. Warlick, Lane county (Eugene) Democratic chairman, had said that Morse was "too controversial" to introduce Stevenson and Kefauver at the Eugene meeting.

Kefauver did not agree and said he was delighted to have Morse make the introductions.

So was Stevenson, whose backers had rebuked Warlick earlier for his statement.

Stevenson, who covered eastern Oregon yesterday while Kefauver toured the southern area, planned final visits today to Coos Bay and Roseburg. He continues on into Eureka and Redding in northern California.

Both Democratic contenders showed the wear of recent hard traveling in Oregon and California, where they are competing in a big one for 68 delegates June 5. They face another tough contest in Florida (28 delegates) May 29.

RULING AWAITED IN P.S. CO. FARE BOOST DISPUTE

City Declares Increase Is Unfair When Company Withholds Bus Receipts Tax.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 16—Two motions by the city of St. Louis to set aside the recent transit fare increase for St. Louis Public Service Co., and to reopen the case to fix reasonable fares and a new rate-making base, were taken under advisement late yesterday by the Public Service Commission.

Chairman Tyre W. Burton said the commission will rule later whether it will grant the city's request to throw out the $450,000 annual fare increase granted last Feb. 24, and again consider the issues of fare and valuation.

"We called this informal conference on the motions to obtain some enlightenment," Burton said.

Counsel for the city and Public Service Co. engaged in several sharp exchanges concerning the company's surprise move last March 30, five weeks after the fare increase, in attacking validity of the city's 5 per cent gross receipts tax on bus fares. The suit is pending in St. Louis circuit court.

$750,000 a Year.

This move by the company, which resulted in the city's retaliatory moves to wipe out the fare increase and start over on fares and valuation, would deprive the city of about $750,000 a year in tax revenue, if the courts uphold the company attack on the levy.

Acting City Counselor James V. Frank and Associate City Counselor Forrest G. Ferris Jr., in support of the city's motions, told the commission it would be unfair to the transit riders for this increase to remain in effect while the company refuses to pay the tax.

Frank pointed out the tax was one of the operating expense elements considered by the commission in fixing the amount of the fare increase, but after obtaining the increase the company refused to pay the tax. If the tax were held invalid, he said, the company would be ahead the annual amount of the tax.

"You have no right to get that $450,000 fare increase and then renege on payment of the $750,000 tax," Frank told Gaylord C. Burke, vice president and general counsel for Public Service Co.

City Embarrassed.

Frank said the city was seriously embarrassed by refusal of the company to pay the current tax, due last Jan. 31. The company also has protested its payment of the tax for the previous year, as a means of recovery if the levy ordinance is held invalid.

Commissioner E. L. McClintock broke in to point out the company was still collecting the tax money through fares which were based on company operating costs, including the tax. "Then why doesn't the company pay the tax to the city, pending a decision," he asked.

Burke said the company had no intention of filing the tax suit at the time the fare case was being heard by the commission, and the decision was reached later.

"We are willing to pay the tax to the city," he said, "if we have any assurance that if the courts hold against the city, that the tax is invalid, we would get our money back."

Frank replied the city has no legal authority to agree to refund the money, if the tax were ruled out.

Earning 4 Per Cent.

Income of the company, Burke said, was below the fair standard for public utilities. Earnings in 1955 were about 4 per cent, "and are not as good as that now," he said.

"The city of St. Louis won't even let us have the right to earn the kind of return that is allowed to other public utilities," Burke said. "Until the tax case is determined, there is no justification for reopening the fare case. If the tax is knocked out, we can sit down and determine whether or not present fares are correct."

The city is also asking the commission to make a separate study of streetcar and bus operations, contending that "obsolete" rail equipment is given a weight for rate-making purposes out of proportion to the amount of revenue it yields.

JAPAN TO SELL HELMETS, PHONES TO SYRIAN ARMY

TOKYO, May 16 (AP)—The newspaper Yomiuri said yesterday that Japanese-made army helmets and field telephones will be sent to Syria in June.

It will be Japan's first shipment of any type of war goods to the troubled Middle East since Arab-Israeli tension began.

The paper said the Ministry of International Trade and Industry has authorized the Nichimen Jitsugo Co. of Tokyo to export 124 sets of portable telephones valued at $3488, and 34,000 steel helmets for the Syrian army.

RUSSIA SAID TO HELP EGYPT BUILD NUCLEAR LABORATORY

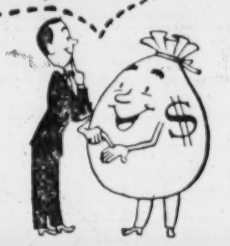

CAIRO, May 16 (UP)—The government weekly newspaper Al Tahrir yesterday reported Egyptian plans to build a nuclear laboratory with Soviet aid.

Al Tahrir said the foundation stone of the laboratory is expected to be laid "somewhere in Egypt" on July 23, fourth anniversary of the army coup d'etat which ousted King Farouk.

Some of the equipment for the laboratory has been delivered, the newspaper said, and Egyptian experts have returned home after completing their training "abroad."

BOY, DOG DIE TOGETHER INSIDE FARM ICE CHEST

HUTCHINSON, Kan., May 16 (AP)—A 6-year-old boy and his dog died together yesterday afternoon inside an ice chest.

They were found curled up inside the upright metal chest. The dog's body was covering the one small air vent into the box.

The boy was Throval L. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald L. Johnson. The accident occurred on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Sorenson, north of Hutchinson.

The boy and his dog were missing three hours before they were found by the boy's father in the chest in the yard.

BILL WOULD OUTLAW USE OF 'REPROCESSED' TOBACCO

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—Representative Frank Chelf (Dem.), Kentucky, yesterday introduced a bill to make it unlawful to manufacture cigars, cigarettes or other forms of tobacco for human use containing "reprocessed" tobacco stems, siftings, waste or leavings.

The legislation would be made a part of the federal food, drug and cosmetic act. It would provide penalties of not more than five years imprisonment or fines not exceeding $10,000 or both for violations.

JET PLANE DIVES ON CONVENT; 15 DEAD OR MISSING

Jets Engage in Practice.

After the jet climbed and identified the transport, the Air Force said, it and another CF-100 carried out practice interceptions at a higher altitude. It was last checked at an altitude of 33,000 feet.

The tragedy was the worst of its kind in Canada, since an Air Force bomber crashed into a Montreal tenement district in 1944, killing 16 persons.

Persons living nearby said the plane was afire when it rammed into the building at 10:15 p.m. With perhaps 40 feet more altitude, it might have cleared the building and plunged into the Ottawa river, they said.

Within seconds after the jet hit the convent, the building was a pyre. The explosion was heard 15 miles away.

"They never had a chance," one eyewitness said.

Sister Marie Des Martyrs, one of the last to leave the building, said flames almost block her exit but she managed to jump clear. She told a reporter:

"Strangely enough, there was no panic. We put on our slippers, slipped into our robes and made our way in orderly fashion to the fire exits."

Another Witness's Story.

Sister Marie said that the disaster might have been more serious if it had occurred during the summer, when occupants in the home number about 70.

"The whole building seemed to burst into flames at once," said Sister Louise Auguste, another survivor.

"It was horrible. I think everyone on the top floor must have been burned. Many on the ground floor also were unable to get out. It happened so fast . . . The whole building seemed to go up like a torch."

Screams of the trapped shrilled from the blazing building. Some of the nuns fought their way through the flames to safety.

At least one jumped. Rescuers saved others.

The dead priest was the Rev. Richard Ward of Toronto, assistant to the Roman Catholic chaplain of the Canadian Navy. He had been living at the convent and serving as chaplain to the nuns. He was 42 years old.

Hours after the crash, coal stored in the convent basement still fed the fire. Fire-blackened walls and a 40-foot chimney remained standing. A warped steel fire escape clung crazily to one wall.

The rest home, known as the Ville St. Louis convent, was the only large building in the small community of Hiawatha Park, near Orleans. Around it were open fields.

Firemen rushed to the blazing building, valued at $1,000,000, from nearby communities, the Air Force base and Ottawa. There was little they could do.

Crowds clogged the roads. Police kept thousands of onlookers a safe distance from the blaze.

One nun was taken to a hospital in Eastview, Ont., with a back injury. Some others were taken to Ottawa General Hospital. The remaining survivors were driven to the order's mother house in Ottawa.

AIR FORCE DROPS CONTRACTS FOR NEW INTERCEPTOR

jets the Navy has that are prepared to deliver" hydrogen and atomic bombs.

Wilson seemed to defend the right of his Navy and Air Force chiefs to dispute publicly the question of the Navy's strategic air capability. He said statements given to Congress "have not been completely contradictory." The Air Force last week described the Navy's strategic capability as "small." The Navy has tended to give it important characteristics, stressing the mobility of carriers.

Brief on Soviet Cuts.

The Secretary talked only briefly of the new Soviet reduction of military manpower. He said he was "not in a position to be sure" whether, if the reduction is fully carried out, Russia or the United States would have larger forces. He was inclined to credit technological developments with a major share in the Soviet move.

Wilson said the move seemed to be a "step in the right direction" but that it did not alter materially Russia's real military power and did not appear to "justify any appreciable change in our present military strength" or in world-wide United States military alliances.

Wilson repeatedly refused to act as umpire in the new rash of inter-service disputes. He said he would not like to "challenge" the Air Force argument that the long-range bomber can strike virtually any target in the world. Last week he told Congress naval air can "project our air power into certain areas where we might not otherwise be able to do so . . ."

Yesterday he also said he did not "want to get into an argument over" the meaning of the word "small" as it was used by the Air Force to describe the Navy's strategic bombing capability.

$150 FINE AS DRUNKEN DRIVER UPSET IN APPEAL

A charge of driving when intoxicated against Willis G. Woods, a paint mixer, of the 4100 block of Westminster place, was dismissed by Judge David W. FitzGibbon of the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday on Woods's appeal from a $150 fine assessed by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd March 28. Judge FitzGibbon upheld a $50 fine against Woods for careless driving.

The court reversed the $150 fine after Glennon Feb. 1200 block of Ann avenue, whose automobile figured in a collision with one driven by Woods at Boyle and Chouteau avenues Feb. 25, testified Woods had not driven when intoxicated. Police testified Woods was drunk.

PETERSON SAYS HYDROGEN WAR WOULD BE HELLISH

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson foresees life as "stark, elemental, brutal, filthy, miserable" if all-out thermonuclear war comes to America.

He told a House Government Operations subcommittee yesterday that in a full-scale attack, from 10,000,000 to 25,000,000 Americans might be killed and an equal number injured.

"This is going to be a miserable, hellish, nightmarish mess," Peterson said, shaking a pencil emphatically as he talked to the subcommittee which has been studying America's preparedness in case of war.

Representative Chet Holifield (Dem., Calif., subcommittee chairman, said his group is trying to "bring to the American people what has been done and what could be done" for civil defense. He added, "We will not agree there can not be things done that will put some protection around what I consider a glass jaw at this time."

ELECTED BY AUTO DEALERS

Vincent T. McMahon of St. Louis was elected vice president of the Missouri Automobile Dealers Association at the association's convention in Kansas City this week. He is president of McMahon Pontiac Co., 4100 Gravois avenue.

R. G. Bentrup of Kansas City was elected president. In addition to McMahon, W. M. Robertson, Joplin, also was elected vice president.

'JAILBIRD' BRINGS GOOD LUCK TO DEATH ROW PRISONERS

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP)—The 21 prisoners confined to the maximum security wing of the Cook county jail have a new jailbird—a blue parakeet—and regard it as a good luck omen.

The bird yesterday flew through heavy bars into the wing housing the prisoners awaiting death in the electric chair. Later in the day stays of execution were issued for two convicted murderers who had been scheduled to be executed this weekend.

MAYOR URGES FEWER CHARITY FUND DRIVES

Wants More Agencies to Join United Fund, He Asserts.

"Next big step" toward helping St. Louis get the most for its charity dollar is to make sure more agencies drop their separate drives and join United Fund, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker declared today at Hotel Chase.

He spoke at the fund's first annual plaque award luncheon, honoring 657 organizations that met their quotas, with at least 80 per cent of their officers and employes contributing toward the $8,245,925 goal of last fall. About 525 persons attended.

Congratulating all concerned on success of the drive, he told of the inception of the idea in "the fact citizens were frustrated and dazed by the constant barrage of charity drives."

Thirteen separate drives were eliminated for 1955-1956, meaning there was "at least one less campaign a month, and yet 12 per cent more money was raised than by all participating agencies in the independent campaigns of previous years."

Before United Fund, he went on, city employes were harassed endlessly for cash for charity, so that some administrators "were required to spend as much time and energy heading up charity campaigns among city employes as they were spending in working for the taxpayers of St. Louis — their employers."

"Furthermore, I firmly believe we must take another look at agencies now benefiting from United Fund. We must make certain there is no duplication of services, effort or personnel and that our charity dollar is spent as wisely, economically and efficiently as possible.

"In other words, we must make sure we are getting the most possible from our charity dollar."

Zarubin at State Department.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP) —Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin conferred at the State Department for 30 minutes today with Deputy Under Secretary of State Robert Murphy. There was speculation that they renewed their talks on the fur seal problem in the Pacific.

FARM REVOLT NOT EVIDENT IN NEBRASKA VOTE

Eisenhower Gets 63 Pct. of Total, Kefauver 34 Pct. — Neither Opposed.

OMAHA, Neb., May 16 (AP) —Democrats looking for signs of a farm revolt against Administration farm policies found little cause for encouragement in returns from yesterday's presidential preference primary.

Incomplete unofficial tabulations gave President Eisenhower 63 per cent of a light total vote in this nominally Republican state, and Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee 34 per cent.

Neither was opposed on his party's ballot. Write-ins for Adlai Stevenson and Averell Harriman took some votes from Kefauver, but there were only a sprinkling of write-ins on the Republican side.

The unofficial count in 1709 of 2127 precincts gave Eisenhower 76,665, Vice President Nixon 7, William F. Knowland 6, Chief Justice Earl Warren 120.

In the Democratic count, 1709 precincts gave Kefauver 41,296, Stevenson 1497 and Harriman 789.

In the 1952 Nebraska primary, Republican balloters were 65 per cent of the total. Two years ago they were 67 per cent.

Little Ballot Switching.

Most observers figured that farmer discontent, if strong enough in the state, might show in a switch from Republican to Democratic ballots. Switching was permissable in all except the 13 cities of 7000 or more. In these, voters registered in advance by party and had to stick to their own party's ballot.

No campaign to encourage ballot switching developed, and leaders of both parties had predicted the outcome would signify little.

Results of the presidential preference voting are not binding on the 18 Republican and 12 Democratic national convention delegates chosen yesterday.

With vote counting approaching completion, Kefauver could claim five of the 12 Democratic delegates elected or leading, and President Eisenhower was the expressed choice of 17 of the 18 Republican delegates chosen or leading.

Former State Senator Terry Carpenter of Scotts Bluff, who has said he believes a second term will bring the President's death and "I don't propose to be party to that kind of political expedience," was one of those apparently elected.

Besides casting presidential and delegate votes, Nebraskans nominated candidates for state offices from Governor on down, for four seats in the United States House of Representatives, for the legislature and a host of lesser offices.

Every major elective office in the state is held by a Republican and virtually every incumbent appeared to have won renomination.

Representatives Nominated.

Representatives A. L. Miller and Phil Weaver won renomination handily. Miller will run against Democrat Carlton W. Laird of Scotts Bluff, who was unopposed in the primary. Weaver's opponent will be either Samuel Freeman of Hubbell or Clair A. Callan of Odell. The Freeman-Callan race was close.

Representative R. D. Harrison, although challenged in the Third congressional district, appeared a winner. Lawrence Brock of Wakefield, who resigned as state Democratic chairman to make the race, apparently won the Democratic nomination in this district.

The only Congressman not back on the ballot was Representative Jackson B. Chase of the Second (Omaha) district. Former Omaha Mayor Glenn Cunningham was leading a five-man field fo rthe G.O.P. nomination to Chase's post. One the Democratic side, in another five-way race, the outcome early today was still in doubt.

SPANISH TOWN TERRORIZED BY ESCAPED CIRCUS GORILLA

ALMANSA, Spain, May 16 (AP)—A young 240-pound gorilla escaped from a circus here today and terrified the whole town for two hours.

The animal broke out of its cage just as the afternoon performance of the traveling show began and ran through the streets, sending passersby fleeing in panic.

It was cornered in a convent school, locked in a teacher's room and held there until retrieved by its keeper. No one was hurt, but considerable damage to the school building was reported.

PREDICTS LABOR POLITICAL FUND OF $3,000,000

Dubinsky Says Business Will Contribute Much More Than That in Campaign.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

ATLANTIC CITY, May 16—David Dubinsky estimated yesterday that the United Labor Movement would raise a maximum of $3,000,000 in voluntary political contributions for use in this year's presidential and congressional elections.

The president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union emphasized that his figure was not intended as a boast of labor's strength in amassing a political war chest, but rather as a confession of its inability to match the sums contributed to the Republican party by corporation executives and their families.

He predicted that the Republicans would spend 10 times as much money this year as labor could hope to raise for political purposes. The bulk of the labor funds are expected to go to Democratic candidates.

Urges Ceiling on Gifts.

As a means of establishing political "equality" between workers and employers, Dubinsky proposed that Congress fix a ceiling of $100 on individual campaign gifts. The present limit is $5000.

His estimate that total union collections for politics might run as high as $3,000,000 this year was based on a belief that the unification of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations would spur union members to increased political activity. He said the largest sum raised in past campaigns by both wings of organized labor was less than $2,000,000.

Dubinsky's discussion of labor in politics came just after the garment union's triennial convention had unanimously approved a resolution calling for expanded fund-raising activity among the union's 445,000 to "insure a liberal victory in the coming election."

Union Seeks $250,000.

The union plans to seek $250,000 in political contributions. This would be added to $288,000 the union has left over from voluntary donations made in other years, bringing the total available for campaign purpose to $538,000. However, officials said it was unlikely that more than half the total would be spent this fall.

The tone of the convention resolution was intensely critical of the Eisenhower Administration as "Business controlled." However, the union gave no hint of its preference in the bitter contest for the Democratic presidential nomination. Dubinsky said he felt there were some "good candidates" in the field, but he did not name them.

William F. Schnitzler, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO, told the delegates that labor wanted no "middle of the road" candidate. This was interpreted as a warning to Adlai E. Stevenson, who had general labor support in 1952, that he would have to abandon his "moderate" position if he wanted union backing again.

STUDENT ESTABLISHES FUND IN HONOR OF HIS PRINCIPAL

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 16 (AP)—A senior at Massachusetts Institute of Technology has established a $1200 freshman scholarship at the school in honor of his high school principal, it was announced last night.

When Richard A. Kane, of Lynbrook, Long Island, is graduated next month from M.I.T.'s science-teacher course, he will be employed by the General Motors technical center and next year will start teaching physics at Wayne University in Detroit.

The combined income will be about $8000 from which Kane will pay for the scholarship.

It will be called the Michael J. Brennan scholarship in honor of the principal of Lynbrook, L.I., High School from which Kane was graduated in 1951.

JOSEPH ANASTASIO DIES, ONE OF NOTORIOUS BROTHERS

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—Joseph Anastasio, the most obscure of the four notorious waterfront boss brothers, died Sunday in a Brooklyn hospital, it was learned last night. He was 51 years old.

Joseph Anastasio was the least known of the family, which sometimes spells the name Anastasia, but his career was literally studded with charges of murder, theft and illegal entrance into the country by ship jumping.

The other waterfront brothers are Albert, once labeled "Lord High Executioner" of the infamous Murder, Inc., gang, Anthony (Tough Tony), still running Brooklyn longshoremen's union locals, and Gerardo, who has been associated with Tony.

To Help in Polio Epidemic.

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—A volunteer party of British medical specialists left today on the liner Alcantara for Buenos Aires to work six months in Argentina's poliomyelitis epidemic. The Britons, headed by Monica Martin-Jones, senior teacher of physical therapy at St. Thomas Hospital, will help in aftercare of about 2000 stricken infants.

LOYALTY STUDY DELAYED UNTIL AFTER ELECTION

Bipartisan Commission Unable to Report on Survey of Security Program.

The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 16—The issue of the Government's loyalty-security program has been all but taken out of this year's political campaigns.

The bipartisan commission created last year by Congress to review the whole program will not be able to make any sort of report before some time in 1957.

Its findings, whatever they may be, thus will not be available either to political attack or defense in the presidential and congressional elections.

The commission's chairman, Loyd Wright of Los Angeles, conceded yesterday that the immensity of its task clearly would make it impossible to make recommendations to Congress before this year was out.

Since the commission's life was limited by Congress to Dec. 31, 1956, congressional action must now be taken to extend its authority well beyond that date.

It has become plain, moreover, that the $50,000 operating expense sum originally authorized by Congress will be wholly inadequate and that the final requirement will be at least six times that much.

Congress set up the commission last August in a resolution that was signed by President Eisenhower after a good deal of earlier resistance by him to such an enterprise.

Though the commission cleared Congress on Aug. 9, its personnel was not appointed until Nov. 10 and its first meeting here was not convoked by Vice President Nixon until Dec. 14.

The Christmas holidays intervened. Then came a period in which Wright, the chairman, was a man with a title but no office or staff. Weeks were required to obtain the necessary security "clearance" for the 28 staff employes now in his organization.

Since then Wright has been sending out to more than 100 federal departments, agencies and bureaus notices calling upon each to designate a liaison officer with the commission.

OUTPUT, BUILDING CONTINUE HIGH, FARM PRICES RISE

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that industrial production and construction activity continued in April at the high levels which prevailed through the first quarter of this year.

The board's summary of business conditions also disclosed that farm products prices continued to rise in April, with both hog prices and those for dairy products moving up.

The dairy products upswing came after an increase in federal support prices, the board said.

Retail sales declined in April, with new automobile sales down considerable, the board said. It also said that wholesale prices of industrial commodities rose from mid-April to mid-May.

PASTOR CONVICTED OF THEFT OF RELIGIOUS ARTICLES

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 16 (AP)—A Hinsdale minister was convicted in district court yesterday of stealing a gold chalice from a Catholic church, a crucifix from an Episcopal church and tableware from a hotel.

The Rev. Mr. George F. Davis, 56 years old, pastor of the Hinsdale Christian Church, he founded in 1954, was returned to jail when unable to furnish $2000 bail.

Judge Charles Alberti continued disposition of the case for two weeks while police try to establish ownership of 300 religious articles they said were found in the Rev. Mr. Davis's possession.

ATOMIC-AGE FISH HATCHERY

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 16—Plans for the world's largest fish hatchery, in which water would be kept at a constant temperature by the use of nuclear power, were announced yesterday by Louis A. Wehle, New York State Conservation commissioner. Costing $5,000,000, it would be built on the St. Lawrence river near Massena, N.Y.

Wehle said that the hatchery, which would have push-button controls, would raise three times as many fish as the other 2 hatcheries in the state combined, and would cut the cost of stocking fish from the present $1.47 a pound to 50 cents a pound or less.

SLING-SHOT LIKELY WEAPON IN WAR AGAINST MOSQUITO

WILMINGTON, N.C., May 16 (UP)—The city-county health department has disclosed it is considering sling-shots in the war against the salt-marsh mosquito.

Officials said a capsule-type "bomb" which when dissolved in water releases DDT emulsified in oil has proved effective in eradicating mosquito wrigglers.

The capsule may be put into otherwise inaccessible ponds by lobbing them over the underbrush with sling-shots, Dr. C. B. Davis, county health officer, said.

BRITISH EXPLODE 'ATOMIC DEVICE' OFF AUSTRALIA

Termed Successful, May Be 'Trigger' for Later Testing of Hydrogen Bomb.

CANBERRA, May 16 (AP)—Britain exploded an "atomic device" today in a test in the Monte Bello islands off the west coast of Australia. The test was termed successful, but there was no indication of the nature of the device.

British spokesmen said last month the blast would be detonated on a tower. There have been reports it might be a type of "trigger" for a hydrogen bomb test Britain is expected to hold late this year.

Supply Minister Howard Beale announced that an "atomic device was successfully exploded" at 1:51 p.m. (10:51 p.m. Tuesday, St. Louis time), and said "all safety precautions are in operation." He added that "scientific records are being collected for accurate evaluation."

Third Series.

The current series of atomic tests is the third conducted by Britain. The first British atomic blast was set off in the Monte Bellos in 1952. The second test series was carried out at the Woomera rocket range on the Australian mainland in 1953.

An announcement last month said the radioactive fallout from the third test would be less than occurred in the 1952 explosion.

Reports from the explosion area said the blast sent an atomic cloud soaring high into the air and prevailing winds swept it out over the Indian ocean, away from the mainland.

Reporters at the town of Onslow, 80 miles from the explosion site, said the blast gave off a bright flash followed by a mushroom-shaped cloud. The rapidly swelling cloud took the shape of a woman's head, they reported, and vapor trails from jet planes roaring in to investigate the cloud became visible.

Slight Vibration.

Seven minutes after the reporters saw the flash, they said a thunderous rumble rolled in across the ocean, causing a slight vibration in Onslow. Fifteen minutes later the cloud had drifted into a giant "Z" formation extending from the horizon upward into the clouds.

Only a handful of scientists and officials knew the real significance of the blast. Speculation on the type of device included the theory that it might have been an atomic bomb warhead for a guided missile.

All ships and aircraft had been warned to keep well clear of the Monte Bello area. Persons on hand for the test included about 1000 British service men, including a Royal Air Force team of 24 aircraft and 500 mechanics and flyers.

HINDU INDIA LEADS CELEBRATIONS HONORING BUDDHA

NEW DELHI, May 16 (AP)—India is taking the lead in world-wide celebrations of the 2500th anniversary of the death of Gautama, the Hindu prince who founded Buddhism.

Buddhist pilgrims from all over Asia are expected to visit India by the thousands to pray at the historic sites associated with Gautama, who became the Buddha — "The Enlightened One."

Buddhism has relatively few followers in India, where the religion was born, but it remains strong in Japan, Ceylon, Burma, Thailand and Tibet.

Prime Minister Nehru will open the celebrations when he lays the foundation stone of a commemorative monument in New Delhi next Wednesday.

NEIGHBORHOOD ASSOCIATION TRIBUTE TO P. J. HOENER

P. J. Hoener, a volunteer and director of Neighborhood Association for more than 30 years, was honored by the United Fund agency yesterday at its annual board meeting. Hoener, an architect, was presented with a plaque.

James H. Grove was re-elected association president. Other officers are E. P. Currier Jr., John H. Hayward, Mrs. Richard S. Hawes Jr., Jack E. Thomas, J. W. Titone, Mrs. Arthur T. Chambers, E. E. Haverstick Jr., Mrs. Thomas W. Pettus, Kent Ravenscroft and Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., all vice presidents; Mrs. Clarkson Carpenter Jr., secretary, and John M. Schoenberg, treasurer.

IOWA HIGH SCHOOL DROPS BAR ON MARRIED STUDENTS

OSAGE, Ia. (UP)—The high school here recently dropped its bar on married students after an Iowa attorney general's opinion termed it "unreasonable and therefore unenforceable."

Under the bar, students who married before graduating were forced to drop out.

The board said it still thought the ruling was "right" and only dropped it because of the attorney general's opinion.

GOLDEN WEDDING MARKED

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Barth, 2927 Nebraska avenue, observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary this morning at a mass conducted by their nephew, the Rev. Norbert Mersinger, at St. Francis de Sales Church, 2657 Ohio avenue. They were married in that church.

Barth, 76 years old, is a retired salesman for Sunshine Biscuit Co. Mrs. Barth is 73. They have a daughter and five grandchildren.

SCHOOLBOY RIOTERS SMASH THROUGH MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, May 16 (UP)—Some 500 schoolboy strikers paraded through downtown Mexico City last night, wrecking almost everything in their path. Police offered no effective resistance. One traffic policeman was mobbed and his traffic control booth overturned.

The marchers climbed over parked cars, scraping paint and denting fenders. They broke into one restaurant, carried its chairs into the street and smashed them.

The rioters came from the Polytechnic Institute, strike-bound for six weeks by students demanding Christmas bonuses, bigger Sunday allowances and sightseeing busses.

Safety Object Lesson.

LONDON (INS)—Police authorities picked a significant spot in a busy South London shopping center for their latest safety poster. The poster, reading "Be bright, watch the lights," is displayed in the window of a funeral parlor.

ERIC JOHNSTON ADVOCATING U.S.-ASIA ECONOMIC TALKS

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP)—Eric Johnston yesterday proposed calling an "economic Bandung conference" to put United States aid to non-Communist Asian countries on a new partnership basis.

He said present United States aid programs, which emphasize military projects, do not effectively meet Asia's greatest need for rapid industrialization.

Johnston, President Eisenhower's special envoy to the Middle East, advanced the proposal in an interview. He said a recent seven-week Asian tour convinced him that what Asians want above all are capital and technicians from the outside.

"Our technicians are seldom available. The result is that they're beginning to turn to Russia," he said.

MONK SAYS REVOLT CONTINUES IN TIBET

Fighting Against Red Chinese Covers Wide Areas, He Reports.

KALIMPONG, India, May 16 (AP)—A Tibetan monk told reporters yesterday that eastern Tibet is in open rebellion against the ruling Chinese Communists.

"Fighting is continuing over wide areas," he said, many Chinese have been killed and some Buddhist monasteries have been bombed by Chinese planes.

The monk, who introduced himself as Ning Pe, monk commissioner of Gyangtse, an important Tibetan center, said he had left Tibet to tell the outside world what is happening in his country.

He said he wants other Asian nations to use their influence to get the Chinese out.

Rumors of an uprising in Tibet were reported earlier this month during the coronation of King Mahendra of neighboring Nepal. Reports circulated among diplomats attending the ceremonies in Katmandu told of widespread fighting in eastern Tibet.

An Indian Government spokesman said last Friday these reports were exaggerated.

Indian representatives in Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, have reported that Communist land reform provoked opposition in eastern Tibet, the spokesman said, but he indicated this opposition has been suppressed.

India is the only non-Communist nation with government representation in Tibet.

Ning Pe said the revolt broke out 10 weeks ago when the Chinese sent a 3000-man task force into the Dzachuka area to hunt for arms and ammunition.

Monks and Tibetan tribesmen refused to give up their weapons and struck back at the Chinese force. The revolt spread quickly throughout the area of Tibet north of the India-Burma border.

The Chinese—who took over the Himalayan country in 1950—have put up pillboxes and barricades in important centers and have placed guards around influential monasteries in an effort to keep the trouble from spreading, he asserted.

Behind the revolt, Ning Pe said, are long-standing Tibetan grievances against Peiping's taxes, which are collected by the troops.

URGES MORE MANAGEMENT FUNCTIONS FOR NURSES

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP)—A doctor contended yesterday that nurses should be assigned more management functions in the hospital.

Dr. John H. Rohrer, director of the Urban Life Research Institute at Tulane University, New Orleans, made the suggestion at the annual convention of the American Nurses Association.

He said a study in a large general hospital showed that staff and head nurses provide roughly 16 per cent of the total nursing care, with the remaining nursing care rendered by auxiliary workers under supervision of staff and head nurses.

300 IN CLAYTON FORM SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Dedicated to Improvement, Creating Interest; Talks by Shepley, Chadeayne.

More than 300 residents of the Clayton School District last night formed the Clayton Association for the Public Schools, a citzens' organization seeking to improve the district's schools and promote interest in them.

The group unanimously ratified a constitution and elected a 20-member executive board at an organizational meeting at Clayton Community Center, 2 Mark Twain Circle.

All residents of the school district are eligible to belong except members of the Board of Education or its employes.

10,000 Such Groups in U. S.

Chancellor Ethan A. H. Shepley of Washington University, Henry F. Chadeayne, chairman of the St. Louis Public Schools Advisory Committee, and Mrs. Mildred Bastian, vice president of the R-2 (Ferguson-Florissant) School District Alliance, gave brief talks on the need for citizens' organizations interested in schools.

They stressed the importance of developing public interest in education and the value of community effort in trying to solve school problems. There are 10,000 such organizations in the country.

Purpose of the association, according to the constitution, is "to foster citizen interest in Clayton's public school system, work together with the Board of Education, the administrators and teachers to promote continuous improvement in the quality of education, conduct studies of matters pertaining to the schools and pupils, disseminate information about the school district and sponsor and conduct public discussions on educational issues."

Board to Elect Officers.

Barry Commoner, professor of botany at Washington University, who acted as chairman, said the executive board will meet within two weeks to elect officers, set meeting dates and organize committees.

Elected at large were: Commoner, Mrs. U. C. Dunaway, Mrs. Franklin Ferriss, Selwyn Pepper, Mrs. Gilbert Rosenthal, Stanley Schuchat, Ethan Shepley Jr., Ralph Streeter, Miss Clayda Williams, G. Herbert Wollberg and Robert Wykes.

MADISON COUNTY GAMBLING INQUIRY HEARS 8 WITNESSES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 16—Eight witnesses testified here yesterday before a federal grand jury investigating alleged gambling activities in Madison county. The investigation is seeking to uncover possible income tax evasion on returns from gambling operations.

Assistant United States Attorney Robert B. Oxtoby said at least one of the witnesses was "quite frank in detailing his particular operation."

Two officials of the Eagle Sales Co. at Lovejoy were among the eight witnesses who testified. They were Roy Conrad and Willard Stailey. The firm has been identified as a policy organization.

MISSISSIPPI TO HIRE SEGREGATION SPIES

State Board Approves Use of Secret Agents in Fight on Integration.

JACKSON, Miss., May 16 (AP) — Mississippi's State Sovereignty Commission, watchdog of states' rights, yesterday voted to hire secret agents to serve as "eyes and ears" in the fight to keep segregation.

Along the same lines, the 12-member commission voted to spend state money to "buy information" about activities in the integration camp.

In another move, the commission hired a full-time publicity director to explain to integrationists Mississippi's position concerning segregation.

The action was part of what Gov. J. P. Coleman, commission chairman, labeled an attempt "to bring this commission into its full effect and fruition."

The commission was set up by the 1956 legislature to prevent federal "encroachment" upon states' rights, with the segregation question as the main objective.

In debating the issue of hiring undercover agents, the sovereignty commission agreed upon secrecy because, among other reasons "it's possible we may want to hire a Negro" to spy upon Negro activities within Mississippi.

Coleman called attention to the FBI's use of informants and said the commission would operate in the same manner. He called the investigators and informants, known but to the commission, "an official arm of state government."

The Governor cautioned the commission not to panic. "I see no reason for alarm, frustration or futility," he said. "We have the ball and it's up to the opposition to take the initiative."

"After all, integration came about because the people gave up. We will not give up."

RULING MAY NULLIFY LAY-OFF PAY PLAN

Union Leader Says Ohio Official Has 'Paralyzed' General Motors Provision.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP) —The head of the AFL-CIO United Electrical Workers union said last night the union's lay-off pay contract with General Motors Corp. has been "paralyzed" by a ruling by an Ohio official.

James B. Carey, president of the union, said the Ohio action will come as a "bitter shock" t otens of thousands of workers both in and outside Ohio.

James R. Tichenor, administrator of Ohio's bureau of unemployment compensation, ruled yesterday that the Ohio law requires a worker's state unemployment benefits to be reduced by the amount he receives under the lay-off pay plan. Provisions of the General Motors-I.U.E. contract provide that states must agree to pay full unemployment benefits before the plan can go into effect.

Carey noted that the contract requires two-thirds of the union's members to be in states which agree to pay full benefits. He noted that 80 per cent of his union's General Motors employes work in Ohio, and therefore the Ohio ruling—unless changed—would nullify the entire contract with General Motors.

WALRUS HUNTING FOR ALL

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP) —The House Interior Committee wants to take away one of the advantages of being an Eskimo.

It approved a bill yesterday which would let white hunters muscle in on walrus shooting, heretofore exclusively an Eskimo right.

HARRIMAN PUTS BLAME DIRECTLY ON EISENHOWER

President 'Taken Over by Big Business,' Says Governor in Speech at Spokane.

SPOKANE, Wash., May 16 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman delivered a personal attack on President Eisenhower last night. He charged the President "has been taken over by big business."

Still insisting he is "not an active candidate" for the Democratic presidential nomination, Harriman told a party dinner crowd that Mr. Eisenhower had appointed high administration officials and "must be responsible for them."

"It isn't (Secretary of Agriculture) Benson who is destroying the farmers' income, it's Eisenhower," he said.

"It isn't (former Secretary of the Interior) McKay who is destroying our natural resources, it's Eisenhower.

For Integration Plank.

Harriman flew here from Montana where he told reporters at Missoula that the Democratic party platform this year should support the Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in the public schools.

His theme at the $3-a-plate Democratic dinner last night was "the big business administration" and he told some 300 people:

"This will go down as 'the billion-dollar year'—a billion-dollar profit for General Motors and a billion-dollar loss for the farmers."

Harriman met with party leaders for breakfast today and then was scheduled to talk with farmers at Pullman, Wash., and students at Washington State College.

Placard-waving Democrats met the New York governor at the airport yesterday afternoon and paraded him through town in a convertible with police escort.

Harriman waved at people along the route in traditional campaign fashion. The car was decked with "We Want Harriman" banners.

Defines His Status.

The governor had a statement he had written out in longhand when he arrived to answer published reports that he had "definitely announced" he is a candidate at the Missoula news conference.

"I have made no announcement on this trip to change in any way my status as a candidate," he said. "All that has happened is that at Cody, Wyo., some delegates said they would join the New York delegation to support me at the convention. I said I appreciated that."

An aid to the governor said he did not expect Harriman would make any announcement on his status on his western tour which ends Thursday at Reno, Nev.

Harriman was asked later about the Missoula report and said it probably was "the result of isolated sentences taken out of context" or a misunderstanding that grew out of his comments at Cody.

He said he was "not an active candidate," meaning he is not entering primaries and not soliciting delegates. Washington state has 24 votes at the Democratic convention. The state has no presidential preference primary, the delegates being picked at the state convention.

MIDWEST TO DECIDE FARM VOTE, PARTY LEADERS SAY

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—The men who will direct the Republican and Democratic campaigns for farm votes this year agreed yesterday that their struggle will be confined largely to 12 Midwestern states.

The states are Missouri, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas.

H. L. Nelson, director of the farm division of the Republican national headquarters, addressing a meeting of the Newspaper Farm Editors Association, said he expected the Republican fight to be toughest in Minnesota, Iowa and probably Indiana. He said party leaders have found no evidence of a farm revolt against the Republicans, but stated there is some dissatisfaction with the farm situation in some areas.

His Democratic counterpart, Nelson McCune, said there are many factors in the present situation which remind him of the 1948 election. To put it, Midwestern farm dissatisfaction was Republican-controlled Congress and "the trick" in giving President Truman an upset victory over Republican nominee Thomas E. Dewey.

LESTER PEARSON SEES SIGNS OF SOVIET INROADS ON NATO

OTTAWA, May 16 (AP)—Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester Pearson said yesterday there is some evidence new Russian tactics are weakening NATO unity.

He told the House of Commons Foreign Affairs Committee that NATO foreign ministers at their recent Paris meeting agreed that whatever the long-range significance of the new Russian approach to the West there must be no relaxation in maintenance of NATO military strength.

He also said the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's military strength was unlikely to be increased beyond current levels. He is a member of the three-man NATO committee which will draft a report on how NATO can increase non-military co-operation.

C. B. MICHELSON, RETIRES

Retirement of C. B. Michelson, general agricultural agent here for the St. Louis-San Francisco (Frisco) Railway, after 51 years of service with the company, was announced today. He will be succeeded by A. G. Anderson of Springfield, assistant general agricultural agent since 1950.

Michelson, general agricultural agent for the last six years, received a certificate of esteem from southwest Missouri grape growers last February for his service to them. He aided produce growers of southwest Missouri and northwest Arkansas in improving the quality and marketing of their products. Anderson joined the Frisco in 1925.

G.O.P. SUGGESTS COMPROMISE ON FEED GRAIN PROPS

Senator Aiken Outlines Plan to Make New Farm Bill Acceptable to President.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP)—Senate Republican leaders proposed a compromise today on feed grain support prices in an effort to make a new farm bill acceptable to President Eisenhower.

Republicans and Democrats would increase price supports for feed grains by the same amounts this year. However, Republicans objected to an additional increase Democrats proposed for next year.

An objectionable feed grain feature was one of the main reasons Mr. Eisenhower gave for recently vetoing a Democratic-sponsored catch-all farm bill.

The House later approved a second farm bill built around Mr. Eisenhower's one and one-half billion dollar soil bank program. It included a modified version of the original bill's provision for boosting price props of feed grains — barley, grain sorghums, oats and rye.

The Senate Agriculture Committee modified the feed grain provision further. But Republican leaders said it still is not satisfactory to Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. They hinted that Mr. Eisenhower might veto the new bill unless the feed grain provision is modified even further.

Committee Decision.

As approved by the Senate committee, the legislation would support feed grain prices at 76 per cent of parity this year—without any acreage controls or mandatory participation in the soil bank.

Next year, supports for these four crops would be even higher—at five percentage parity points below that for corn grown in the so-called commercial corn area, the main belt. But feed grain growers would have to observe acreage controls and also participate in the soil bank.

Senator George D. Aiken (Rep.), Vt., leader of Administration farm forces in the Senate, said the Administration would go along with the committee bill as to the 76 per cent supports this year, but he said the Administration prefers no mandatory feed grain supports for next year.

He added, however, that it would be acceptable to provide for equal treatment for feed grains and commercial corn grown by farmers who do not comply with acreage allotment restrictions. The support price for such noncompliance corn this year is $1.25 a bushel, 25 cents less than that for corn grown within acreage allotments.

Fund Bill Advanced.

(The Associated Press and a record-breaking farm appropriation bill carrying more than two billion dollars of spending authority was approved today by a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

(Chairman Richard Russell (Dem.), told a reporter after a closed-door session that most of the increases voted by the House Monday had been accepted and that the Senate group had added some of its own.

(These included a $25,000,000 boost in the agricultural conservation payments to farmers this year under the existing farm programs. These are the forerunner of the much larger $1,200,000,000 soil bank payment proposals pending in the Senate for expected action this week.

(The Administration requested just under $215,000,000 to make conservation payments in the fiscal year that begins July 1. The House boosted this to $217,250,000 and the Senate subcommittee raised this to $242,250,000.

(Russell said the full Senate Apropriations Committee would act on the bill Friday.

The funds carry out the existing far-flung activities of the Agriculture Department and its agencies.)

Price and Cost Report.

Meanwhile the Department of Agriculture said farm production prices and cost rates paid by farmers average about the same this spring as they did a year ago.

Prices paid for industrial commodities in general, farm wage rates and taxes are higher, while prices paid for feed, seed and livestock are lower. The department pointed out in its publication, The Farm Cost Situation, that prices paid for production items that originate on farms have increased somewhat in recent months.

It said farm real estate taxes per acre are up 6 per cent; motor vehicle prices up 5 per cent; wage rates, building and fencing materials and farm machinery prices up 4 per cent each; farm real estate prices up 3 per cent; costs of farm supplies up 1 per cent; motor supplies up 1 per cent; fertilizer down 2 per cent; feed down 7 per cent; feeder livestock down 11 per cent; and seed down 18 per cent.

The department said the relationship between farm production cost rates and prices received by farmers is somewhat less favorable to farmers this spring than it was a year ago.

NEW FORMOSA LAW BARS PAPER CHERRY BLOSSOMS

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Formosa government has barred, as a hangover of the Japanese occupation, the manufacture, sale and use of paper cherry blossoms on this island. Paper cherry blossoms are used here as a symbol of mourning. The provincial government ordered that plum blossoms—the flower symbol of National China—be substituted.

HOUSE TACITLY BACKS TVA'S USE OF CASH TO BUILD

Significance of Fund Bill Vote Is Disrupted by Friends and Critics of Agency.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP) —The House agreed tacitly today to let the Tennessee Valley Authority use power revenues to build some of the new steam generating units it needs.

TVA backers viewed the action as a considerable victory for the agency, which in recent years has had increasing trouble getting new appropriations to build more steam generators.

The action—still subject to final indorsement by the Senate—came after Republicans temporarily abandoned their fight to bar use of TVA income for construction of new power plants.

They served notice however they will raise the issue again under different circumstances.

Views of Action Differ.

Today's vote approached the question by indirection, and estimates of its significance varied. Representative Charles A. Halleck (Rep.), Indiana, said it did not mean anything. Representative John Taber (Rep.), New York, however, warned members they were ratifying what he called a "violation of the law" already committed by TVA when it issued letters of intent to buy some of the new generating equipment.

The action came with House approval of a compromise $852,400,000 supplemental appropriation bill carrying funds to tide over a variety of Government agencies in the remainder of this fiscal year.

Republicans had planned a direct assault on the TVA feature, which was included in the bill only on indirect reference through a report of the appropriations committee. However, they did not make the attempt and the big bill was approved by voice vote and without any real contest.

Taber told the House the action left the way open for TVA—despite a 1948 law which he said makes this illegal—to build power plants as it sees fit, without permission of Congress.

Countermoves Planned.

However, he said he will challenge this later in two ways. He will seek from the Comptroller General a ruling that such outlays are illegal. He will also ask the House Public Works Committee to consider legislation "to bring about the result Congress thought it was bringing about" when it passes the 1948 law.

Representative Joe L. Evins (Dem.), Tennessee, denied there was any impropriety in TVA's actions so far, or that any would be invited by letting the agency spend its own funds.

He said Republicans obviously did not want to give TVA new power sources, regardless of method. He said they opposed further appropriations, but that when TVA proposes to do its own financing they also are against that.

PRESIDENT CALLS FOR PEACE PRAYERS ON MEMORIAL DAY

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP) —President Eisenhower yesterday called on all Americans to join in prayer on Memorial day, May 30, for "an enduring peace founded on mercy and justice."

In a proclamation, the President noted that Congress in 1950 passed a resolution providing that Memorial day annually should be observed as a day of nation-wide prayer for permanent peace.

"We are humbly aware," the President said, "that only through divine guidance can we find the course which we should follow to achieve permanent peace, and the strength and courage to pursue that course patiently and unceasingly until the goal is attained."

The President designated the hour beginning in each locality at 11 a.m. on May 30 "as a period in which we may be united in humble petition" for divine help in achieving a permanent peace.

Commercial TV in Guatemala.

GUATEMALA CITY, May 16 (AP)—Central America's first commercial television station, TG-BOL, went on the air last night from Guatemala, inaugurating a four-hour nightly program.

LABOR DOING BETTER UNDER EISENHOWER, HALL SAYS

BALTIMORE, May 16 (AP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today that under the Eisenhower Administration labor has been getting a bigger share—and business a smaller slice—of rising national income than when Democrat Harry S. Truman was President.

"When the self-styled friends of the 'common man' were in power," Hall said in a speech to the Maryland G.O.P. convention, "labor got less and business—big business if you like—got more than under the Eisenhower Administration."

"Labor's share of the total national income amounted to 65 per cent during the Truman years, but has risen to 69 per cent in the first three years of the Eisenhower Administration," he said.

"And corporation profits, after taxes, which averaged 7.8 per cent of the total national income during the seven Truman years, dropped to 6 per cent in the first three Eisenhower years."

Eden to Visit Australia.

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—Prime Minister Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today he had accepted an invitation to visit Australia and New Zealand. He and Lady Eden will make the trip during the Christmas recess of Parliament, he said.

NEW ATTACKS IN BONN AGAINST REARMAMENT

Soviet Announcement of Military Cutbacks Stirs Adenauer Opponents.

BONN, May 16 (AP)—Russia's announced plan for a military cutback yesterday touched off new attacks on rearmament in West Germany.

Parliament's defense committee said it will make a sweeping study of the plan to create a 500,000-man armed force integrated in the North Atlantic alliance. It summoned a group of World War II military leaders—some veterans of years of warfare on the Russian front—to testify.

The strong Socialist party immediately demanded a "serious review" of Chancellor Adenaur's rearmament program. The Free Democratic party's military expert assailedwhat he called the "obsolete conceptions for West German rearmament."

Silent on Soviet Cuts.

Adenauer's government declined to comment on Moscow's announcement that Soviet armed forces will be cut by 1,200,000 men, including 30,000 stationed in East Germany.

But worried officials conceded that this move will make harder the task of selling rearmament to the German people and winning Parliament's approval of conscription.

Diplomatic officials expressed the view that one of the main aims of the Soviet announcement is to wreck West German rearmament. They suggested that the Soviets also are streamlining their armed forces for atomic warfare, trying to remedy a serious labor shortage and hoping to force the Western powers to reduce their military strength.

There was general agreement here that Moscow has added fuel to the great debate raging in West Germany over these questions:

Is rearmament necessary? If so, should Germany have a small volunteer force or a 500,000-man bundeswehr based on conscription?

Opponents of Draft.

The Socialists and the Free Democrats are spearheading the campaign against a big armed force raised by the draft.

In a speech at Sonthofen last night, Defense Minister Theodor Blank urged approval of the government's plan. He said "not enough soldiers means war to those threatened."

Blank spoke to high ranking officers of the new army attending training courses.

West Germany's new forces are not a national army, he said, but part of the armies of the free world, united in the common defense of peace.

Separate Schools in Tunisia.

PARIS, May 16 (AP)—Premier Mollet plans to ask Assembly for funds to build separate French school facilities in Tunisia. The protectorate is on the verge of independence from France and will use the official Arabic language in its schools. The French also plan a large French medical center in Tunis.

Flashes of Life

Jamming the Works.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—An impatient motorist held up by a switching freight train at a crossing thought he had found a solution. He pulled the coupling pin between boxcars, believing the cars would come apart and let him through. But pulling the coupling pin automatically set the airbrakes. It took trainmen an hour and 45 minutes to locate and correct the trouble so the crossing could be cleared.

By that time the unidentified motorist had turned around and driven away.

He Has a Point.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—It was a sad day for Adolph Lefco, when he threw some of his old personal papers in a city trash can. A sanitation worker salvaged the papers and gave them to a policeman. The officer leafed through them and discovered an unpaid parking ticket issued against Lefco in 1932.

Maybe They Will.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Capitol Hill wags couldn't quite get over the idea of putting grazing land into the soil bank program. How, they wondered, would producers keep their stock off the land they agreed to withdraw from grazing. It casts $6 to fence one side of an acre. But the Government would pay only $1.75 for setting the acre aside. One observer had this solution:

NOT GUILTY PLEA TO ONE $3,000,000 FRAUD CHARGE

NORFOLK, Va., May 16 (AP)—Minnie Mangum pleaded not guilty today to the first of a series of indictments charging her with embezzlement in shortages of nearly $3,000,000 that wrecked the Commonwealth Building and Loan Association.

The 52-year-old spinster made her plea in a low voice in a crowded courtroom to the court that the gave false information about the assets of the firm to the Virginia Corporation Commission.

Other indictments on which she will be tried later charge her with embezzling nearly $3,000,000 from Commonwealth, for which she worked for 28 years.

IVES OPPOSES LEHMAN BILL ON NIAGARA POWER

Calls for Compromise Between State Officials and Utilities —Vote Due Soon.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 16—Senator Irving M. Ives called on the Senate yesterday to set aside the Lehman bill for public development of Niagara power with an eye to "some sort of a compromise."

The New York Republican said there was "no reason in the world" why private and public power advocates could not reach an agreement if they would "sit down together and try to work it out."

The pending bill, sponsored by Senator Herbert H. Lehman, Democrat of New York, would permit the New York State Power Authority to build and operate the long-pending $400,000,000 project.

A close vote is expected, possibly tonight, on a motion to return the measure to the Senate Public Works Committee. Such a motion, if carried, would have the effect of killing the bill for the present session.

For Recommital.

Senator Ives announced his support of the prospective recommital motion in the second of two speeches against the Lehman bill in yesterday's debate.

He said recommital would give New York State officials and private power spokesmen an opportunity to "get together and try to work out some sort of compromise."

"The time has come," Ives declared, "when we must get together on this matter—not as Republicans and Democrats but as citizens of the State of New York."

That assertion brought Senator Lehman to his feet protesting that the Niagara issue "is not in the slightest a partisan matter and cannot be made a partisan matter."

"How can my colleague stand here on the floor of the Senate and try to give the impression that politics is being brought into this thing?" he demanded.

Against Preference.

Ives has favored state development of Niagara power in the past. He is opposing the Lehman bill mainly on the ground that a preference clause is inconsistent with state law and policy.

The clause would require the state power authority to give municipalities, other public agencies and co-operatives first choice on the nine billion kilowatt-hours of low-cost power to be produced annually at the Niagara Falls site.

Ives called the clause "a device seeking to employ a federal legislative power of the Congress to impose upon the people of New York State that which they have expressly rejected."

The people in the area to be served "have expressed clearly a desire that Niagara power be developed by private enterprise," he said. He cited resolutions passed by various business, labor, agricultural and municipal organizations.

Lehman emphatically challenged the significance of such resolutions. He said they had resulted from "an avalanche of propaganda" by "the private monopoly crowd."

Reds Like U. S. Supermarkets, 'Just the Thing for Siberia'

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK, May 16—Siberia is due for a change if a five-man Soviet construction team now in the United States has its way.

The Soviet builders have been in America only five days but they've already discovered the multimillion-dollar suburban shopping centers in the metropolitan environs.

Just the thing for the Soviet Union, V. I. Svetlichnyi, chief of the delegation and vice chairman of the Soviet state committee on construction, proclaimed yesterday.

Svetlichnyi said the shopping center was the highest example of American construction and planning technique which his group had seen. He said such centers were just what Russia needed, particularly in the new industrial and agricultural area arising in the Siberian wastelands.

He said he hoped it would be possible to scatter shopping center, complete with supermarkets, neon-lighting and all the rest, across the Soviet steppes. Where Soviet shoppers would get their shiny new cars to patronize the centers he didn't indicate. Presumably, some other department handles that question.

Svetlichnyi and four associates arrived in New York Thursday night at the invitation of the International Home Building Exposition which opened Saturday at the New York Coliseum. They are spending 10 days inspecting the achievements of the American building industry.

They saw their first shopping center Monday at Hicksville, L.I. It was still in the construction stage.

Svetlichnyi said that, naturally, shopping centers would have to be somewhat modified to meet Soviet conditions.

"But the general principle is surprisingly good," he said. "We can apply it to all the new settlements we are building in Siberia and elsewhere."

FREIGHT CAR SHORTAGE LAID TO CHEAP RENTAL

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—Robert S. Macfarlane, president of the Northern Pacific Railway, believes cheap rent on freight cars is a major cause of a shortage of cars.

"The $2.40 per diem rentals one railroad must pay another on freight cars should be increased," Macfarlane said. "This low rent, in the long run, is costing all railroads money because cars are not used at their maximum efficiency and consequently there are not cars enough to fill the shipper's needs."

The railroad executive said it cost about $8000 to build one freight car and that it was cheaper to rent them than to build them.

Polish Premier to Visit France.

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—The Warsaw radio announced last night that Polish Premier Cyrankiewicz will make an official visit to France. The date has not been set.

INDIA'S SECOND 5-YEAR PLAN SENT TO PARLIAMENT

NEW DELHI, May 16 (AP)—The government of India presented to Parliament yesterday the final draft of its second five-year development plan. It is aimed at increasing the national income by 25 per cent and creating 8,000,000 or more jobs in industry and agriculture.

The plan in its final form will cost more than 15 billion dollars. It differs from previous drafts in two major sectors:

1. Private industry investment has been increased from the equivalent of $4,830,000,000 to $5,040,000,000.

2. The plan now refers to foreign "resources" instead of foreign "assistance," indicating the government plans to seek foreign loans instead of depending on foreign governmental grants. It adds that all possible avenues for securing financial resources abroad must be explored.

The second five-year plan actually got under way April 1, but the government has been reviewing it in detail before presenting its terms to Parliament, whose five-day debate scheduled to begin next week is likely to produce more changes.

EXTENSIVE GEOLOGICAL MAPPING IN ASIA PLANNED

CALCUTTA, India, (AP) — The Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East has decided to undertake extensive geological mapping of Asian countries, from Afghanistan to Japan.

Dr. P. S. Lokanathan, executive secretary of ECAFE, said 21 countries — not including China—would participate, at a cost of $40,000 to $50,000 this year.

3 CYPRIOTS KILL BRITISH 'SAMARITAN'

Gunmen Fire After Soldier Gives Them Water—All Captured.

NICOSIA, Cyprus, May 16 (UP)—Three Cypriot gunmen shot and killed a "good Samaritan" British soldier who gave them drinks of water today, but were caught in a wild chase by helicopters a few minutes later.

A second British soldier was wounded in the shooting.

British authorities said the three Cypriots separately approached a Royal Air Force radio shack near the heavily-guarded Nicosia airport and asked the corporal on duty for water.

The soldier twice passed cups of water through the window, which was protected by barbed wire. Three shots were fired into the shack as the corporal started to hand out the third cup of water. The corporal was killed and another soldier was wounded.

Two helicopters took off immediately to direct soldiers in pursuit of the fleeing Cypriots. Two men were captured while darting over a barren stretch of plain behind the airfield. The third was found hiding in a tree. All three were held in prison to await charges of murder.

Meanwhile, troops searched the area of Ktima in the extreme southwest part of the island and arrested two Greek Orthodox priests. Shotgun shells, badges and numbers from police uniforms were found in their locked room, soldiers said.

U.S. CHECKING WENZELL CASE FOR LAW BREACH

Brownell Aid Discloses Investigation of Figure in Dixon-Yates Deal.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) —Assistant Attorney General Stanley N. Barnes said yesterday the Justice Department is investigating "the Wenzell proposition" for possible violation of the conflict of interest laws.

Barnes mentioned this casually in testimony before a House Government Operations subcommittee. He did not elaborate, but an aid told reporters that Barnes was referring to the Dixon-Yates controversy and to Adolphe H. Wenzell.

The Atomic Energy Commission made a contract, which came to be called the Dixon-Yates contract, for construction of a private power plant in the Tennessee Valley Authority area. The Eisenhower Administration eventually canceled it.

Congressional critics of the contract raised questions as to whether Wenzell had a "conflicting private interest" as a part-time Budget Bureau consultant at the same time he was a vice president of the First Boston Corp. First Boston, a New York financial house, later became financial agent for the Dixon-Yates private power group.

Barnes was asked if he knew of any Justice Department action against possible violators of laws prohibiting Government officials from using their public positions to promote their private interests.

The assistant attorney general, who handles anti-trust matters, said he knew of only one "investigation" on conflict of interest. He said he understands the department "is considering the Wenzell proposition."

"I know of no convictions" that have been obtained under conflict of interest statutes, Barnes added.

The subcommittee headed by Representative William L. Dawson (Dem.) Illinois, is looking into Government employment of consultants and experts.

Barnes said the Justice Department has a group "considering the advisability of an over-all conflict of interest legislation" in place of the present maze of statutes.

However, he said he believes each department head is in the best position to judge for his department what outside persons or groups should be allowed to serve in advisory capacities which carry certain exemptions from the conflict of interest rules.

In general, Barnes urged against blanket barring of persons from Government because a firm in which they had an interest might be under some indictment.

"We cannot make second class citizens of them," Barnes said, adding that a number of Congressmen and Senators have interests in companies which have been indicted.

U. S. SELLS PAIR'S PROPERTY TO SATISFY TAX JUDGMENT

Chief Deputy United States Marshal Roy Kirgan yesterday sold for $29,000 three pieces of property owned by Dr. and Mrs. Vaughan C. Payne to satisfy a civil judgment obtained by the Government against the pair for $23,000 in additional income taxes for the years 1941 through 1947.

The sale at public auction was made to the only bidder, Paul Felberbaum, who said he was acting as agent for George Voelker, not otherwise identified. It consisted of a two-story office building, a four-family dwelling and four vacant lots.

Dr. Payne, a Negro physician, and his wife, live at 4365 North Market street. Because one of the properties was mortgaged for $10,000, the net proceeds to the Government will be $19,000. Kirgan said revenue stamps on the deeds originally issued to Dr. Payne indicate he had paid about $51,000 for the properties. The judgment against the Paynes was handed down by United States District Judge George H. Moore.

MRS. JUNE MILTON ACQUITTED, PUT IN STATE ASYLUM

Jury Finds Her Not Guilty of Murdering Walter A. Siebert by Reason of Insanity.

Mrs. June Joy Milton was committed to St. Louis State Hospital today, following her acquittal by a circuit court jury at Clayton last night of first-degree murder, by reason of insanity.

The commitment was signed by Judge Raymond LaDriere, in whose court the one-day trial of Mrs. Milton for the killing last February of Walter A. Siebert, chief supervisor for the St. Louis County Highway Department, was held.

A charge of arson against the 26-year-old divorcee, in the burning of her victim's home was disposed of today when Circuit Judge Douglas L. C. Jones found her not guilty because of her mental condition. Prosecuting Attorney Edward W. Garnholz and Defense Attorney Merle Silverstein had explained the circumstances to the court.

A jury of seven men and five women reached a verdict in the murder trial yesterday after two hours and 40 minutes deliberation.

There were four ballots, it was reported, the first vote being 9 for acquittal and three for conviction with life imprisonment. There were two ballots of 11 to one, and then agreement on acquittal. The verdict stated that the defendant had not regained her reason.

Judge Praises Verdict.

Judge LaDriere praised the jury's finding, saying "it was the only verdict possible under the circumstances." The judge added that frequently juries are reluctant to excuse the conduct of an insane defendant "because the jurors view the crime."

Mrs. Milton, who wept quietly during the trial, displayed no emotion after the verdict was returned, shortly before 7 p.m., until deputies led her from the courtroom. Then she seized a glass ashtray from a table and motioned as if to throw it. The officers knocked the heavy ashtray from her hand.

She was returned to Glenwood Sanitorium in Webster Groves, pending her transfer to State Hospital, 5400 Arsenal street, today.

Garnholz, although requesting a verdict of guilty, said the state had no rebuttal to defense psychiatric evidence. Two of the psychiatrists who examined Mrs. Milton did so at Garnholz's request. Dr. George Winokur, employed by the defense, described Mrs. Milton as "a chronic schizophrenic" in his testimony.

Dr. Edwin Gildea of Barnes Hospital and Dr. Edwin H. Schmidt of the Glenwood institution, who examined her for the state, both reported she is of unsound mind. Their findings were read to the jury.

Shot to Death in Home.

Siebert was shot and killed in his bed early on Feb. 12 after returning from a Lincoln day dinner to his home, 522 Ambergate drive, Webster Groves. An autopsy disclosed he had been shot in the side, the bullet, from a Luger pistol, entering his heart.

Mrs. Marion Rodgers, a deputy sheriff, testified for the defense about "strange conduct" by Mrs. Milton when in custody. Mrs. Rodgers said Mrs. Milton told of "hearing voices" and charged that Mrs. Rodgers had stabbed Mrs. Milton's mother.

Other deputies told of Mrs. Milton's four suicide attempts, in which she swallowed pills, pennies and pins and attempted to hang herself with a towel.

Seibert, a former constable, was a member of the Republican County Committee. He lived alone following the death of his wife, who had been active with him in county politics.

Louis Phillips, a Post-Dispatch photographer, was summoned before the bench and lectured by Judge LaDriere for making a picture of Mrs. Milton through the partly open courtroom door while the trial was in progress. Phillips apologized to the court and surrendered the film.

PROPAGANDA CONSULTANT URGES USIA ABOLISHMENT

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) —Eugene S. Castle today urged Congress to abolish the United States Information Agency and "stop our Government-inspired crusades to make the world over in our image."

Castle, former president of Castle Films and a long-time propaganda consultant, told a Senate appropriations subcommittee:

"Reporting news and governmental policies as USIA attempts on a global scale, is not a job for ex-radio hucksters, or gray flannel suit fellows from Madison avenue, New York.

Instead of the $135,000,000 sought by the agency for the fiscal year starting July 1, Castle said, the United States Government should under no circumstances "spend more than $50,000,000 for foreign propaganda in the coming year."

HUNGERFORD CITES HUGE ANNUAL RAILROAD OUTLAY

During the past 10 years, the railroad industry has made average annual expenditures of more than $1,000,000,000 for improvements, Clark Hungerford, president of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway, said today.

He told the purchases and stores division of the Association of American Railroads, meeting at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson, that in 1954, a low year for purchases by railways, 131 lines still were using as much as 28 per cent of the national steel output.

"An adequate level of railway expenditures for an improved plant means not only better rail service, it also means higher level of economic activity for the nation," Hungerford said. Railroad officials and suppliers from the United States, Canada and Mexico were attending the three-day meeting, which began today.

NEW NORTHLAND BANK'S OFFICERS ARE ANNOUNCED

Officers of the new Northland Bank, which will open May 23 in the Northland Shopping Center, West Florissant and Lucas and Hunt roads in Jennings, are I. C. Smith, president; Wilmer P. Lee, vice president, and Walter J. Frintz, cashier, it was announced yesterday.

Smith has been executive vice president of Southwest Bank. Lee was assistant vice president of Southwest Bank, and Frintz was training director of Cass Bank and Trust Co.

The new bank is the former Bank of St. Paul in St. Charles county. It will open with capital of $200,000, surplus $200,000 and undivided profits $100,000.

HOSTILE CATHOLIC FACTIONS CLASH IN BUENOS AIRES

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

BUENOS AIRES, May 16—Argentine Catholics, divided into two hostile demonstrating groups, clashed last night in front of Government House over whether the Roman Catholic Church shall have more or less influence in Argentina.

About 4000 men, women, students and children carried banners and shouted rival slogans intended to impress Provisional President Maj. Gen. Pedro E. Arumburu and members of his government. They demonstrated and scuffled for two hours until dispersed by police using tear gas.

University and high school students had demanded the resignation of Education Minister Atilio Dell'oro Maini, who is considered to be a Catholic partisan in the Aramburu cabinet.

Dell'oro Maini tendered his resignation, but church forces insisted Aramburu reject it. Those opposing the Catholic influence, the overwhelming majority being Catholics themselves, demanded that Aramburu accept it. Preferring not to lose the support of either group, Aramburu delayed making a decision. The two groups marched on Government House last night to force a decision.

MOST IOWA FARMERS DRIVE LOW-PRICED CARS

AMES, Ia. (UP)—Sociologists at Iowa State College found in a survey of farmers in Story county, an "average" Iowa county, that most of them drive automobiles in the so-called low-priced field.

They said the survey showed 75 per cent of the owners had vehicles more than two years old.

It showed 62 per cent of the farmers owned cars in the low-priced field, 5 per cent in the high-priced field and 33 per cent owned medium-priced cars.

Forty-four per cent of the cars were three to six years old, 24 per cent one to two years old, and 32 per cent more than seven years old.

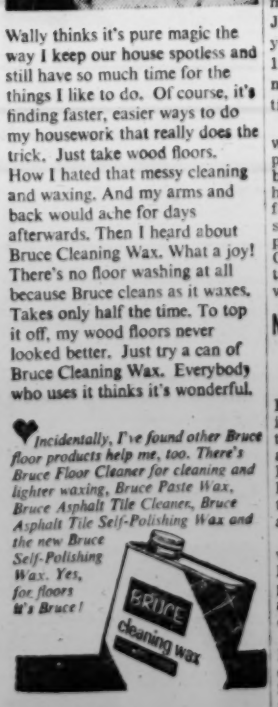

"Wally says I'm a whiz!"

Wally thinks it's pure magic the way I keep our house spotless and still have so much time for the things I like to do. Of course, it's finding faster, easier ways to do my housework that really does the trick. Just take wood floors. How I hated that messy cleaning and waxing. And my arms and back would ache for days afterwards. Then I heard about Bruce Cleaning Wax. What a joy! There's no floor washing at all because Bruce cleans as it waxes. Takes only half the time. To top it off, my wood floors never looked better. Just try a can of Bruce Cleaning Wax. Everybody who uses it thinks it's wonderful.

Incidentally, I've found other Bruce floor products help me, too. There's Bruce Floor Cleaner for cleaning and lighter waxing, Bruce Paste Wax, Bruce Asphalt Tile Cleaner, Bruce Asphalt Tile Self-Polishing Wax and the new Bruce Self-Polishing Wax. Yes, for floors it's Bruce!

DEKALB PHYSICIAN NAMED ILLINOIS DOCTOR OF YEAR

CHICAGO, May 16 (UP)—Dr. Elbridge W. Telford, 54 years old, of DeKalb, yesterday became the youngest man to be honored as Illinois's Doctor of the Year.

The Illinois State Medical Society opened its four-day annual meeting by presenting Telford a certificate as the "General Practioner of Illinois for 1956."

Telford, a native of Washington, is a 1925 graduate of the Northwestern University Medical School. He was an intern for six months at Geneva and for two years in Cook County Hospital here, before he took us practice in DeKalb in 1928.

He served in World War II in the Pacific and European theaters, and in the Korean War as a surgeon. He is a past president of the DeKalb County Medical Society, a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, and on the staffs of hospitals in DeKalb and Sycamore.

About 2500 physicians and 1500 guests were expected for the 116th annual meeting of the society. The meeting will wind up Friday, with the installation of Dr. F. Lee Stone of Chicago as president to succeed Dr. F. Garm Norbury of Jacksonville.

NO EISENHOWER PRESS CONFERENCE THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower will not hold a news conference this week. His next scheduled meeting with news men will be next Wednesday.

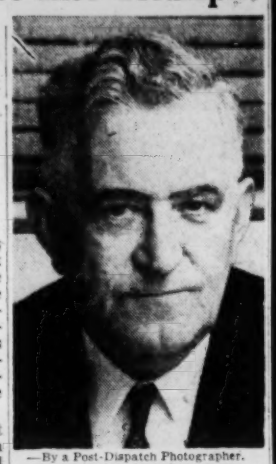

There was no conference today because of a Cabinet meeting, ordinarily held on Fridays. This week's Cabinet meeting was shifted to today because several Cabinet members will be out of town on Friday.

When the shift was announced, the White House said there might be a news conference Friday but it said today that none would be held this week.

Thompson Has Habit of Turning Hard Police Jobs Into Triumphs

By CARL R. BALDWIN
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

JAMES F. THOMPSON

Police work has been James F. Thompson's meat and drink for 31 years. Good days have come his way, and there have been bad days. Some assignments have been enjoyable, others disagreeable. But he has tackled them all with vigor, including an unpleasant assignment last year to investigate some of his co-workers.

Lt. Col. Thompson was not too enthusiastic Monday when he was called before the Board of Police Commissioners and notified he was to be the new inspector of police, succeeding the disabled George Parker. He fully realized the job was not the most popular in the department. However, he readily accepted it.

"This is not the kind of job a man with 31 years' experience would go after," blunt-speaking Thompson said today, on taking over his new duties. "It's an assignment that sometimes is quite disagreeable. But it's not up to me to turn it down."

Won Promotion in 'Sticks.'

Thompson learned a long time ago, in the early 1930s, that unpopular assignments can be turned to advantage if a man applies himself. Discouraged over being shifted from an active beat in the tough old Soulard district to the Wyoming district, then considered "the sticks," he was almost inclined to quit. He stayed on, however, meeting crime more than half way, and his activity in "the sticks" quickly won him promotion to special officer.

Men who have served under Thompson express admiration for his fairness, although he is an exacting taskmaster. They believe he can help department morale, which has lagged in recent years, by setting high standards for his men.

Once a Ballplayer.

Thompson, now 55 years old, 5 feet, 10 inches tall, and 204 pounds, was a wiry, 147-pounder with a background as a professional minor league ballplayer when he joined the department Oct. 5, 1925. He had been a resident of St. Louis only three years, having been born on a farm near Senath, Mo., in Dunklin county. In St. Louis, he worked for a while as a grocery clerk, then as a motorman and conductor for the streetcar company.

Thompson first thought of becoming a policeman when he read in a newspaper that salaries of patrolman had been raised from $90 a month to a whopping $180. This, together with pension benefits being received by policemen, caused him to apply. He was accepted.

His first assignment was as a beat patrolman around Twelfth street and Russell boulevard in the Soulard district, an area where the tough Cuckoo gang of the prohibition area held sway. Even as a rookie Thompson did not hesitate to use his authority, making 60 arrests the first month.

Thompson learned the legal niceties of his new job largely through trial and error, a system he recommends highly. There was no police academy in those days. Training consisted of four hours of school each morning and four hours of walking a beat at night for a period of 30 days.

"It didn't take me long to learn the value of advance undercover work in making a case against a violator so it would stick in court," Thompson said. "I would scout around speakeasies and distilleries until I had enough evidence, from observation and the sense of smell, to swear out a search warrant. Making the case would then be easy."

Thompson, applying the lessons learned in his early days, made the gambling squad an extremely effective weapon against handbooks and dice games after he became head of the squad in January 1954. He worked quietly, with no effort at mere harassment, and made cases that brought stiff penalties for gambling law violators in state courts.

In Mayor's Office.

Thompson learned to temper his two-fisted aggressiveness with diplomacy during five years he served in the office of Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann, from 1936 to 1941. In those five years he made only one arrest although he dealt with many "cranks" and pests. He saw from 200 to 300 persons daily in the Mayor's outer office.

Thompson, who became a major assigned to Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell's office in 1953, was called upon to head a police department investigation of alleged payoffs to police by brothel operators last year.

The new inspector is married and has two sons, Harold, 36, and Bernard, 13. He and Harold jointly own a four-family flat at 4617 Shenandoah avenue, each occupying first floor apartments.

25 STUDENTS SUSPENDED AT U. OF PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, May 16 (AP)—Twenty-five students at the University of Pennsylvania have been suspended or put on probation for a "spring fever" uprising two weeks ago.

The school's committee on discipline yesterday meted out the punishment, described as the most drastic ever taken against participants in a "rowbottom"—Penn's name for noisy student uprisings on streets near the campus.

On the night of this particular rowbottom, last May 3, 116 students were arrested. Of these, 28 were held in $500 bail for the grand jury and the others were released with warnings.

The committee on discipline, consisting of three student leaders and four members of the administration, did not make public the names of those penalized.

GOLDEN WEDDING PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Anton L. Kern, 1626 Quendo avenue, University City, will observe their fiftieth wedding anniversary at an open house from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday at their home for friends and relatives.

Kern, 79 years old, is a retired meat inspector. Mrs. Kern is 68. They have two sons, a daughter and two grandchildren.

Rise in TVA Power Sales.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 16 (UP)—A total of 13.5 billion kilowatt hours of electricity was sold in 1955 by distributors of Tennessee Valley Authority power for an estimated $114,500,000. TVA reported the sales represent a 15 per cent increase over the previous year and revenues were 10 per cent greater in 1954.

U.S. BARS TRADE OF OIL DRILL BIT DATA WITH REDS

Dallas Firm Is Denied Permit—Weeks Says It Might Endanger Security.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) —Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks turned down today an application by an American firm to exchange technical data with Russia on operation of advanced type oil drilling bits. Weeks held it might endanger national security.

The firm seeking an export license for data on its rotary rock drill bits was to receive from the Soviets in return information and equipment for operation of a Russian-designed turbo drill.

Both the American and Russian equipment are used in petroleum well drilling.

The Commerce Department announcement did not identify the American firm. However, a spokesman confirmed information by newsmen that it was Dresser Industries, Inc., of Dallas, Tex.

Not Justified.

"We rejected this application primarily because we wish to avoid any action which might serve to weaken the voluntary system of international strategic controls," Weeks's announcement said.

"The United States Government maintains stringent controls on the shipment of goods and technical data to the Soviet bloc which have strategic significance to our national security. Under our national policy, no exception can be made unless a net security advantage to the free world can be clearly demonstrated. The proposed exchange in technical data is not justified within his policy."

Weeks said that oil drilling bits produced from United States technical data are the most advanced in the free world. He said they are among the items which the United States and 14 other Western countries classed as highly important to their security.

The announcement did not say whether the firm contemplated shipment of any drill bits. It indicated that only know-how was to be provided but this also is barred from transmission to Russia without approval of the Commerce Department.

Planned to Get Drills.

Besides obtaining data on the assembly of the Russian turbo drill, the American firm had planned to get from Russia up to 40 turbo drills of various sizes and types.

Weeks said the rejection did not prevent the American firm from obtaining data or some of the Russian drills if this can be arranged so as not to reveal United States technology of a high security character.

Weeks said that before the application was turned down it had been carefully reviewed by several agencies of the Government and that advice also had been sought from segments of the petroleum industry.

In a recent speech in New Orleans, Weeks had said that "from the Soviet point of view this type of 'exchange' is designed to create the impression of a fair exchange . . ." but he added at that time that an appraisal had to be made as to whether the exchange might not open the door for the Russians to the whole range of developments in American oil production technology.

He questioned whether the Russians might not stand to gain more because of their state control over their domestic technical data and "because they might latch on to an industry in which they are, on balance, in an inferior position technologically."

3 EX-U.S. WORKERS DENY RED PARTY MEMBERSHIP

DENVER, May 16 (AP)—Three former government workers denied yesterday they belonged to the Communist party while employed in Denver.

Two New Mexico residents and former government employes here invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to tell a House subcommittee on un-American activities whether they had belonged to the party.

All five were named last December in a hearing before the subcommittee at Chicago as party members while they worked for Denver's old War Labor Board between 1942 and 1945.

Herbert Fuchs, a former professor at American University in Washington, D.C., told the subcommittee that Philip Reno, Dwight Spencer, Donald Plumb and his wife, Arlyne, and Edward Scheunemann were Communists while with the WLB.

President Has Round of Golf.

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP) —President Eisenhower got in a round of golf yesterday afternoon at Burning Tree Club in Maryland after giving a White House luncheon for 27 members of his 1915 West Point graduating class.

Reds Win Back Only 'Trickle' Of Refugees, U.N. Official Says

No Hope of Resettling 80 Pct. of 65,000 Who Fled Iron Curtain, High Commissioner Asserts.

The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 16—The United Nations high commissioner for refugees said yesterday that Soviet Russia's recent appeals to Russians to return home for repatriation are getting only a "mere trickle" of response.

"All the Communist countries have issued amnesty pleas — 'All is forgiven and forgotten, come back'," said G. J. van Heuven Goedhart. "The results have been so thin you might as well ignore it."

Goedhart said there is now no hope for resettlement of about 80 per cent of the 65,000 persons who escaped from behind the Iron Curtain and who now are in 180 camps in 4 countries of Western Europe. The countries are Germany, Austria, Italy, and Greece.

The high commissioner held a press conference at the United Nations information office here yesterday. He is on his way back to Geneva by way of New York after a double mission of canvassing Latin American countries for further resettlement possibilities for the 20 per cent who would be accepted as immigrants; and seeking contributions from governments and other sources to integrate the remaining 80 per cent into the countries where they now are.

Goedhart said he was happy to report that at lunch yesterday, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO had presented him with a check for $2000 as a token of interest in this integration work.

He said that the project has to fight Soviet opposition all the way because his office will not permit any Soviet pressure to induce refugees to be repatriated.

$250,000 FUND TO AID REFUGEES

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 16 — This Government will announce shortly the earmarking of $250,000 to expedite emigration of Iron Curtain refugees in Austria, it was learned last night.

Funds already have been appropriated by Congress. The executive action, to be announced by the State Department probably today has the approval of Scott McLeod, in charge of consular and refugee matters as well as security matters for that department.

No security problem attaches to the Iron Curtain refugees in Austria, whose passage to other countries—notably to Scandinavia and some Latin nations—will be expedited.

Indeed, so anxious is the Kremlin to "repatriate" refugees in Austria who have fled from Russia and its satellites that a special Soviet mission is now in Vienna seeking to persuade them to return home.

Recently freed, at long last, of Russian occupation troops, Austria has become in recent months a principal funnel of Iron Curtain refugees into the free world.

A 26-nation Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration will administer the new grant.

TWO HURT IN BLAST AT SPRINGFIELD, MO.

Two-Ton Vat at Chemical Plant Explodes—Roof Ripped Open.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 16 (AP)—An explosion of a two-ton vat wrecked the main building of a chemical plant in southwest Springfield Monday night, injuring two workmen slightly.

The roof of the metal quonset-type building, 100 feet long, was ripped open from end to end as if by a giant can opener. Four others of the plant's six buildings were damaged.

There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

The Hoffman-Taff, Inc., plant makes vitamins and antibiotics, mostly for use by veterinarians.

A vitamin mixture was being heated by steam in the vat when it blew up, shaking the city and sending up a fireball that was seen for miles.

Elmer Garoutte, 36 years old, one of the five workers in the main building, said he heard a rumble in the vat and yelled for the others to get out.

"We were just going out the door when it went up," he said. Garoutte and Marvin Wilker, 46, suffered lacerations and bruises.

A heavy rainstorm helped quench the fire that followed. Firemen had to string hose about 100 yards to Wilson creek for water.

Eight years ago the company had an explosion that killed a workman and wrecked a building when the firm was located in north Springfield.

Fire at Merrick, Ill., Destroys Two Buildings.

MERRICK, Ill., May 16 (UP) —Two buildings were burned to the ground and a third heavily damaged Monday when fire, whipped by high wind, threatened the entire block of the business district.

The blaze broke out in a furniture store, spread to the Wagon Wheel Cafe, and to an adjacent dress shop. The nearby post office and telephone company buildings were threatened.

Authorities were unable to determine the cause of the fire. Firemen from Cowden, Shelbyville, Pana and the State Penal Farm at Vandalia helped bring the blaze under control.

The cafe and the furniture store were destroyed. No estimate of the loss was available.

WORLD TARIFF PARLEY NEARS SUCCESSFUL END

By MICHAEL L. HOFFMAN
The New York Times News Service.

GENEVA, May 16—The world tariff conference has completed all its work here except the tabulation and signing ceremonies. It has been a slashing success.

Preliminary calculations indicate that customs duties on nearly two billion dollars worth of trade (at 1955 prices) have been cut. Twenty-five countries have participated to a greater or lesser degree in the bargaining sessions, which began on Jan. 18, 1956. Nearly 60 separate bilateral agreements are expected to have been concluded when all the details are completed.

All the new tariff schedules will be incorporated in protocols to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. More than three-fourths of world trade will then be carried on under the aegis of G.A.A.T. The tariff schedules of the United States which are included in this mammoth trade accord are established, after negotiations, by the President's authority under the terms of the reciprocal trade agreements act.

The timing and intricate work of the negotiators has produced larger results than any participants expected. Most delegations, including that of the United States, are highly satisfied with the outcome.

There appear to be several reasons why this fourth round, as it is known (three previous tariff conferences having been held since World War II) proved to be such a big show. Awareness that it was now or never for countries hoping to take advantage of the United States Administration's authority to cut certain duties by 5 per cent yearly over a three-year period certainly was one factor. The first 5 per cent slash had to become effective before June 30, 1956, under the terms of the American trade agreements act.

Two other factors that enlarged the scope of the bargaining were the decisions of Western Germany and Italy to use the conference to obtain concessions for their exports by reductions in their own customs duties that they wanted to make anyway.

Britain's sincere effort to do what was politically feasible to meet the growing complaints against its high duties was another reason for the comparatively wide range of the final agreements. Britain has reached what experts describe as "substantial" agreements with the Scandinavian countries. Britain has also given some concessions on food products that are said to have gladdened the heart of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The actual rates of duty have to be kept closely guarded secrets until the date of promulgation, which each country will do according to its own procedures. Otherwise trade might be disrupted by heavy speculation in anticipation of duty changes.

The general picture, however, is fairly clear. The United States has reached substantial agreements with Britain, Western Germany, Italy and Japan. Of these the most important politically is that with Britain. The two countries failed to reach an agreement in the third round of tariff bargaining at the conference ending in 1952. But it seems probable that in terms of value of trade covered, the agreement with Western Germany will be the largest. It does not, however, include any important concessions by Germany on food products.

The British have reached important agreements with the Scandinavian countries, Western Germany, and the Benelux economic union (Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg). There have also been smaller but mutually satisfactory bargains between Austria and most of the other Western European countries and between the United States and the European coal and steel community, which has the power to fix tariffs on coal and steel for the six nations belonging to that supranational community (Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxumbourg, Italy, France, West Germany and

Next Wednesday there will be speeches and signing ceremonies in the United Nations building in Geneva. Herbert V. Prochnow, deputy undersecretary of state for economic affairs, will sign for the United States, acting under specific authority conveyed to him for the purpose in a letter signed by President Eisenhower.

NEW ART FORM COMBINES MUSIC AND DANCE IMAGERY

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP)—An art form as yet unnamed has been developed by Midland architect Alden B. Dow.

It utilizes a translucent plastic screen on which images are projected through colored spotlights accenting backstage props. Three ballet dancers perform behind the screen to musical accompaniment.

Dow says the device permits visual as well as auditory enjoyment of music and integrates dancing with instrumental performance in a way that has never been done before.

NEGRO TEACHERS SUE FOR JOBS IN WEBSTER GROVES

Two Ask for $145,000 Damages — Release Because of Race Charged.

Suit asking $145,000 in damages against Webster Groves school officials was filed yesterday in circuit court at Clayton by two Negro teachers who charged they were being released from teaching jobs solely because of their race.

The two, who teach at Douglass High School for Negroes, asked for a declaratory judgment to keep the Webster Groves Board of Education from failing to renew their contracts. They charged that the board was discriminating against them and violating their constitutional rights.

In addition, they charged that the school board plans to replace them with white instructors "who have less experience, qualifications and education."

Employed 28 Years.

The teachers are Miss Ruth G. Dixon, English instructor, who said she had been employed for 28 years in the school district, and Albert C. Shaw, instructor in vocal music and social studies, employed for five years.

The allegations were denied by Lyman F. Barrows, president of the Webster Groves board, who said Miss Dixon and Shaw were among nine of the 16 Douglass teachers who are to be released at the end of the present school year.

Douglass High School will be abandoned and torn down because Negro students in the district are to be integrated with white pupils next September at Webster Groves High School, he said.

At present, Barrows, said, there is a surplus of teachers at Douglass. He explained this was because in recent years many Negro pupils from other areas who have attended the school have been returned to their own districts.

Total Now Cut to 40.

There were as many as 280 such students but that number has been reduced to 40 now, he said, adding that by the end of the present term, these remaining outside students will be returned to their districts.

Every effort was made to retain as many of the Douglass teachers as possible and to place them in positions for which they are qualified, Barrows said. He said no teachers were being released because of their race. The board is releasing no white teachers, he added.

Defendants named in the suit are the six members of the school board; Leonard A. Steger, superintendent of schools; Charles E. Garner and Elmer Reynolds, assistant superintendents, and Howell B. Goins, Douglass principal.

Miss Dixon and Shaw, who said their annual salaries were $6634 and $4550 respectively, asked that the court declare them in effect re-employed on the present basis, asserting that the school board had failed to notify them of their release. Miss Dixon lives at 4223 Enright avenue and Shaw at 1715 Cole street.

CITY RECEIVES ASSETS OF ARMORY ASSOCIATION

Assets of the St. Louis Light Artillery Armory Association, including the Battery A Armory, were turned over to the city today in an action which will result in dissolving the association, founded in 1830.

Assets consist of $12,236 cash, Government bonds with a face value of $84,800 and real estate at Grand boulevard and Hickory street, where the artillery armory is situated, having an assessed value of $110,000. Actual value of the block, fronting 282 feet on Grand boulevard and 2888 feet on Hickory street, is estimated at $250,000.

Income and proceeds from the assets will be used for support of local National Guard units. The city is required by state law to furnish support to the Guard. Title to the association's property was conveyed to the city by quitclaim deed. Filing of the city's receipts in circuit court will dissolve the association, except for the corporation charter, which may be terminated at the end of the year. The association was represented by George Hecker, an attorney.

OPEN HOUSE IS BEING HELD TODAY AT CHEVROLET PLANT

An open house was held today at the St. Louis Chevrolet assembly plant, Union boulevard and Natural Bridge avenue, to enable the public to observe production operations.

The plant will remain open until 9 o'clock tonight, with guides stationed along the tour route to explain the various operations in assembling automobiles.

The open house is being held in conjunction with the dedication of General Motors new technical center in Detroit.

HONORED BY FRATERNITY

William M. Akin, president of the Laclede Steel Co., yesterday was made an honorary member of the Washington University chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, senior men's honorary leadership fraternity. Akin also is a director of the university.

Also initiated into the group at the ceremony held in Graham Memorial Chapel were Charles L. Lapp, professor of marketing in the university's School of Business and Public Administration, and 15 students.

2 MEN KILLED IN CAR COLLISION ON HIGHWAY 21

Police Say One Driver Was in Wrong Lane After Passing Auto in Jefferson County.

Orville J. Ramsey, 1710 Hickory street, was fatally injured, and Archie Harrison, of Arnold, Mo., was killed in a collision of two automobiles yesterday on State Highway 21 in Jefferson county, one and one-half miles south of the St. Louis county line.

Bobby Miller, 1124 South Eighteenth street, was seriously injured in the collision. He was the driver of the car in which Ramsey, 32 years old, was a passenger. Miller and Ramsey were taken to St. Joseph Hospital, Kirkwood, where Ramsey died today.

Harrison, 56, a carpenter, was driving about 70 miles an hour in the wrong lane after passing another automobile on a hill, state highway patrolmen said. He was turning a curve at the top of the hill when his car was struck by Miller's machine, they said.

Charles Lunceford, 17 years old, and Ralph England, 19, both of Collinsville, suffered serious head and chest injuries last night when they were thrown off a motorcycle in avoiding a collision with an automobile.

The accident took place at Johnson street and Combs avenue, Collinsville. Police were unable to determine which youth was operating the motorcycle.

The automobile was driven by Charles Genetti, 812 Vivian street, Collinsville. Lunceford lives at 107 Amanda street, England at 252 South Hesperia street.

Elvis May, 6041 Evergreen boulevard, Berkeley, escaped injury yesterday when his truck collided with an automobile at Beebe, Ark. Two Oklahoma women were killed and two others injured. They were passengers in the car.

U.S. Power Output Rises.

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—The nation's output of electric power rose slightly last week to a level 12 per cent ahead of the same week a year ago, Edison Electric Institute reported today. Power production totaled 10,837,000,000 kilowatt hours compared with 10,815,000,000 the previous week and 9,673,000,000 the like week of 1955.

CANTERBURY OPPOSES STRICT DIVORCE RULING

LONDON, May 16—Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, yesterday warned the Anglican Church against seeking an outright bar on church marriages of divorced persons.

It was the archbishop's opposition to divorce that was popularly believed to have weighed heavily with Princess Margaret when she decided last year not to marry R.A.F. Group Capt. Peter Townsend, divorced father of two children.

The archbishop urged the upper house of the convocation of Canterbury, the church's top legislative body, to omit a proposed new law which would prohibit the remarriage in church of a divorced person whose former spouse was still alive.

Dr. Fisher warned that many members of Parliament might challenge a church law that went beyond the law of the land in limiting "the liberty at present enjoyed by citizens and clergy."

SEAMEN'S STRIKE TIES UP 100 SHIPS ON GREAT LAKES

MONTREAL, May 16 (AP)—More than 100 ships of the Lake Carriers Association were idle today from Lake Superior to the Lower St. Lawrence river as a shipping strike went into its seventh day.

The strike was called last Thursday by the Seafarers' International Union against two members of the Carriers' association to back demands for higher wages. The other five member companies supported the struck lines by calling a partial tieup of their ships and threatening a complete stoppage.

The seamen's union demanded a monthly wage increase of $78.15 and a 40-hour week for deckhands now getting $190 monthly for a seven-day week.

CORNELIUS A. JUST ESTATE IS VALUED AT $335,787

A value of $335,787 was placed on the estate of the late Cornelius A. Just, a director and former treasurer of the Peter Hauptmann Tobacco Co., in an inventory filed in Probate Court today.

In his will he left half of his estate to his wife. Of the remainder, one-half will go to a son, Milton H. Just, vice president of Peter Hauptmann Tobacco Co., and the other in trust for another son, Quentin A. Just of St. Petersburg Beach, Fla.

Canada's TB Deaths Drop.

OTTAWA, May 16 (AP)—Canada's tuberculosis death rate dropped last year to 8.9 per 100,000 population. It has declined from 52.4 in 1943 and was 10.3 in 1954.

WINS RAILROAD SCHOLARSHIP

Carol Ann Hertenberger, a senior at De Andreis High School, has been awarded the Alton and Southern Railroad's second annual Alcoa Foundation college scholarship, James Davis, president of the railroad, has announced.

The scholarship, valued at $2000, may be used at any school which offers a bachelor's degree. Competition was open to children of the railroad's employes. Her father, Carl Hertenberger, is chief clerk in the Alton and Southern's traffic department. They live at 1915 Agnes avenue.

SCIENTIST SAYS FIRST SATELLITE FIRING MAY FAIL

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—A top scientist on the Vanguard earth satellite project said yesterday that the public should not be too surprised if the first attempt to launch a man-made miniature moon fails.

"We think there is a reasonable chance for success—but none of us will be surprised if the first satellite doesn't work," Dr. Homer E. Newell Jr. told the National Capital Squadron of the Air Force Association.

Newell, acting superintendent of the atmosphere and astrophysics division of the Naval Research Laboratory, is helping direct work on the Vanguard satellite which is to be launched sometime after June 1957.

Newell said it has been finally decided that the first satellite, of several which will be fired to altitudes of more than 200 miles, would weigh 21½ pounds and would be 20 inches in diameter.

Half the weight will be structural and the rest will consist of equipment including radio transmitters for tracking and for telemetering or sending back information.

Six Drowned in Serbian Floods.

BELGRADE, May 16 (AP)—Newspapers reported last night that six persons lost their lives in Serbia when a river swollen by heavy rain swept away a house where rites for a dead woman were being held.

8 MORE CALLED IN WORKHOUSE DRUG INQUIRY

7 Already Appeared Before Grand Jury, One of Them Linked With Convicted Man.

Eight inmates of City Workhouse were to appear today before a United States grand jury investigating reports of traffic in narcotics at the prison.

Among the witnesses are some known to have been addicts who have shown none of the symptoms associated with deprivation of narcotics since they entered the Workhouse and who, therefore, are presumed to have been receiving heroin in prison.

Seven prisoners, including Ernest Robinson, a Negro, who lives in the 3800 block of Finney avenue, appeared before the jury yesterday. Robinson is described as an associate of Nathaniel Harris who was convicted of narcotics violations last month. Harris has been identified as a source of heroin that found its way into the Workhouse.

Robinson's brother, Clarence, was convicted with Harris of violating the narcotics act but Ernest Robinson has no narcotics record.

Investigators have expressed the belief drugs were smuggled to Workhouse prisoners by visitors and a guard.

MRS. M'KELDIN'S CRUISE PARTY CAN'T FIND YACHT

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 16 (AP)—What could be more embarrassing than for your wife to invite 40 women to go sailing on your yacht which can't be found at the appointed time or place?

Mrs. Theodore R. McKeldin, wife of Maryland's Governor, found out just how embarrassing it was yesterday but the Governor quickly made amends.

Forty members of the Homeland Garden Club in Baltimore were scheduled to take a cruise with Mrs. McKeldin on the state yacht Potomac, but when they reached the dock the yacht was not there.

Mrs. McKeldin called the Governor. The Governor quickly determined that the yacht was still tied up at its berth in Cambridge, about 35 miles across Chesapeake Bay. The Governor then chartered a bus and two hours later, the garden clubers and Mrs. McKeldin boarded the yacht.

WORKERS SEEK $1,183,000 IN SUIT OVER PLANT CLOSING

Suit for $1,183,218 damages was filed in circuit court at Clayton yesterday by 110 members of the St. Louis Joint Board of Amalgamated Clothing Workers who charged they were laid off in 1953 when a St. Louis clothing concern shut down its operation here and set up a new plant in Puerto Rico.

Named as defendants were Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Floom, 7449 Delmar boulevard, University City; a son, Jack Floom, now of Puerto Rico; Louis Cohen, now of New York; the old Midwest Leather Clothing Co., Inc., of St. Louis, and Atlantic Sportswear Corp., Puerto Rico. Nathan and Jack Floom and Cohen were described as officers of the Midwest concern and of Atlantic Sportswear Corp.

The petitioners, seeking $623,218 in actual and $560,000 in exemplary damages, contend they were locked out of the plant and that their collective bargaining contract was violated by the re-establishment of the St. Louis operation in Puerto Rico. Their suit was identical with one filed previously in St. Louis. A somewhat similar action also was filed in United States District Court here in 1954.

WHEALEN URGES STATE BUDGETARY COMMISSION

Joseph M. Whealen, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, called last night for the establishment of a bipartisan budgetary commission to install sound budget policy and eliminate waste in state government.

Speaking at a Twenty-eighth Ward Republican meeting at American Legion Hall, 5470 Delmar boulevard, Whealen charged the Democrats have made no attempt to apply sound business practices to state finances. He said Missouri, which spends $400,000,000 a year, should have an effective budgetary control system.

He also spoke out against reports that the Legislature may consider state tax increases next year, asserting this will not be necessary if all sales tax collections are paid to the state. The candidate also recommended that a state income tax withholding system be inaugurated.

WTMV MAN CRITICIZES FCC

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 16—An official of a firm that operates Radio Station WTMV in East St. Louis, Ill., and Radio Station WGBF in Evansville, Ind., accused the Federal Communications Commission of "bias" yesterday in refusing to give his concern a television station permit.

Henry B. Walker Jr., secretary-treasurer of On The Air Inc., told the Senate Commerce Committee that the FCC approved a permit for a competitor, Evansville Television Inc., even though his firm was better qualified.

4 MEN INDICTED AS SELLERS OF OBSCENE MATTER

The circuit court grand jury returned indictments yesterday charging four men with circulating obscene matter. The jury continued its investigation today of the Pierce Building News Co., which was raided Monday by police who seized alleged obscene matter.

Indictments were returned against the following men who were arrested March 22 by members of the police morality squad and juvenile division:

Arthur L. Silverman, who has a newsstand on the northwest corner of Ninth and Olive streets.

Joseph A. Foster, operator of a magazine, book and novelty shop at 410 Washington avenue.

Police said most of the complaints against the men were based on display of magazines containing pictures of lightly clad women. Simultaneous arrests were made after police received the list of alleged offenders from the Board of Review for Juvenile Readers, established under a recent ordinance.

The ordinance prohibits distribution to minors of publications containing obscene matter or articles tending to incite children to crime.

In the raid on the Pierce Building News Co. Monday, a total of 21 publications alleged to contain obscene matter were seized, and Morris Hoffman, manager of the company, was arrested. He was booked suspected of possession of obscene matter.

HOFFMAN URGES CITIZENS TO SPEAK UP FOR FREEDOM

NEW YORK, May 16 (UP)—Paul G. Hoffman called on private citizens and business men yesterday to speak up for freedom and justice to counteract the "blacklisting, intimidation and fear" which is whittling away at our civil liberties.

Hoffman, chairman of the board of Studebaker-Packard Corp., former director of the Economic Co-operation Administration and former president of the Ford Foundation, spoke before students of the Bernard M. Baruch school of business and public administration at City College.

Hoffman said America's spectacular progress and its high standard of living are the effect, not the cause of a system of government based on freedom and voluntary action.

The system is being challenged, he said, by those who believe we must forsake our rights to dissent in order to fight totalitarianism by totalitarian means. He said the right to debate, the right to public assembly, the right to stand innocent until proved guilty had been debased by "a new form of Ku Klux Klanism—by which a group of Americans having no judicial status whatsoever can set itself up to pass judgement on the loyalties of their fellow citizens."

2 BOYS DROWN IN FLASH FLOOD IN SOUTHERN MISSOURI

KANSAS CITY, May 16 (AP)—Two boys drowned and several highways and bridges were damaged by flood waters as drenching rains of two days eased in southern Missouri yesterday.

The drouth-breaking downpours, heaviest in five years in some places, measured up to 10 inches in southern Missouri and northern Arkansas.

A once-dry branch of a creek about six miles east of Cassville, Mo., became a death trap for Bobby Lowe, 4 years old, and Dwayne Lowe, 9, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lowe. While the mother was at the farm home a mile away and the father at work in Kansas City, the younger boy waded into the water.

Dwayne Lowe went out to save Bobby and both were swept under by the fast-moving water. Another brother, Johnny, 6, witnessed the drownings. The bodies were recovered.

HEADS CHILDREN'S CENTER

Mrs. Robert Neill was elected president yesterday of Edgewood Children's Center, a United Fund agency, which serves 24 emotionally disturbed children at 330 North Gore avenue, Webster Groves. She succeeds Oliver M. Evans.

Mrs. Herbert I. Finch Jr. was elected first vice president; Mrs. Chester H. Volkman, second vice president; John B. Gunter, treasurer; Hadley Griffin, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. Sproule Love, secretary. The Center merged several months ago with Forest Park Children's Center, also a United Fund agency.

NO THIRD CHANCE FOR SCOT

EDINBURGH, May 16 (UP)—A judge refused yesterday to grant a divorce to John McReadie of Paisley on the ground that he had married his wife twice "and must have known her shortcomings."

The McReadies were married in 1933, divorced in 1946 and remarried in 1953.

STATE SUPREME COURT RULES AGAINST UNION

Opinion Says Pickets at Theater Near Gashland Could Ruin 'Businessman-Worker.'

JEFFERSON CITY, May 16 (UP)—The Missouri Supreme Court yesterday ruled against union picketing under certain circumstances, saying it may result in the "total elimination of the businessman-worker."

The opinion, written by Commissioner Cullen Coil, grew out of the picketing in June, 1954, of the Hillcrest Drive-In Theater north of Gashland on Highway 169.

Members of Motion Picture Machine Operators Union No. 170 of Kansas City picketed the theater in protest to use of a non-union projectionist. However, owners of the theater got an order from the Clay County Court to stop the union activity.

Crux of the case was the status of the projectionist, Albert Flippin, as co-owner of the theater. It was noted that Flippin was not eligible, under the union's own rules, to join the protesting labor group.

In ruling against the pickets, Coil noted the "importance to our economy of encouraging the self-employer — the one-man business."

Picketing under similar circumstances, Coil concluded, "may be the total elimination of the businessman-worker by reason of the fact that to replace himself as a worker may make the continuation of his business economically impossible."

The Supreme Court held that picketing should be prohibited "so long as a bona fide owner or co-owner of the theater operates the projection machine at such theater."

Two members of the court concurred in the result of Coil's opinion only. In a separate concurring opinion, Judge Henry J. Westhues and Commissioner Paul Van Osdol objected to a part of the majority opinion which touched on the question of whether the co-owner of the theater was eligible to join the union.

Van Osdol stated that he was "not ready to agree that the fact that an owner-operator may or may not join the picketing union is a decisive or even a relevant matter."

DU QUOIN MEAT PACKERS' STRIKE HEARING DELAYED

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—A National Labor Relations Board hearing in a month-old strike at the Du Quoin Packing Co. was postponed Tuesday to May 28.

Ralph E. Kennedy, St. Louis director of the NLRB, said the new date was selected because it was "more convenient" for company and union officials. The meat packing plant's 222 workers are striking for higher pay. All are members of the United Packinghouse Workers Union.

The NLRB has lodged an unfair labor practices complaint against the union local, contending it "failed to serve timely notices upon the Illinois Department of Labor" before calling the strike.

WOMEN HOUSEPARENTS NEEDED AT CHILLICOTHE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY—Women houseparents are immediately needed in the State Training School for Girls at Chillicothe to supervise delinquent girls, Norris F. Steenberger, director of the State Division of Personnel, has announced.

He urged that women with high school educations, who are interested in such work, apply and take the required merit system examinations.

Applicants without high school educations, who have had experience in such work, are eligible for the examinations.

PLEA TO CANCEL IDAHO POWER'S 3-DAM LICENSE

Public Power Spokesmen Tell Appeals Court Case Should Be Sent Back to FPC.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) —Public power spokesmen asked the Court of Appeals yesterday to cancel Idaho Power Co.'s license for three Snake river dams and send the case back to the Federal Power Commission in a "strait-jacket."

The court, which heard attorneys for the commission and the Idaho Power Co. defend the license, took the case under advisement.

Evelyn Cooper, attorney for the National Hell's Canyon Association and other public power groups, told a three-judge court the commission's decision was "so shot through with error" that a simple remand would not be sufficient to correct it.

"If the remand were to put the commission into a strait-jacket regarding its interpretations (of the Federal Power Act), then the remand might do some good," she said.

Otherwise, she told the court, the only recourse would be "to start all over again."

John C. Mason, FPC counsel, told the court the commission "acted properly and within its discretion."

He said the decision "gave full consideration to all benefits" of the three-dam plan of Idaho Power and the high single dam which public power advocates wish to have built by the Federal Government.

Mason said the major advantage of the high dam proposal was its added storage for flood control. He said the commission decided that this did not justify the additional $200,000,000 cost of the high dam.

Further, he said, there are alternative sites where this storage may be developed on the Clearwater river.

Both Mason and R. P. Parry, Idaho Power counsel, attacked Mrs. Cooper's contention that licensing of the three private utility dams violated the Army engineers' comprehensive plan for development of the Columbia river watershed.

Parry referred to it as a "mythical federal plan which is nothing but a changing inventory" of recommendations subject to periodic review.

Mason said it has not had congressional approval and cited action by Congress to "rescind" the authorization for federal construction of the Priest Rapids project in Washington state in favor of its construction by local interests.

He noted also that the federal Priest Rapids authorization called for a single dam while it is now proposed by local utilities to build two dams.

In her arguments, Mrs. Cooper emphasized the Pacific Northwest's need for low-cost power to keep its development at pace with its industrial and population growth.

She said this would be possible through the high dam but instead of this, the commission's decision "substitutes three-dam—or maybe only two-dam power which costs three times as much and would be 400,000 kilowatts less."

KANSAS CITIAN IS ELECTED HEAD OF MISSOURI BANKERS

James F. Mack, vice president of City National Bank and Trust Co., Kansas City, was elected president of the Missouri Bankers Association yesterday, at the conclusion, of the group's annual convention at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson. He succeeds R. A. Evans, of Carthage.

Carroll F. Burton, vice president of First National Bank in St. Louis, was elected vice president, and Sam B. Cook, vice president of Central Missouri Trust Co., Jefferson City, was elected treasurer.

QUEEN, DUKE TAKE BACK SEAT TO RUSSIAN BUSMEN

LONDON, May 16 (AP) — A party of Russian bus drivers vacationing in Britain got the feel of democracy in a monarchy last night.

They went to the movies to see "Cinerama Holiday."

The bus drivers are the first Russians to visit Britain in the role of tourists since the 1917 revolution in Russia.

Dulles Would Like U.N. Secretary to Solve Such Problems as Arab Refugees, Jordan Water—World Official Reported Reluctant to Go Back.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright 1956, The Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 16.

WITH PEACE and disarmament on the front pages, the memory is fading fast of how close war was just a month ago. The prestige of the United Nations and the skill and persistence of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold averted temporarily at least a conflict in the Middle East that in April seemed foredoomed.

But the elements of conflict are still present, and what is too readily forgotten is that the slide toward war was merely arrested halfway down the slippery slope. The cease-fire that Hammarskjold achieved is a long way from peace.

Now the pressure is building up to have Hammarskjold return to the Middle East to try to work out with Israel and the Arab states a full-scale settlement. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, according to reports here, is eager to have the U.N. Secretary General try his hand at the larger and far more difficult task of getting agreed solutions to such thorny problems as the Arab refugees and the allocation of the Jordan river water. Responsibility would be put on the U.N. in a Security Council resolution which might or might not call on Hammarskjold to return in person to the Middle East.

Policy of Restraint.

It is understandable that the Administration in Washington should want a second Hammarskjold mission. Thus far Dulles has been able to hold to a policy of restraint on arms for Israel. Those who try to look objectively at the whole deeply-rooted conflict believe this restraint has served the cause of peace.

But with a presidential election just ahead, the pressure on the Administration is bound to grow. Democratic candidates are bidding for votes with an appeal to send arms to Israel to match the Communist shipments that have gone to Egypt. Already an effort to ease this pressure is evident in inspired reports in Washington that France and Canada are being encouraged to sell modern weapons to the Israelis.

If Hammarskjold were to undertake a second mission in the near future, the result would be from the Administration viewpoint to buy more time and take off some of the heat. With a United Nations peace mission in the field, it would obviously be improper to initiate new arms shipments and the Eisenhower administration could point that out in continuing the present restraint.

But Hammarskjold, it can be said on excellent authority, has no intention of being persuaded or pushed into an effort to settle the great problems that divide Israel and the Arab states. He feels not only that such a mission would be bound to fail, but also that to undertake it would be to undo all that has been achieved thus far. Therefore, even though the pressure grows to get Hammarskjold back to the Middle East, he is determined to say no.

Imposed Peace.

Back of this determination is his conviction that an effort to reach a larger settlement at this stage is bound to look like a peace imposed by outside powers, the United States, Britain and France in particular. And such an imposed peace would be resisted both by Israel and the Arab states. All the suspicion of the three-power guarantee of the Egypt-Israel borders, which Hammarskjold had to overcome on his first mission before he could even make a start, would be revived.

What Hammarskjold actually did achieve by his mission has been both overrated and underrated. Because the fear of war had been so great, public opinion seized on the cease-fire as proof that peace was already a fact.

But to have broken the chain reaction that appeared to be inevitably leading to open warfare was in itself a remarkable victory. The way in which Hammarskjold intervened, with the backing of a unanimous resolution of the Security Council, to dispel the feeling on both sides of the fatal certainty of war suggests that if future wars are to be stopped the process must begin while there is still time to break the chain reaction.

It is already too late when it becomes necessary to brand one side or the other as an aggressor. That action after the event is largely irrelevant. In the view to which Hammarskjold is coming as a result of his experience in the Middle East, the United Nations must concentrate on new techniques with emphasis above all on timing so that intervention can come before it is too late. If this had been understood earlier, it is conceivable that the Korean war might have been avoided.

Diplomacy Channel.

In the months just ahead, in Hammarskjold's view, the channels of diplomacy must be used to further Arab-Israel peace. This should be done by encouraging the principals themselves to work toward eliminating at the outset obstacles to peace such as the Egyptian blockade of the Suez canal. The key sentence in his report to the Security Council to which he comes back again and again is:

"It is my feeling that there is a general will to peace and that this will should be fostered and encouraged, not by attempts to impose from outside solutions to problems of vital significance to everyone in the region, but by a co-operation which facilitates for the governments concerned the taking unilaterally of steps to increase confidence and to demonstrate their wish for peaceful conditions."

This does not mean that the United Nations and Hammarskjold himself cannot help the process along with quiet encouragement and understanding. But at this stage when the prospect of peace is still a very young and frail infant, to hand the baby back to the United Nations with responsibility for its future would do more harm than good for all concerned.

If events go as Hammarskjold hopes in the months just ahead, some of the worst sources of hostility will be subject to private diplomatic negotiation. A beginning might be made on either the Suez blockade or on the presence of Israeli forces at El Aoujah, the latter being a source of great feeling on Egypt's part.

Refugee Problem.

Granted that the will to peace continues to prevail and that some degree of success is achieved on these lesser problems, then in perhaps six months it may be possible to try to resolve one or more of the big outstanding differences such as the rancorous problem of the Arab refugees. Hammarskjold in the course of his mission became convinced that Israel would have to accept some degree at least of moral responsibility for the refugees. At the same time the Arab states would have to refrain from exploiting their homelessness to advance the Arab cause.

This is one of the most threatening areas from which new incidents could originate. The refugees, particularly in Jordan and Syria, are developing a vested interest and a political power that are a threat to existing governments. On the Arab side, therefore, the desire is growing to remove this source of danger.

In six months an approach can also be made, it is Hammarskjold's hope, to the problem of the Jordan river water. Here, too, Israel must show less intransigence. By showing, for example, moderation on the question of fishing rights in Lake Tiberius, the Israeli government would help to persuade its Arab neighbors that a plan for mutual development of the Jordan waters would be of benefit to both sides.

At the time he flew to the Middle East with a mandate from the Security Council, Hammarskjold had not realized how close war was with both Egypt and Israel accepting the inevitability of a conflict. After the Israeli shelling in the Gaza strip, resulting in many civilian casualties, and Egyptian retaliation with suicide squads, full-scale war was widely believed to be only 12 hours away.

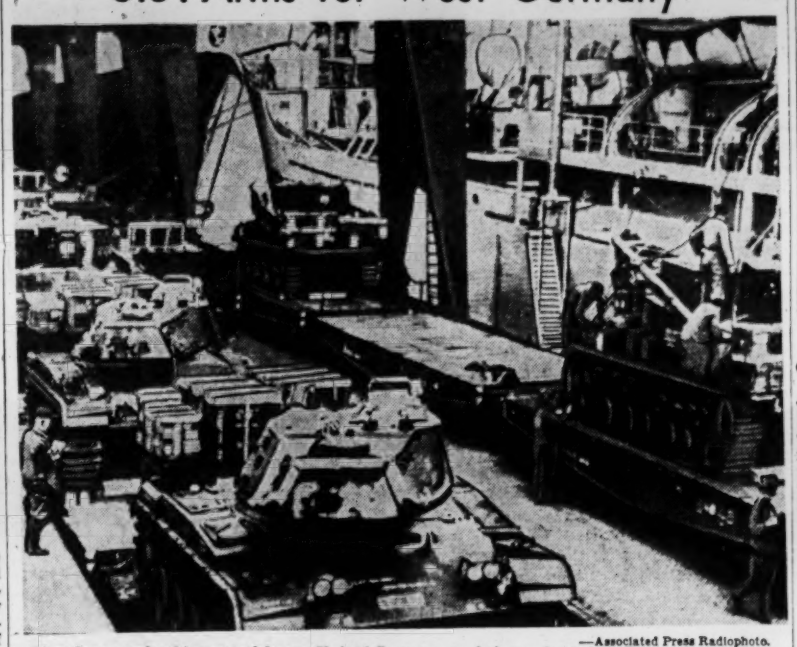

It was at this point that Hammarskjold applied what one of the Arab foreign ministers referred to as "the shock treatment of your bedside manner." He talked with almost brutal frankness both to Premier David Ben-Gurion of Israel and Egypt's Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Fearful of War.

The United Nations Secretary General found that both men were privately fearful of war, with the realization that even a victory would have consequences so devastating as to open the way to chaos and perhaps to Communism. Nasser's position is considerably less strong than is popularly assumed outside Egypt. He must contend with the fierce currents of Arab nationalism in a primitive peasant country under the U. S. Disturbs Allies by Failing To React to Russian Policy Moves

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP).

IT'S EASY—and in this country it has become a habit which may prove dangerous—to look coldly on each new move the Russians say they make to ease tensions.

It has been both popular and safe in this country to be anti-Russian to the extent of belittling the actions taken over the past year by Stalin's heirs, shrugging them off as propaganda, or claiming American policy forced the Soviet actions.

But no one in this country can honestly say he knows the full significance of the changes which have occurred in Russia and the satellites, internally and externally, or how far they will go or where they will end.

There is no reason to believe the Russian dictatorship in the foreseeable future will melt away or collapse. There can be no illusion about the ultimate hopes of the Soviet leaders: A Communist world. They have talked of it frankly.

Communist party boss Khrushchev said in February the Communists everywhere would try to take over where they could peacefully by parliamentary means but, if necessary in a few stubborn countries, by violence.

Suspicion Can Be Paralyzing.

That frankness provided justifiable suspicion about every Soviet move made thereafter. But suspicion alone can become a paralyzing force by acting as a substitute for detached appraisal and imaginative response to Soviet actions.

It is possible that changes occurring behind the Iron Curtain will let loose forces which may turn Russia into a more benevolent path than the present leaders intend or imagine.

The more rigid the American attitude remains, the less able this country will be to take advantage of Russian changes or even to spot the real ones when they happen. It takes no imagination to say automatically: The Russians can do no good.

This government's present foreign policy is the one laid down by President Truman—who himself remains highly skeptical of Russian intentions—to meet Stalin's threatening policy in the 1940s: Military alliances and foreign aid.

Both may be necessary indefinitely. But the Eisenhower Administration has produced no major variations on the Truman theme to meet Russian policy shifts even though the Truman program was a reaction to Stalin.

His heirs are even better armed than in Stalin's day, but they have publicly repudiated him and proclaim their intentions as peaceful. That may not be convincing in this country.

Reds Impress U. S. Allies.

But the more the Russians work at their appearance of peacefulness, the more they are bound to affect and influence American allies and neutral nations who, living next door to Russia, know they might be reduced to powder in an American-Russian war.

To them American rigidity, if it continues, may look sophomoric, dangerous, and unattrac-

Farm Vote Would Go to G.O.P. Today

Kefauver Favorite Democrat in Midwest Rural Areas.

By JOHN M. FENTON
Gallup Poll Staff Representative.

PRINCETON, N.J., May 16.

IF THE election were being held today, President Eisenhower would likely carry the farm vote in the Midwest, but the size of his margin of victory would depend on who was his Democratic opponent.

Running against Adlai Stevenson, Mr. Eisenhower today would make about the same showing as he did in 1952. Four years ago, 72 per cent of Midwestern farmers voted for him; as of today, 71 per cent of the farmers say they prefer the President to Stevenson.

If the Democratic candidate were Estes Kefauver, the picture would be less favorable for the Republican. With the Tennessee Senator in the race, Mr. Eisenhower would have a much smaller margin, getting 56 per cent of the vote to Kefauver's 44 per cent.

The questions we asked and their results:

"Suppose the presidential election were being held today. If Mr. Eisenhower were the Republican candidate and Adlai Stevenson were the Democratic candidate, which would you like to see win?"

Results:

Eisenhower — — — — 71%
Stevenson — — — — — 29

Question:

"If Mr. Eisenhower were the Republican candidate and Estes Kefauver were the Democratic candidate, which would you like to see win?"

Results:

Eisenhower — — — — 56%
Kefauver — — — — — 44

After many long conversations in all parts of the Midwest, and after an analysis of the results of the work of the other reporters, these two general conclusions seem warranted:

1. The switch to Kefauver, on the part of one person in four who supported Mr. Eisenhower four years ago, is not so much a partisan vote against the Republican administration as it is

West Pushing Development Program of Iraq to Keep It, Oil in Pro-West Column

Feudal System Still Exists in Historical Land Where Alexander the Great Defeated Darius — Communists Active as Peasant Drive for Land Grows.

By JOSEPH ALSOP

ARBIL, Iraq.

HERE in this strange land of Iraq, history already made is almost oppressively prominent. This city of Arbil, for instance, is none other than Arbela of the history books. Near here Alexander the Great inflicted final defeat on Darius, great king of the Persians, who fled hence alone into the wilds of Khorassan and there was murdered.

Arbil was already old when its people saw the Macedonian phalanx, for this is quite probably the most ancient inhabited place in the world. Throughout its span of countless centuries the little city has literally built itself up, out of the surrounding plain, on its own ruins. And the "modern" city walls (only a couple of hundred years old) spring from the dizzy verge of a man-made mesa a hundred feet in height.

History has a trying way, however, of never coming to a halt. And here in this remote province of northern Iraq, where the great King's golden-armored guard broke and fled before Alexander's spearmen, another battle is now being fought in the eternal struggle between East and West. Perhaps it is more correct to say that a race is being run here, between the destructive effects of social change in this ancient land, and the constructive effort of the new Iraq's boldly conceived, oil financed development program.

Vital Oil Sources.

The race is of vast importance, for Iraq, with its Western orientation, is the chief protection of the vital oil sources on which Britain, Europe and the Western alliance squarely depend. If Iraq changes sides, the whole Western position in the Persian gulf and even in Arabia will soon become untenable. It is the development program that is counted on to keep Iraq on a steady course.

Here, if you like, is history in the making in the most dramatic form. For the aim of the development program is nothing less than to undo the damage done by the heirs of Genghis Khan, who found what is now Iraq, a rich, well-irrigated land supporting a population of 25,000,000. And so ravaged the irrigation system with their battles that four-fifths of the people died of hunger. The very canals that may first have been traced out in the time of Hammurabi, the lawgiver of old Babylon, and were destroyed by Hulagu Khan or Timur the Lame, are now to be brought into use again. In the end, Iraq's total of productive acres is to be almost doubled.

Here in Arbil province, the lifegiving waters of the Tigris and Euphrates are beyond reach, so no new acres will be opened for cultivation. But irrigation is only one part of the development program which is showing its effects in many ways hereabouts. The province has an energetic governor, Ishmael Hakki. All the flatland below the mesa, where modern Arbil is spilling out onto the plain, is dotted with Gov. Hakki's construction projects. In one place, a new 300-bed hospital is slowly rising. In another is the headquarters of the German refugee doctor, whose mobile clinic is the first of three motorized health units to serve the more remote villages. Several schools have already been finished. Two more are under construction. There is even a little park, where the suburban citizens take the air and schoolboys study their books.

All these are signs of change in a way of life that has hardly changed since the time of Timur the Lame. But there are other signs of change, too, of a very different nature.

Feudal System.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

St. Louis Shows the Way

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

During recent months, I've taken note of the many articles devoted to the Supreme Court's desegregation decision.

These reports, though interesting, usually deal with those areas of the nation where integration for the most part has been practiced for generations or to the other extreme where it has been bitterly opposed. Very little has been said of the states that knew little or nothing of integration, yet courageously and obediently met the challenge.

As a native St. Louisan and one who is proud of the amazing progress St. Louis has made in this direction, I am happy indeed to see the efforts we have made. A series of articles on our experiences would prove to be interesting and could in a very large way serve as an influence for enlightenment of other communities. FRANK A. REDDEN.

Why Steel Goes Up

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I was surprised at the lack of economic knowledge shown by your editorial writer in composing his piece so cunningly titled, "Look Out for Steel." He complains that "nearly every one of steel's eight price increases since World War II has been larger than necessary to pay for the wage increase."

Of course they have been larger! Not only must a price increase pay for the direct wage increase to the steelworkers, but it must also cover the resulting increased cost of raw materials. Your editorial writer forgets—or ignores—the fact that when steel wages rise, other wages rise, too, causing big jumps in the price of materials used to make steel.

Wage costs are a small part of a steel mill's cost when compared with raw materials. To be specific, the Granite City Steel Co. last year spent 22.4 per cent of its sales dollar for wages and salaries, while 48.1 per cent went for raw materials and supplies!

Miners digging the ore, limestone, coal, etc., get more money, and these costs must be paid by the steel mills. Steel scrap, another raw material, costs more every week.

You cite the profits of U. S. Steel Corp. in one paragraph—which are higher than most other steel companies. In the next paragraph you talk of "an industry which is earning such undreamed of profits," wrongly assuming that when one company makes a high profit, all others in the same business must be making the same amount.

You saw what happened in Great Britain when the Government took over the steel mills. One big flop! So before you go about calling for our Government to "begin now to move in on big steel," you'd better go back and start rechecking your facts. STEEL EMPLOYE.

He Quits

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

As an election official for the past eight years, I recall only once when over 50 per cent of the voters in the precinct in which I serve came out to vote.

For eight years, on every election day, I have risen at 4:30 in the morning to get to the polls by 5:30. Then to wait in vain until 7 o'clock for voters to come in. A few do show up, but it seems the majority do not have the time.

Last week in one of the most important elections of the century less than one third of the people turned out.

No more am I going to spend 16 hours at the polls, lose two thirds of my pay and considerable sleep just for a few politicians.

The majority has decided that voting is a waste of time. And as we must agree with the majority, I am wasting no more of mine. I quit. ARTHUR O. VOIGT.

Anniversary in Georgia

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The 100th anniversary of Brunswick, Ga., as a chartered city, will be celebrated Aug. 13 to 18. We hope to locate former citizens of our community now residing in other sections of the country and extend to them a personal invitation to come back to us during the celebration. They can renew old acquaintances and have a whale of a good time.

Communications should be addressed to the Brunswick-Glynn County Centennial Celebration, Box 574, Brunswick, Ga.

Tom Is a Menace

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Reader Paul K. Johnstone certainly doesn't know much about the destructiveness of cats on the prowl at night.

No animals kill and eat more young birds out of their nest than cats and snakes. A cat is a threat to every bird that is hatched.

Watching cats try to catch birds in the day time and watching them stalk and kill birds setting on their nest or roosting in a tree at night, are two different things. No young bird is safe in its nest if there is a cat prowling the neighborhood.

I am talking from experience. Cats killed in their nest and ate young doves, mocking birds, brown thrashers, cat birds, robins and red birds in our yard last summer.

Whoever owns a cat should keep it on their own property. Some of us would rather raise birds on our property for we know without birds, civilization could not exist, but we can very well get along without cats.

BIRD LOVER.

The Soviet Military Cut

It would be foolish and naive to slash forthwith the American military establishment on the strength of Moscow's announcement of a forthcoming cut of 1,200,000 in the number of Soviet men under arms.

The Soviet move may come from a sincere desire to contribute to mutual world disarmament. Or it may grow out of a plan to take men from the armed forces and to place them in defense production, industry or construction, meantime remaining in military reserve units. Since we cannot be sure at this time as to the true purpose of the Kremlin, the only safe course is not to let our guard down.

But if it would be foolish to accept the announcement without double checking, it would also be a mistake to dismiss it as meaningless. We can maintain a reasonable skepticism and at the same time welcome it in the hope that it will lead to something more tangible and more measurable in the future.

Secretary of State Dulles gave the news a qualified welcome. First he expressed the view that the cutback in manpower under arms would not appreciably weaken Soviet capabilities militarily. Then he said that the Russians were attempting to reap propaganda benefits from manpower adjustments required by internal economic conditions.

The stock market, always looking for an excuse to react, sold off sharply, apparently on the assumption that the new policy in Moscow might bring about a cut in American defense spending. In the long run such a speculation might well be sound. Certainly it would be borne out if the new announcement opened the way for intensive efforts to achieve an adequate inspection system.

Although Secretary Dulles finds a probable explanation in Russia's internal situation, it also is possible that the Soviets are responding to the military cuts that have been made by the United States. The Kremlin says it cut 640,000 last year. Add that number to the 1,200,000 cut now reported and the figure approaches 2,000,000. This comports somewhat with our own cuts and to similar reductions made by the British and French since the anxious days of tension over Korea.

American armed forces reached a peak of 3,700,000 men in the summer of 1952, having gone up from 1,500,000 following the Communist aggression in Korea. By the time the Eisenhower Administration came into office an informal cease fire was in effect, and in mid-1953 a truce was signed. The Administration since then has steadily reduced armed personnel until today it stands at 2,814,000, or a cut of 24 per cent from the 1952 peak.

Just at the moment, American military spending is going up, not down. The House has just approved defense appropriations of 33.6 billion dollars, an increase of 1.7 billion over last year—a sum which will permit expansion of the armed forces by June 1957 to 2,865,200. The Administration's foreign aid bill would more than double next year's funds for military outlays abroad.

This situation tends to give the Russians an advantage in the contest for the favor of the uncommitted peoples of Southeast Asia and elsewhere on whom the outcome of the Cold War depends. The Kremlin's propagandists claim to be cutting while the United States builds up. But any time the Soviets really want disarmament they can bring it nearer by long strides through joining the United States and other democratic nations in a fool-proof arms inspection program which will protect Communist and non-Communist peoples alike.

Our Greatest Waste

Our country, falling dangerously behind the Soviet Union in scientific training could have 79,000 more high school graduates a year, 14,000 more college graduates. Its failure to have them is impairing our national security. Why, then, does the United States continue to lack these thousands of trained Americans?

Prejudice. Specifically, race prejudice. For these potential high school and college graduates are Negroes. Their race, making up roughly a tenth of the population, is "the single most underdeveloped human resource in the country."

That is the conclusion of one of a series of studies in wasted manpower inaugurated at Columbia by Dwight D. Eisenhower when he was president of the university. Only last week James Reston, chief Washington correspondent of The New York Times, reported how serious is the lag.

Similar warning has come from a study by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee's subcommittee on research and development. Its chairman, Representative Melvin Price of East St. Louis, says a "cold war of the classrooms" has become "the major threat to America's survival" and the United States is falling behind in this "battle of brainpower" with Russia.

The wastage of Negro abilities is a great human tragedy. It is a national Pearl Harbor magnified many times, a disaster not the less appalling but the more so for being self-inflicted.

Race prejudice has become a national calamity. In a world where ignorance is daily more dangerous, and training more essential to the security of all, we dare not continue letting a tenth of Americans go to waste.

Question for Mr. Nixon

Senate investigators are resuming their inquiry into the Washington affairs of Murray M. Chotiner, who was Vice President Nixon's campaign manager. They are especially interested in the fact that a convicted jury-tamperer got Mr. Chotiner four clients who were involved in cases with the Government.

And there we have said it again. Mr. Chotiner was Mr. Nixon's campaign manager. Is this "guilt by association"? Mr. Nixon's defenders are asking. Mr. Chotiner managed the Nixon campaigns, of course, but he also managed campaigns for Earl Warren, now Chief Justice, and others. Why pick on Mr. Nixon?

The answer is plain and the Nixon ranks surely know it. By taking a high moral position on "influence" cases in one party and keeping remarkably silent on a similar case closer to home, the knight-errant of 1951 has assumed the position of a sitting duck.

For example, in 1951 William M. Boyle denied that he had used his influence with the Democratic National Committee to introduce private clients to the RFC. Senator Nixon said then: "The very fact that the introduction comes from the National Committee . . . constitutes influence."

That same year Senator Nixon was highly dissatisfied with the Boyle investigation and said: "This inquiry has too many loose ends to call it closed, and I think we'll have to resume hearings."

The statements which Senator Nixon made then are exactly applicable to the Chotiner case today. For Mr. Chotiner also stands high in his party's leadership and also arranged contacts (through White House assistants) for private clients with a federal agency. Does that very fact constitute influence? Does this inquiry have too many loose ends? Vice President Nixon does not say. It takes no great sense of public ethics to recognize that influence peddling would be just as bad in Republican as in Democratic ranks. The Crusade which Senator Nixon helped to lead needs to be brought up to date, and Vice President Nixon is just the man to do it.

A Committee to Continue

The Citizens' Charter Committee ought to be kept alive. While the Citizens have won a battle, and a major one at that, the war is still not over. Last week's election of the 13 uncommitted freeholders supported by the committee and Mayor Tucker is only the first step toward a Charter permitting sound and efficient municipal government in St. Louis.

Two important hurdles remain to be cleared. First is the revision or rewriting of the Charter, whichever the freeholders deem advisable. Second is the task of conducting an educational campaign which will lead to the adoption of a new, modern and efficient Charter. Assuming that the freeholders do an outstanding job, as we may expect, still everything will be lost if the Charter is not adopted at the polls.

Why disband the Citizens' organization? Why not keep it in being until the Charter is finally approved? A method certainly could be worked out to sustain interest in freeholders' deliberations, and to provide a sense of participation for each of the several hundred persons on the Citizens' Committee.

The job of revising or rewriting the Charter promises to be a complicated business. The more people who understand exactly what the freeholders are doing and why, the better. Knowledge is the one best weapon to defeat half-truths, innuendo and falsehood. These were all employed against the proposed Charter that was defeated in 1950, and they may be used again.

The Citizens' Committee ought to take a close, continuing interest in what the freeholders do. Perhaps the Citizens might create one or several subcommittees to observe the freeholder deliberations in detail, as the League of Women Voters did last time. Then, through the medium of a news letter, everyone on the committee could be exposed to the knowledge that will be essential when it comes time to take the Charter to the people.

A large, well-organized and informed group of citizens with a sustaining interest in the Charter—a committee in which everyone enjoys a sense of participating in an effort for the public good—would give the freeholders the backing and assurance they are going to need.

A Shropshire Hen

There's a hen in Hickory, N.C., which, if we were fond of mixing our metaphors, we would say is a lone wolf. It refuses to associate with the other hens in the barnyard. It won't touch shelled corn. It shuns the henhouse as many people shun modern architecture. Apparently working on the thesis the poet A. E. Housman extolled when he wrote that one should "prepare for ill and not for good," this hen lives in the doghouse. Eventually, that philosophic fowl seems to be saying, we may all wind up in the doghouse; so why not start there?

The more we think of it, the surer we are that Housman would have liked that Carolina chicken. If not corn, what does the Hickory hen subsist on? Exactly what one would expect of a student of the melancholy poet who averred that "malt does more than Milton can to justify God's ways to man." Beer. Only the hen in the doghouse, an individualist to the last, goes Mr. Housman one better, and takes its beer with salted peanuts.

How the President Could Help

Until a relatively short time ago the Eisenhower Administration was under criticism for foot-dragging on school aid. Instead of prodding a Republican Congress to action at the very outset of his term of office, the President announced the program of state education conferences which finally culminated in the White House gathering. Most school authorities held this a waste of time since they needed no conferences to enlighten them on the shortage of classrooms and of teachers. Some teachers became rather bitter over the irrecoverable time lost by pupils for whom there are no adequate school facilities.

But now blame is being shifted to the Democrats. After the White House Conference, the Administration did urge Congress to vote school-building funds. But the legislation has been held up in the House Rules Committee for fear it might be lost in a floor fight on the amendment proposed by Representative Adam C. Powell, New York Democrat. This would withhold federal funds from school districts not complying with the Supreme Court's desegregation ruling.

The risk is real, but some of the Republican strategists in the House are quietly supporting the Powell amendment for that very reason. The motive is plain enough: these Republicans would be only too happy in a campaign year to hold Northern Democratic desegregationists and Southern Democratic segregationists responsible for the failure to vote school funds.

There is nothing edifying about this way of giving politics priority over education. We believe that the Powell amendment is out of order. The desperate need for school buildings should not be tied up with the segregation controversy. Each problem should be met on its merits. And President Eisenhower might do well to call in congressional leaders of both parties to tell them just that. He might well use his prestige to break this political log-jam for the sake of the school children of the United States.

If Senator Bible Retires

Colleagues of Senator Alan Bible of Nevada are urging him to reconsider his decision to withdraw from the Senate, as he has announced that he will do at the end of his present term, next January. Well they might. As of now the prospect is that Senator Bible's successor as the Democratic senatorial nominee from Nevada will be Julien G. Sourwine.

Mr. Sourwine is the protege of the late Senator Pat McCarran and a McCarthyite in both outlook and activity. It was Mr. Sourwine who was counsel for the Eastland subcommittee on internal security which sought to identify The New York Times with Communist infiltration and plotting. In the best witch-hunting style he tried to link that great American newspaper with journalistic activity by Communists and fellow travelers. The effort was a complete failure, but it was tried nonetheless.

If Senator Bible decides to run again the Sourwine candidacy will probably disappear in thin air and that is one very sound reason to hope that Nevada's junior Senator will make up his mind that he wants to stay in the Senate.

The Re-engagement in Maryland

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Coming dramatic campaign between Senator Butler and former Senator Tydings should not be repeat performance of their 1950 contest; editorial advises Mr. Butler to live down that disgraceful episode, while Mr. Tydings would be unwise to seek revenge.

From The Baltimore Sun

The coming campaign between Mr. Tydings and Mr. Butler promises to be more than usually dramatic. It contains elements that any novelist of the political scene would relish.

Mr. Tydings and Mr. Butler have met before. That was in the senatorial campaign of 1950. Mr. Tydings deliberately refrained from seeking nomination four years ago, preferring to wait for a return engagement with the man who had defeated him.

Millard E. Tydings

We may be sure that the occasion of their previous meeting, the 1950 campaign, will be recalled frequently in the months to come. Before this happens we make bold to offer a suggestion to each of the candidates.

As for Mr. Tydings there will be a strong temptation to make this a campaign of revenge. For six long years he has been reflecting on the causes of his defeat in 1950. He would be less than human if he did not look upon the coming campaign as an opportunity to correct a grievous personal wrong.

In so far as that campaign reflected on his loyalty and otherwise distorted the truth about his actions in office, he is certainly entitled to do so. But he will make a mistake if he supposes that Mr. Tyding's personal satisfaction in getting at the man who defeated him is more than a secondary matter to the voting public.

As for Mr. Butler, the forthcoming campaign will provide an opportunity to live down one of the most disgraceful senatorial campaigns in the history of Maryland—a campaign which the Senate itself had difficulty in accepting as tolerable.

John M. Butler

Another campaign on the lines of his last one—and we make due allowance for Mr. Butler's ignorance of some of the things that went on—will not go down at all well. The public is a little wiser about such things.

This time Mr. Butler will not be able to plead ignorance, say, of the contents of the state election laws. He will do well to stick to the record of his six years as a Senator and to the issues which confront state and nation.

Cartoonists and the Atomic Age

Carl Rose in the Atlantic Monthly

In the past half century our cartoon symbols have been in a state of flux. Under the prod of science we have been forced to discard treasured and hard won symbols—symbols which are instantly recognizable to readers of cartoons.

Where now is the cartoon symbol for great wealth, for plutocracy? Some years ago, the nabobs, the robber barons, the vested financial interests were portrayed as porcine individuals, silk hatted, bulb nosed, wing collared, sphere bellied. They wore dollar signed vests around their uninhibited equators, and watch chains thick enough to secure an anchor swung around their fourth buttons.

How now, in these heydays of science, can one depict unseemly affluence? A mere quarter of a century ago, it was easy: A silk hat, a fur collared coat, a gold headed cane, and you had a demonstrably rich man. Today's Croesus wears a homburg (no fur collar, no cane) for which he may have paid $200 but which, for cartoon purposes, looks not a bit different from the $10 homburg affected by the honest laboring man on lodge nights.

What has science given us to replace that clearly comprehensible symbol for irresistible power, the mighty juggernaut, and its smaller brother, the simpler but still pictorially effective steam roller? It has given us the atom. But what does an atom look like?

No longer does the convict wear a horizontally striped garment. The sociologists have seen to that. No more is the tough guy characterized by the broken nose and the beetling brow; not since plastic surgeons have moved in.

Once, unbridled rapacity was represented by a well fatted, unmannerly hog at a trough. But scientists aren't breeding pigs for fat anymore. Pork chops are becoming leaner, like the outlook for editorial cartoonists.

It takes little extrapolation to perceive the end result. Except for a few obdurate Amishmen, chin whiskers are relics of the past. Why, then, should Uncle Sam, the up to date, world leading Uncle Sam, still sport that little goatee? And as for those striped pants with the strap under the arch, that outrageous beaver hat, that ludicrous 1820 tailcoat—uh!

The future Uncle Sam—the Uncle Sam given the seal of approval by science—will be a balding gentleman with horn rimmed glasses, wearing a laboratory smock upon which is imprinted an arcane equation. Come to think of it, Uncle Sam would resemble, of all people, a physicist. This should certainly leave the scientists happy.

White Man Crazy

Dr. John F. Anderson Jr. in The Dallas Herald

The Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman recently sponsored a contest for the best essays suggested by two pictures, one showing a dilapidated house and the other a field badly eroded. First prize went to a Cherokee Indian, who wrote: "Both pictures show white man crazy. Make big tepee. Plow hill. Water wash. Wind blow soil. Grass all gone, papoose too. No chuck-away. No pig, no corn, no hay, no cow, no pony. Indian no plow land. Keep grass. Buffalo eat. Indian eat buffalo. Hide make tepee, moccasins too. Indian no make terrace. No build dam. No give a damn. All time eat. No hunt job. No hitchhike. No ask relief. Great Spirit make grass. Indian no waste anything. White man crazy."

What Makes a Home?

TWO AND THREE MAKE ONE: THE STORY OF A FAMILY. by Winifred Woodley. (Crown, 167 pgs., $2.75.)

How often it has been said: "Why don't we hear about healthy, normal families? It is always the stories of divorce and tragedy that make the headlines." Well, here is one answer. And because this is an authentic journal relating the trials and rough passages of married life as well as the happy, satisfying moments, it is understandably written under a pseudonym.

Winifred Woodley, whoever she is, is a delightful raconteur, a thoroughly normal person, with a healthy and unflagging sense of humor. She is the object of her own quips along with the rest of her family and friends. It is that honest appraisal of her own abilities, ambitions and shortcomings which makes this book completely convincing.

"Two and Three Make One" is a casual journal written without thought of publication, describing the unfolding years of a growing family. Winifred and Hugh meet at the end of the First World War and the close of the book sees their elder son in his Air Force uniform safely home after his service abroad in the Second World War. But the story is centered chiefly about the early years of this son and his sister and brother, and the mother who is an intellectual with ambitions for a personal career.

When Winifred starts her married life she has high hopes for herself, but the realities of living soon stare her in the face and she is forced to make decisive choices. It is in the way she handles the problems which face her that the interest lies.

What puts the imprint of success upon this marriage and Winifred's position as a mother is her perception of the true values that are essential for making a home. She is convinced that a mother should be available in the home when her children are there, not obtrusively making a point of reading to them or playing with them, but just being there, and being aware, herself, of what goes on. Perhaps not too exciting or flattering these apparently meaningless hours if taken out of their context of time, yet they add up to a remarkably successful life, lived in a stormy period when the divorce rate shot up and children were set adrift from their parents.

Quite typically of this period, Winifred started out with a jewel, that indispensable, incomparable member of the household who cooked and cleaned and cared for the family. Before her children were grown, Winifred was doing all these things herself, as well as being a wife, mother and a free lance writer—still the intellectual but a less rebellious one.

For one who has lived through these years this book will have a nostalgic flavor of a personal "only yesterday" revealing story of a family of moderate means and position, itself a part of a changing society in Westchester county, that lively community which is sandwiched between metropolitan New York and the rolling hills of Connecticut.

Biggest Bargain of Its Kind

A DICTIONARY OF AMERICANISMS, edited by Mitford M. Mathews. (Chicago, $12.50.)

In the five years since its first appearance this unique dictionary has firmly established its place as a basic reference work in the field of American English. In the original two-volume edition costing $50 it won a place in libraries and wherever the American language and literature are studied. Now the identical text, sturdily bound in a single substantial volume running to 2000 large pages, has been reissued at a quarter the price.

This makes it far and away the biggest bargain of its kind on the market and well within the means of even the average reader. Briefly, Dr. Mathews has assembled some 50,000 words and phrases added to the English language by American usage, together with a prodigious number of quotations illustrating the manner of that usage. The drawings number more than 400.

WALTER LIPPMANN

French Prospects in North Africa

PARIS.

IT IS A BOLD MAN who coming from the outside presumes to talk about the French problem in North Africa. For myself, I cannot see far into the problem for which there is not, so far as I know, any example anywhere else of a successful solution.

Yet it is plain enough that a crucial test is about to begin. In about four weeks the French government in Paris will have deployed in Algeria the military forces — about 400,000 men — that it judges to be necessary to pacify the country and to contain the active rebels in their mountain fastnesses. When that has been done as now planned, Paris plans to hold elections. From them there are to emerge Arab leaders willing and able to negotiate a peace.

Lippmann

The terms of that peace are not published but they are based on the concept of autonomy for the Algerian Arabs within the framework of the French state.

Algeria Is Different.

There are some, as good judges as any, who believe that this official policy will have been tested by the autumn.

A visitor soon learns to realize that he must not think of Algeria as another in that series of countries to be evacuated—in the series which began with Lebanon and Syria, went on to Indochina and has recently come to include Tunis and Morocco.

In a sense that these other countries never were, the French think of Algeria as a national interest. That is because at least one-seventh of the people of Algeria are Frenchmen.

Algeria is not an economic asset. Indeed it is a liability.

Will the Arabs Vote?

It is to the large community of Frenchmen that the French at home feel themselves bound. There are signs of a mounting popular will to stand by them and not to let them become a helpless minority in a sovereign Arab state.

In the months to come there will be put to the test two questions: Can the rebellion be subdued by a dense concentration of troops in the main populated areas?

If they are subdued, can the Arabs be induced to participate in elections and, shutting their ears to Cairo, to negotiate for something less than sovereign independence?

The prospects of a negotiated settlement on the French terms are, it may be said, not very bright. At least, assuming there is no overwhelming and crushing defeat of the rebellion, the Paris Government would have to offer extraordinary concessions at the expense of the vested priviliges of the French community in Algeria.

Weakness in Paris.

One can doubt whether the Paris government is strong enough to impose a military victory on the Arabs and at the same time a political settlement on the French community.

It is this weakness of the government, by the way, which accounts for the growing amount of talk about drastic constitutional reforms.

But, though the prospects are not bright, it would be a mistake to suppose that the unsuccess of the present policy would lead to abandonment and evacuation. So at least it seems to me here in Paris. The French interest is real.

Hard Racial Problems.

The French army might fail to pacify all of Algeria but it cannot be defeated. There is not now an organized army opposing it, as there was in Indochina.

If the official policy does not succeed, the issue might well become one of holding more firmly the coastal region where the French community is predominant rather than of pacifying the Arab hinterland.

There is no great likelihood of a clear solution and a full settlement. There are too many Frenchmen settled among too many Arabs for that, and in certain ways the basic problems of racial equality, co-operation and co-existence are even more refractory than they are in our own Deep South.

LUTHERANS' FUNDS TO AID INTEGRATION

Synod Resolution Opposes 'Cultural Patterns of Prejudice.'

Anti-segregation policies of the Illinois Synod of the United Lutheran Church will be supported wherever possible by extra funds and personnel for member churches in communities where racial patterns are changing, it was decided here yesterday at the synod's annual convention.

Implementation of the synod's existing policy was adopted in a resolution approved by 300 delegates who opened the group's thirty-seventh yearly meeting Monday night at St. Mark's English Lutheran Church, 6337 Clayton road, Clayton.

The convention, which will close tomorrow, continued today with ordination of pastors. Delegates represent 99,000 Lutherans in Missouri, Illinois and Wisconsin. President is the Rev. Dr. Harmon J. McGuire of Chicago.

Adds 'Concrete Help.'

"This resolution," a spokesman for the synod explained, "adds concrete help to the synod's moral support for integrated congregations in communities where racial barriers are disappearing. It will aid congregations wishing to conform to church policy and will discourage support for segregation."

The text of the statement reads, in part:

"Recognizing that situations will arise in which support must be given by the Synod through its agencies and congregations, it will take a helpful interest in these areas and, where at all possible, will help and provide workers and additional personnel.

"The Church must free itself from those cultural patterns of prejudice and discrimination which exist in our society, and must manifest in its own life the principles and attitudes of Jesus."

Illinoisan Honored.

Roy L. Fosberg of Rockford, Ill., who is retiring as synod treasurer after serving 25 years without pay, was honored yesterday with presentation of a purse and a book of signed testimonials.

Fosberg's successor, who will be salaried, is Glenn W. Schmidt, attorney and trust officer of Chicago, Ill. He will have the title of Secretary of Stewardship, and be responsible for financial records. He will also direct the stewardship program of the synod, edit its newspaper, and have charge of public relations.

The synod yesterday elected the Rev. Carroll L. Charles, 219 Frost avenue, Ferguson, director of missions.

GARDEN CLUB MEN TOUR ARBORETUM

A tour of wild flower trails at the Missouri Botanical Garden's Arboretum at Gray's Summit was the principal event today for delegates to the twenty-first annual national convention of the Men's Garden Clubs of America, which is meeting at the Park Plaza and Chase hotels.

After the tour of the Arboretum, the delegates were taken to Shaw's Garden for lunch and a tour of the gardens ending at the home of Henry Shaw on the grounds. George Pring, superintendent of the gardens, will give an illustrated address tonight on "Strange Plants and Flowers." Other speakers tonight will be Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Gilliam, who will talk on "Wild Flowers."

Tomorrow's program includes an address by Dr. R. N. Goodman of the University of Missouri on "The Uses of Antibiotics in Plant Disease." The convention will close Friday with a banquet address by Edgar Anderson, director of Shaw's Garden.

Various exhibits of novelties made by members from gourds, such as reptiles, birdhouses, turtles and Indian clubs, were on display at convention headquarters.

Frank W. Phelan Dies

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—Frank W. Phelan, who started as a junior cable operator when he was 14 years old, and became president of American Cable and Radio Corp., died yesterday in a Brooklyn hospital. He was 63. Retired since 1945, he was considered a leading authority in international communications.

GROUPS TO HOLD ONE-DAY CONFERENCE ON CHILDREN

A one-day conference on "Rearing Children of Good Will" will be held at the Gatesworth Hotel Friday by the National Conference of Christians and Jews in co-operation with 15 major parent and women's organizations of the St. Louis area.

Principal speakers will be Dr. Fannie R. Shaftel, associate professor of education at Stanford University, and Dr. Everett Clinchy, national president of the N.C.C.J. The conference will last from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

After an opening general session, the 150 delegates from the co-operating organizations will divide into workshops dealing with pre-school children, elementary school children and high school students. Mrs. C. Oscar Lamy, former co-chairman of the Missouri Region, N.C.C.J., is chairman. Vice chairman is Mrs. Carl J. Muskopf, president of the St. Louis P.-T.A. Council.

Singer Will Oakland Dies.

BLOOMFIELD, N.J., May 16 (AP)—Will Oakland, a top ballad singer of his generation, died of a heart attack yesterday on a bus. He was 73 years old. He made a fortune with his high tenor voice and was the idol of teen-agers of the 1920s.

SERVICE AWARDS GO TO FOSTER PARENTS

Family and Children's Group Honors Those Who Care for Wards.

Foster parents who make homes for children, under the care and legal custody of the Family and Children's Service of Greater St. Louis, were honored at a dinner last night at the Downtown Y.M.C.A., 1528 Locust street.

Special awards for outstanding service to foster children were presented to Mr. and Mrs. William A. Kaysser, 10601 Charrette drive, Affton, and to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith, Negroes, 4118A Labadie avenue. The special awards were silver plates.

Silver pins denoting more than five years' service as foster parents were awarded to 35 persons and bronze pins were given to 22 individuals for more than two years' service.

Presentation of the awards, known as the Elizabeth Hitchcock Memorial Awards in honor of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Hitchcock, first president of the Children's Aid Society of St. Louis which merged with the present agency, was made by her son, Henry Hitchcock, a board member of the United Fund agency.

Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein of St. Louis county was the principal speaker. He said that in 50 per cent of the juvenile cases which come before him the children should not be sent to State Training Schools but should be placed on probation and sent home.

However, he said, in many cases the court knows that, if the child is sent home, he will be back in court within a matter of weeks. Many of these cases could be helped, he said, if an agency such as the Family and Children's Service could work with the family.

STUART M. CHAMBERS NEW HEAD OF CIVIC MUSIC LEAGUE

Stuart M. Chambers, 7 Hortense place, has been elected president of the Civic Music League, it was announced today. He succeeds George C. Mackay, who served as president for 25 years.

Chambers, former treasurer of the Pulitzer Publishing Co., was chairman of concert arrangements during the past year for the non-profit music group. Mackay, an attorney, has been named honorary president of the board.

Other new officers are Clifford E. Drozda Jr., vice president; Mrs. Henry Bry, secretary, and John K. Bryan, treasurer. New board members are Mrs. Harry Bischoff, Mrs. Elmer Oechsle, Miss Ann Ganus, Miss Birdie Wendel, and Joseph Perrine.

PRINCIPAL, 19, QUITTING SCHOOL TO GO TO SCHOOL

LINCOLN, Ill., May 16 (UP)—Fred Cutlip, 19 years old and already a school principal, said today he was quitting to go to college.

Cutlip is principal of the nearby consolidated Lawndale grade school, even though he is only slightly older than some of his fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade students.

He likes his work and the county school superintendent likes him. But he still wants a college education.

Therefore, he said, he will call a halt to teaching for a while and enter eastern Illinois state college next fall. He plans to major in physics and become a teacher again as soon as he gets his degree.

Cutlip, an honor graduate at Lincoln high school and junior college, took a state examination for a provisional teachers certificate a few weeks before school opened last fall.

To his surprise, he passed the test and was named principal of the Lawndale school, five miles from Lincoln. The school has an enrollment of 50. In addition to his duties as principal, Cutlip teaches all the elementary courses—reading, arithmetic, geography, etc.

MRS. W. D. HEMENWAY JR. DIES ON EUROPEAN TRIP

Mrs. W. D. Hemenway Jr., wife of an insurance company executive, died of a cerebral hemorrhage Monday in Frankfurt, Germany, while on a European vacation trip with her husband. She was 50 years old. Their home is at 200 South Price road, Ladue.

Mrs. Hemenway and her husband, who is president of the Insurance Agency Co., 214 North Fourth street, left St. Louis April 22 for a trip through several European countries. Mrs. Hemenway, the former Betty Corby, attended Mary Institute and Bennett Junior College and was a member of the Junior League.

Surviving besides her husband are a son, W. D. Hemenway III, 29 Picardy lane, Ladue, and a daughter, Mrs. Stephen L. Kling, 8661 Delmar boulevard, University City. The body will be returned to St. Louis and taken to C. R. Lupton and Sons undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, University City.

ONE HEART DISEASE HARD TO RECOGNIZE

Often 'Masquerades' as Other Ailments, Stanford Professor Says.

Pericarditis, or hardening of the sac which incloses the heart, often is not recognized in patients for long periods and "masquerades" as other diseases, such as rheumatic heart disease or cirrhosis of the liver, Dr. Emile F. Holman, professor emeritus of surgery at Stanford University, said here last night.

Dr. Holman, a pioneer in the field of surgery of pericarditis, delivered the annual Hodgen lecture sponsored by the St. Louis Surgical Society at the St. Louis Medical Society auditorium, 3839 Lindell boulevard.

He described symptoms of the disease, which in most cases occurs in tubercular patients when fluid enters the pericardium and hardens there, restricting the heart's activity.

Tuberculous pericarditis symptoms, he said, include in the acute stage chills, fever, rapid pulse and some signs of heart compression.

Removal of all or part of the hardened sac is necessary to avoid increasing pressure on the heart and disabilities which would result, Dr. Holman said. He added that although the hazards of surgery are higher for older patients, age itself should not prevent an operation.

Dr. Holman, an advocate of surgery of pericarditis in the early stages of the disease, said that a young person with an apparently normal heart and normal valves but with evidence of circulatory failure "should be suspected strongly of having constrictive pericarditis."

The Hodgen lectureship was established as a memorial to Dr. John T. Hodgen, noted St. Louis surgeon of the nineteenth century.

ART SECTION SHOW OPENS SUNDAY AT ARTISTS GUILD

The annual exhibition of the Art Section of the Artists Guild will open Sunday with an open house from 3 to 5 p.m. at 812 Union boulevard. The show will be on view through May 31.

To qualify for entry, members were required to have had at least one work of art accepted in an out-of-town jury show, or in a local show judged by an out-of-town jury, in the last year. The art section has about 30 members.

VANNECK SCHOLARSHIP GOES TO UNIVERSITY CITY SENIOR

Miss Leslie Minear, a University City High School senior, was one of two girls to receive Vanneck Foundation scholarships for children of employes at American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. Miss Minear is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Minear, 559 Stratford avenue, University City.

The other award winner is Miss Juanita Sellers of Dumas, Tex., also a graduating high school senior. The scholarships to schools of the girls' choosing provides for tuition and an additional maintenance stipend, both for four years.

This is the fourth year the scholarship program has been in effect. Recipients are selected on basis of achievement, examination and activities.

MRS. IDA CONNOR FUNERAL WILL BE HELD FRIDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Connor, mother of a physician and of a former police judge, will be held Friday at 9 a.m. at St. Louis Cathedral, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Connor, 78 years old, died of heart disease yesterday at Firmin Desloge Hospital. She lived at 4894 West Pine boulevard. Her husband, John, a retail liquor merchant, died in 1918.

Surviving are three sons, Dr. John J. Connor, pathologist for the St. Louis coroner; James H. Connor, an attorney and former police judge, and Carl P. Connor, and a daughter, Mrs. M. B. Martin.

VATICAN TAKES STEP TOWARD SAINTHOOD OF INNOCENT XI

VATICAN CITY, May 16 (AP)—The remains of Pope Innocent XI, undisturbed for 254 years, were "recognized" yesterday in another step of the long process leading to his beatification.

The ceremony was held behind the closed doors of St. Peter's Basilica.

The three coffins that held the remains—one of cypress, one of lead and the final one of elm—had been placed in one of the Basilica's huge pillars 12 years after the Pontiff's death Aug. 12, 1689. Beatification is now expected to take place next month.

Cards Leading Lights in Stengel's We-Fear-Labine League

Brooklyn Relief Ace Saws Up Bats Again To Hold 7-5 Victory

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

BROOKLYN, May 16 — As if the Cardinals hadn't enough to contend with against Brooklyn, especially here at Ebbets Field, the difficulty had intensified today because of Clem Labine's progress as the league's toughest pitcher for the Redbirds.

For that matter, Labine now must be regarded as the most serviceable and rugged reliever in the National League, a ready and steady workman who drew the utmost in praise from Casey Stengel during a spring training bull-session.

"They say," said the double-talking Yankee manager who loses his listeners in pronouns, "that the big guy (Duke Snider) beat me with his hitting in the World Series, the little guy with his glove (Sandy Amoros) and that young lefthander with his pitching (Johnny Podres).

"But I say," Ole Case said with a wink of emphasis, "that the one who beat me was that guy from the bullpen with his work in three different games. He makes that pitching staff a lot more respectable than it's supposed to be."

Indeed, Professor, indeed. And, as mentioned, Labine, that guy from the bullpen, has become the league's best against the Cardinals, Statistician Allan Roth of the Dodgers proved by delving back into his ledgers after the 29-year-old Rhode Island righthander clamped down on the Cardinals in the final three innings of a game won by the Dodgers last night, 7 to 5.

Against the Grain.

The figures are startling, particularly when it must be remembered that throughout Labine's life in the majors the Redbirds have had a lefthanded-hitting lineup that has feasted on righthanders.

In 25 games Labine has allowed the Redbirds only 42 hits and 14 runs in 63⅔ innings, but that's really nothing, friends, because those totals include two fragmentary frames in 1952 when the Cards cuffed him as though he was just a thrower.

Since he became a full-fledged fireman in 1954, however, he truly has been "My Darling Clem Labine," which the poets of the Ebbets Field pressbox have termed him in a takeoff on that old vocal about Clementine. He gave up a run to the Redbirds on May 5 a year ago, but since then has worked 24 assorted and important scoreless innings at their expense. And since they last beat him on June 12, 1952 at St. Louis he has won eight games from the Cards and saved three more.

With his fast sinker and a sharp-breaking overheaded curve that he also keeps down around the knees with extremely able marksmanship of the mound, Labine both saved and won last night's game after Rookie Don Blasingame's shakiness at shortstop and Tom Poholsky's home-run ball had given the Dodgers a lead toward their fifth straight victory.

Brooklyn's bullpen ace was so effective the final three frames, yielding just one single after starter Chuck Templeton and replacement Ed Roebuck had been mussed up, that the official scorer wisely awarded him the ball game.

No One-Club Specialist.

For all his consistency against the Cardinals, Labine, it must be emphasized, is no one-club pitcher, but a master of all he surveys. So far this season he has appeared in nine games for the world champions. He gave up two runs in his first six innings, and since then has hurled 11 successive scoreless rounds. And in those 17 frames he has demonstrated probably the two most effective weapons of any pitcher, certainly of a reliever: He hasn't walked a man and hasn't served up a homerun pitch, either.

Poholsky, by contrast, though having hurled handsomely this month-old season, still is troubled by his gopher ball. He has given up six in 37 innings, including two last night that, unlike most home runs off his serve, came with men on rather than with the bases empty. Disastrously, too, his sharp control betrayed him as did his defense.

In the first inning, for instance, after not having passed a man for 12 frames, Tom walked Junior Gilliam, leading off. As a result, Roy Campanella's two-out triple, a high fly just out of Rip Repulski's reach against the chummy left field wall, accounted for the first enemy tally off Poholsky in 12 innings. And Gil Hodges followed with a two-run drive into the stands.

Then in the fourth when it seemed the stylish St. Louis pitcher had found his touch again, he issued a one-out base on balls to Amoros. It proved costly because Poholsky didn't know he'd have to retire five men to get three.

First Blasingame, over-eager in his first appearance at Ebbets Field, booted Carl Furillo's double-play bouncer right at him. Then he boxed pinch-hitter Randy Jackson's grounder to his right, loading the bases. Junior Gilliam's soft hopper sent one run across and then came the blow of doom. Little Pee Wee Reese, delivering his first 1956 homer, lined a pitch into the left field stands for three more runs and a 7-2 Brooklyn lead.

Virdon Hits Homer.

The Cardinals, outhit 10 to eight as Repulski couldn't get quite enough help to go with two doubles and a single that boosted his league-leading average to .452, scored twice off lefty Templeton in the second inning, then drew close in the sixth when slumping Bill Virdon unloaded a three-run homer off Roebuck.

That smash served only to bring Labine into action sooner rather than later. They make a habit of calling Clem in time now, you see, ever since that shuddering afternoon all Flatbush wept in '51.

It was the final inning of the final game of an exciting playoff with the hated rival Giants at the Polo Grounds, New York was threatening as Labine, who had shut out the Giants the previous day, pumped hurriedly in the distant bullpen with another Brooklyn righthander.

Came a moment of decision that never will be forgotten in baseball. The Dodger lead was reduced to two runs with one on and one out as Charley Dressen beckoned, not for Labine, but for Ralph Branca.

Lovin to Coach at West Frankfort High

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., May 16 (UP)—James Lovin, a former Southern Illinois University football star, is the new football coach at West Frankfort High School.

Lovin, a native of Benton, will come here after two years as coach of all sports and athletic director at Virden. Lovin replaces Robert Colborn who moves to Murphysboro High School as head coach of all sports.

Young to Coach Ripon.

RIPON, Wis., May 16 (AP)—Russ Young, athletic director and head coach at West Depere High School for the last 15 years, was appointed head basketball coach at Ripon College. He succeeds William H. Hollinger who has accepted a position as director of athletics at Hiram (O.) College, his alma mater.

Gordon Jones Sent to Omaha

Righthand pitcher Gordon Jones today was sent back to the Omaha farm club of the Cardinals as the Redbirds reduced their roster to their limit of 26.

Jones, who won five games and lost eight last season, with Omaha and the Cards, worked 11 innings this year, winning none and being charged with two losses. He gave up 14 hits and nine runs in those 11 innings.

The Cardinals are thus down to the roster limit hours before the deadline—midnight tonight. Vinegar Bend Mizell, as a newly-returned serviceman, does not count toward the roster limit.

The announcement of Jones's release was made by the club office here.

Campy Slides and the Cardinals Skid

United Press Telephoto.

A highlight in Dodgers' three-run first inning against the Cardinals at Ebbets Field last night was ROY CAMPANELLA'S triple. Two were out and one man on base when Campy hit the left field wall with a drive good for three bases. Then Gil Hodges homered to give the Dodgers a lead they never lost. The Redbirds dropped the game, 7-5. In the picture the ball is bouncing away from Third Baseman KEN BOYER but Campy was in safely anyway.

Stu Miller's Six-Hit Win Over Braves Makes Phils Trade-Happy

PHILADELPHIA, May 16 (UP)—Stu Miller had his trade status of "throw-in" changed to "sleeper" today on the basis of his perfectly-timed victory over the Milwaukee Braves in his first start for the Philadelphia Phillies.

Miller joined Robin Roberts as the only Philadelphia hurler to pitch a complete game this season when he beat the Braves 3-1 last night, holding them to six singles.

The slim righthander was only another name in the seven-player weekend shuffle between the Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals.

But with a fine pitching job which broke a 10-game Philadelphia losing streak, Miller changed his status from a "junker" throw-in to that of a sleeper in the trade and, as Manager Mayo Smith said with a wry smile, "The key figure of the moment."

Miller's big pitch of a thrilling victory over Lew Burdette was his third-out swinging strikeout of Eddie Mathews with the bases loaded in the seventh inning after the Braves had broken a scoreless tie with their only run of the game.

Then he retired the next six batters to close out the game and while at it included his fourth strikeout of Joe Adcock as part of the Phils' first victory since April 29.

"The pitch to Mathews was a changeup and you can say for me it was the best pitch of the game," the likeable Miller said.

Smith said he decided to start Miller after a talk with him at a hotel. Miller insisted he'd like to start . . . that he pitched better when he did.

"He threw a variety of stuff out there, different types of curve balls, sliders. He set up the batters nicely and his fast one was pretty good. Well, I have been told by other players that he could be the sleeper in the deal. He was not a throw-in. In fact we're mighty glad we've got him," Smith said.

Bog Keegan Comes Back.

Bob Keegan, who was headed for the minors only a week ago, today has the Chicago White Sox back into the thick of the American League race.

A sore arm case most of last year when he didn't win a game until Aug. 31, the 35-year-old Keegan reeled off his second straight triumph when he beat the Washington Senators, 5-1, with a nine-hitter. He hasn't yielded an earned run in 21 2-3 innings this season and the two victories equal his entire 1955 total.

The victory was the fifth straight for the White Sox and moved them to within a game and a half of the Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees who were rained out last night. On May 9, the White Sox had plummeted to sixth place with a 6-8 record and Manager Marty Marion was considering sending Keegan to the minors.

The Baltimore Orioles pounded out 14 hits to beat the Kansas City Athletics, 9-5, and the Detroit Tigers snapped a three-game losing streak with a 6-3 decision over the Boston Red Sox in other American League games.

That Man Zuverink!

Jim Wilson received credit for his fourth victory although it was George Zuverink, relieving for the fifteenth time this season, who kept the Athletics in check after they cut Baltimore's margin to four runs in the seventh. Billy Gardner hit his third home run of the year for the Orioles.

The Tigers routed nemesis Willard Nixon with eight hits and five runs in four innings to drop the Red Sox back to the .500-mark. Paul Foytack won his second game for the Tigers although he needed help from Steve Gromek in the last two innings. Nixon had entered the game with a 12-5 lifetime edge over Detroit.

In the National League Willie Mays and Don Mueller homered and Johnny Antonelli turned in a five-hitter to give the New York Giants a 6-4 win over the Chicago Cubs. The loss was the Cubs' twelfth in 14 games and dropped them into the National League cellar.

Brooklyn Game in Jersey Puts Redbirds Back in Bus League

BROOKLYN, May 16—For their late-afternoon trip to Jersey City, where they'll play the Dodgers in one of Brooklyn's seven home games in New Joisey, the Cardinals will take a bus. And because they'll be betwixt and between following the night contest at Roosevelt Stadium, they'll continue on to Philadelphia by bus rather than return to their Manhattan hotel.

Herman Wehmeier, who pitched effectively in relief last Sunday at Chicago, will start for the Redbirds and Roger Craig, rangy righthander with a 3-2 record, probably will pitch for the fast-coming Dodgers.

Jackie Robinson, veteran Brooklyn star, hailed the Dodgers' acquisition of Sal (The Barber) Maglie, who won a reputation and pennants for the Giants by beating the Bums in key games. "Sure, he's no kid—who is? —But he's a great competitor and he's still got it, the way he held us to one hit in four innings for Cleveland a couple of weeks ago in an exhibition at Jersey City," Robinson said.

The feeling is the Brooklyn brass was fearful the Indians might deal Maglie to another National League Club for use against Brooklyn.

Tom Poholsky still hasn't won a game at Ebbets Field in nine decisions . . . Stan Musial, though he drove in a run with a sacrifice fly, is 0-for-10 and has had only one safety in his last 18 trips . . . Ken Boyer hit into a double play with two on in the third, which produced only two Redbird runs even though the first four players reached base, but later Boyer delivered two hits . . . Rip Repulski's three blows extended to 13 the string of consecutive games in which the left fielder has hit safely.

Hal Smith, batting a red-hot .500, was lifted for a pinch-batter, Grady Hatton, in the eighth inning after three hitless trips. It's a funny game, all right. Brooklyn now uses a defensive replacement (Gino Cimoli) for the outfielder (Sandy Amoros) whose great catch saved the 1955 world series. . . . Hatton was ejected by Plate Umpire Frank Dascoli for heatedly maintaining he foul-tipped the third strike Roy Campanella didn't hold. . . . Larry Jackson, replacing Poholsky, worked four scoreless innings against a Brooklyn club he handled better than any other St. Louis pitcher in '55. . . . Smith twice pegged out Dodgers trying to steal, once with a lightning-quick tag by Don Blasingame. . . . Light rain fell in the third inning of a game that drew 15,788 cash customers.—B. B.

Karl Spooner To St. Paul for Two-Game Test

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 16 (UP)—Lefty Karl Spooner of the Brooklyn Dodgers was optioned to St. Paul of the American Association today, subject to immediate recall if he proves he can "throw hard" in two games.

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers imposed this unusual stipulation to Spooner's transfer. Alston said he knows "Spooner can pitch well if he can throw hard."

"It's up to him to prove it," Alston said, "in two games, however, not just one."

Spooner threw well in batting practice last night prior to the game against the St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers said that St. Paul had been advised of the unusual aspects of the player switch.

Spooner, a 24-year-old fireballer, made an auspicious major league debut in September of 1954 when he struck out a total of 27 batters in winning his first two starts with shutouts. Bothered by arm trouble this spring, he has not pitched in a game for the Dodgers.

Plot Is Thick as Mud, Sooners Forfeit to Tigers

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 16—Oklahoma's Sooners forfeited themselves out of the first place in the Big Seven Conference baseball race by refusing to take the field for the second game of a series with the Missouri Tigers here yesterday.

The forfeit left Oklahoma with a 4-2 record and Missouri with 7-2 in Big Seven conference play. Both teams have four more games left to play.

Oklahoma had won the opening game from Missouri by 13-6. But a six-tenths inch rain fell overnight Tuesday, making the infield of the regular playing field too soft.

Coach Jack Bear refused to send his players on to the grass diamond, located in the center-field section of the regular Rollins baseball field.

"There's the diamond over there," he said, pointing to the regular playing field. "If umpires say it is in playing condition, we'll play."

He said that Oklahoma had a pitcher injured on the grass field in 1942 and he didn't want to run that risk.

Coach John (Hi) Simmons of Missouri said that the grass infield isn't a temporary field, but an auxiliary that has been used regularly since 1941. "We played Kansas State on it last year," he said.

Umpire Dick McKinney of Knasas City called "play ball" at 3:30 o'clock. No sooner responded. McKinney then gave Coach Bear six minutes to start the game. Missouri players, with Norman Stewart on the mound, assumed their positions, but after six minutes no batter stepped into the box and McKinney called the forfeit.

The game was the last on Missouri's home schedule. The Tigers play Nebraska at Lincoln Friday and Saturday, and wind up competition against Kansas at Lawrence on the following Monday and Tuesday. Oklahoma has games with Iowa State and Colorado, all at Norman, on its schedule.

Court Decision Against Santee Boosts A.A.U.'s Authority

In the Ozarks With Stokely

By Z. Lee Stokely
Ozark Sportsman and Outdoors Writer.

Normal spring covey break-ups of quail are running two weeks later this year than usual. April was cool or cold over most of the state and many of the birds observed still were in coveys throughout the month. But in the early part of May the birds started pairing off and now are busy finding nesting sites and making ready for mid-summer reproduction.

The carry-over of brood stock from last year was the best in the past four years and, with a favorable nesting and rearing season, it is very probable that this fall will provide an even better year than 1955.

In a short period—from 30 to 45 days during the summer months of June and July—the fate of the quail population is decided. Weather is the most important factor. Soaring temperature and lack of rainfall doom the successful hatching. The incubation period is 23 days and rearing of the young birds, and the clutch of eggs laid by the hen averages about 15. Each day the eggs are turned by the hen in order to insure their hatching. About the twenty-first day the eggs have been pipped by the young chicks near the large end. Around the twenty-third day the immature bird has succeeded in cutting the large end and a small, wet, bedraggled bird emerges from the shell. On the tip of the baby bird's beak is a hard, calcarine growth known as the 'egg tooth'. Nature has provided the young bird with this instrument, and the sharp cutting edge of the 'tooth' enables it to cut its way through the egg membrane and shell. The 'egg tooth' soon disappears after it has served the purpose of releasing the chick from its shell prison.

Nest Quickly Deserted.

The hen develops a high body fever during the nesting period and the tiny chicks soon are warmed and dried. In a few hours the mother takes the youngsters on a foraging expedition and the nest is deserted. The nest is littered with the empty shells, some with the little trapdoor-like ends still hinged by the egg membrane to the larger portion of the shell. It is estimated that during June and July from 60 to 80 percent of the annual crop of quail in Missouri is produced.

Hunting success in 1955 showed an improvement of more than 20 per cent over that of 1954. All regions of the state showed some increase, with the Ozark plateau area leading the other sections. Hunting pressure was greater than in many years but, again, the dry weather during November and December was a detriment to successful hunting. Dogs were unable to do their best bird work under these conditions, and birds were left unmolested that otherwise would have fallen to the hunters' guns.

Jack A. Sanford, quail biologist of the Missouri Conservation Commission, is optimistic about the future. "The outlook for our post-drouth quail population is favorable," he said. "The production picture for 1955 has been encouraging. Barring unfavorable weather during the 1956 nesting season, we should see Bobwhite numbers increase still more, and perhaps the upswing may even continue into 1957. We will have to wait to see just how long it will take our quail to reach a peak population—one, two, or three years—and then drop back to normal or what Missouri field conditions will support under our land-use. In this period the birds will be striving to fill up the ranges lost during the severe drouth years. They should be able to do just this and fill up many portions of the habitat that probably will pass out as soon as the annual plant growth gives way to the advancement of perennial plants and dense brush.

May Take Year or Two.

"True, the first year following the drouth will not see all areas with large numbers of Bobwhite. It probably will take a year or two for some areas to develop to where they again will be capable of supporting large numbers of quail. Many areas hard hit by drouth and man's activity may not support high numbers of birds for a long time or until the land-use pattern changes, if ever. Some portions of western Missouri are typical of areas that may not show great bird increases, as the quail habitat is practically gone or is very poor."

Upland game biologists are of the opinion that there is an annual quail mortality amounting to 80 per cent. They cannot be stockpiled through complete protection or non-harvest. To a large portion of the annual turnover is the most satisfactory method from the sportsman's viewpoint and it is also a sound management practice.

May, June and July are the months that decide the fate of fall shooting. The carry-over of birds this year is the largest in four years. If hatching, nesting, and rearing conditions prove favorable during these months, quail hunting will once again be a worthwhile and enjoyable sport.

Calumet's Fabius in Good Preakness Work

BALTIMORE, May 16 (UP)—Fabius, who finished a bang-up second to Needles in the Kentucky Derby, is fast gaining favor with the railbirds at Pimlico and it wouldn't surprise many if he turned the tables on Needles Saturday in the eightieth running of the Preakness.

The Calumet color bearer turned in a sparkling workout over the local strip yesterday—flashing six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 and finishing out an additional eighth of a mile in :26 eased up.

Promoters Criticized By Judge

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union, which appeared to be buckling under the relentless pressure of the Wes Santee case during the past month, emerged today from the drawn-out legal battle more powerful than ever.

For Santee, America's greatest miler who took a long gamble by bringing the A.A.U. to court on a legal technicality, it marks the end of the line as a competitor.

In upholding the lifetime ban imposed on Santee by the A.A.U., Justice Walter A. Lynch of the New York State Supreme Court yesterday minced no words in condemning the gangling 23-year-old Marine Corps lieutenant for openly flouting the A.A.U.'s expense rules. He was set down last Feb. 19 after being found guilty of accepting about $1500 in excessive expenses in seven meets last year.

Had Santee won the case, the A.A.U. would have been reduced to nothingness. But the organization, which rules most amateur sports in this country, never has lost a court case challenging its authority—and it probably will be a long time before anyone else brings suit.

Santee and his Olympic ambitions had little to do with the result. No matter what the outcome, he never would have been certified for the games. Now he can run only against service personnel, where he has met little competition.

Uncerta'n About Appeal.

Charles P. Grimes, Santee's attorney, was undecided about taking the case to a higher court.

"We could go to the appelate division of the State Supreme Court, and then to the court of appeals," he said. "We could even go as high as the Supreme Court of the United States, but this would be long, tedious and costly. I really don't know what we'll do until I talk to Wes."

For his part, Santee admitted for the first time that he did break the rules of the AAU. Heretofore, his case had been based on the contention that the executive committee of the AAU did not have authority to bar him and that his case should be turned back to his local Missouri Valley district.

At the Quantico Marine Base, where he is stationed, Santee pointed out that although Justice Lynch accused him of refusing to follow the AAU code, his transgressions were committed with the aid of the promoters.

"That's what I've contended all along," he said. "Most of the meet promoters are AAU officials, and there are the ones who okayed any breaking of the rules. Who was I to question my superior officers?"

AAU officials were jubilant at the decision.

"Vindication."

Said President Carl Hansen: "The AAU has been fully vindicated . . . The AAU would have failed in its function had it not acted. After a full and fair court hearing, their accusations made against the AAU were found to be baseless. There was much talk, out of the courtroom, about what Santee and his lawyer were going to prove, but when the AAU put its officials on the stand and offered the opportunity of full inquiry into the wild charges made, Santee ran for cover. He did not even take the stand."

Hansen added, however, that the AAU already has launched an investigation into its rules and practices, which could mean sweeping changes. Many outside observers believe the AAU's rules to be outmoded.

Louis Nizer, the attorney who represented the AAU, said he never considered it a case of the AAU vs. Santee.

"Whatever injury came to Santee resulted from his own conduct," said Nizer. "There are 100,000 athletes who live up to the rules for every violator. They must be protected."

Key to Power.

In his decision, Justice Lynch brushed aside Santee's contention that the board of governors of the AAU did not have authority. He said it had both original and sole appellate jurisdiction, an opinion which definitely will strengthen the AAU's hold on athletes under its wing.

Justice Lynch castigated Santee for not taking the stand in court and said:

"His repentance, if any—and the court thinks there is none—comes too late."

Justice Lynch also criticized the meet promoters.

"He (Santee) has eliminated himself as an Amateur Athlete," he said, "but not without an assist from some of the guardians of amateur athletics.

"The records show that in their desire for larger gate receipts, some promoters have sought to capitalize on the athletic ability of such stars as Santee. From this unfortunate incident, some good may come to amateur athletics in the United States."

2750 Runners Will Carry Olympic Torch

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 16 (UP)—A total of 2750 runners, each doing one mile in seven minutes, will carry the Olympic torch from Cairns in North Queensland to Melbourne for the opening of the 1956 Olympics with the final man scheduled to enter the Melbourne Cricket Ground Nov. 22 at 4:32 p.m., during the opening ceremony.

All the track's men couldn't get the horse GOOGIN to change his mind about the advisability of running in the eighth race at Garden State Park, near Camden, N.J. In rearing in the starting gate, Googin unseated his rider, Jockey NICK FERNICOLA. After some delay and no progress by the assistant starters and grooms, Googin was scratched from the race and taken back to the barn to resume his siesta.

Seattle Players Again Revolt Against Manager Luke Sewell

SEATTLE, May 16 (AP)—The full Seattle Rainier baseball squad met last night with Dewey Soriano, general manager of the Pacific Coast League club, to air grievances by the players over the managing of Luke Sewell.

The meeting, second blow-up by players this year, ended after a 75-minute discussion. Soriano said the grievances "were small things, although taken by themselves they mean a lot to the individual." He said he felt the problems could be "worked out amicably."

Sewell and his two coaches, Bill Brenner and Vern Stephens, were absent from the meeting but Sewell met later with Soriano. That was followed by an announcement Howie Judson, pitcher, was fined $50 for "his actions in the second game of Sunday's doubleheader with Portland."

Judson exchanged words with Sewell after being removed from the game, slammed the ball on the ground and stalked from the field.

Asked if last night's hassle might result in the removal of Sewell as manager, Soriano replied:

"No change is contemplated."

Soriano did add that "some changes" were contemplated in the interest of club harmony but he would not elaborate.

The earlier "revolt" was during spring practice. Sewell and the players met later and apparently restored harmony.

Clear Named Manager Of Sioux City Club

SIOUX CITY, Ia., May 16 (AP) — Appointment of Bob Clear, right-handed pitcher with the Omaha baseball club, as player-manager of the Sioux City Soos of the Western League, was announced by Soo President Adam Pratt. He succeeds Harold Olt who resigned.

Clear, 28, has been in the St. Louis Cardinal chain for the last 12 years.

Another for Gonzales.

CALGARY, May 1 (AP) — Pancho Gonzales took care of Tony Trabert in two straight sets in the 89th appearance of the 100-match tennis tour. Gonzales, who now leads Trabert 68-21, whipped the former Wimbledon champion, 6-2, 6-4 before a crowd of 3000.

In a one-set match veteran performer Jack Kramer, still nursing a pulled leg muscle, defeated Australia's Rex Hartwig 6-4.

German Soccer Team Trains at Meramec Field

A party of 21 Bavarians, here to play soccer Friday evening, is being introduced to St. Louis's more interesting sports, beauty and cultural attractions, including a few spots where malt and hops are blended and voices are raised in song.

With three full days on their hands before game time at Public Schools Stadium, the eager young members of the Schwaben club of Augsburg said they hoped to get in some sightseeing. They had heard that St. Louis was famous for shoes and soccer as well as malt and hops.

Two other German league teams have preceeded them in similar visits in recent years. They, too, saw the sights and then lost their soccer match to the Kutis team.

Bill Looby, injured star forward, did some kicking as the Kutis squad worked out last night. The full squad put in a hard two hours on the field and appeared to be fit for a fast, rugged game.

The Augsburg squad arrived early last night by plane from Baltimore where it defeated a team of American Soccer League stars in opening its United States tour.

The visitors were scheduled to work out at Meramec Sport Club field today.

Missouri Champion in Western Amateur Golf

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 16 (AP)—Jim Blair, Missouri state amateur champion, has entered the Western amateur golf championship scheduled here May 28-June 3.

Blair has been low amateur in several P.G.A.-sponsored events this past winter.

Louis Bates Jr., holder of the Atlanta junior championship, has also entered the tourney set for Belle Meade Country Club course.

Other new entries include Gary Lockie, Betterdorf, Iowa; John P. Morrell, Elgin, Ill.; Bill Webb, Kansas City, Mo.; Alebt Wheeler, Nashville, and Clark Willingham, Augusta, Ga.

To Conduct Clinics.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 16 (UP)—Ray Oosting, basketball coach and director of athletics at Trinity College, announced today he has accepted an invitation to conduct basketball coaching clinics for the United States Armed Forces in Honolulu, Tokyo and Yokahama, Japan.

First Sacker Who Cost $100 Hits 10 Homers in 4 Games

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. MAY 16 (INS).

A 25-YEAR-OLD first baseman who was sold to the Topeka (Kans.) Hawks of the Western League by the New York Yankees for $100 last spring clouted his tenth homer in three days last night.

Al Weygandt started his scoring spree Sunday by hitting five home runs in a doubleheader with Amarillo. Monday he hit three more in a night game at Amarillo, Tex.

Weygandt hit two homers to aid the Hawks in a 5 to 3 win over Albuquerque last night.

Weygandt player with Winston-Salem in the Carolina League last year.

Coach Stydahar Sued By Chicago Cardinals

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP)—The Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League have filed suit in Superior Court for $13,180.41 against former head coach Joe Stydahar.

The suit charged the Cardinals made loans to Stydahar between June 23, 1953, and April 30, 1954.

In return, the suit stated, Stydahar repaid $2000.

Cardinal Attorney Martin McNally said he understood Stydahar used the part of the money in the purchase of his home in suburban Glencoe.

Joseph M. Solon, representing Stydahar, said he will confer with McNally to "attempt to reach a settlement."

Solon said "we owe them something and they owe us quite a bit, too. It could be a standoff."

Solon claimed that Stydahar, who signed a three-year contract in 1953, left the Cardinals in the spring of 1955 and should have been paid for the 1955 season but wasn't.

Skating Group Elects Hindle To 4th Term

Durward J. Hindle was re-elected to his fourth successive one-year term as president of the Missouri Skating Association at its annual election meeting.

Others re-elected were: Ray Zuckerman and Watson Gadd, vice presidents; William Kelly, secretary, and Weber Ley, treasurer. The only new vice president is Dan O'Connor. All six officers serve on the 12-man executive board, to which the following were elected: R. L. Schneider, Henry Kemper, Lamar Ottsen, Jim Hawkins, Ted Young and Bud Handlan.

Ottsen, president of the National Amateur Skating Association, will head a delegation of eight at the national convention at Detroit Saturday and Sunday.

Others who will attend the convention include: O'Connor, national secretary; Kemper, member of the Olympic committee and a former national president; Hawkins, head coach of the M.S.A.; Handlan, national referee; Hindle, Kelly and Zuckerman.

Bisons Release Schultz.

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 16 (UP)—The Buffalo Bisons gave Bob Schultz, former Chicago Cub pitcher his unconditional release and returned righthander Mario Picone, purchased conditionally from the Toronto Maple Leafs last winter, to that International League club.

Frick Holds Up Boston Move to 'Disable' Nixon

BOSTON, May 16 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said today he would not accept Boston Red Sox Pitcher Willard Nixon on the disabled list until he received further information.

The Sox will now have to remove another player from their roster before the midnight deadline tonight. Placing Nixon on the disabled list would have brought the Red Sox within the 25-player plus servicemen limit.

The Boston club, in Detroit, announced the placing of Nixon on the list last night after he went only 3⅓ innings against the Tigers. He has had a sore shoulder since spring training and complained of pain yesterday.

Frick said he was not criticizing operation of the Red Sox but added: "You can bet I'm not going to put a guy on the list just because he has a sore arm."

The commissioner said that if he had a specific doctor's report that a player had a bursitis or muscular spasm or the like, placing him on the list would be a mere formality.

Frick was here for plaque unveiling ceremonies commemorating the site of the first World Series—between the Boston Americans and the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1903.

The Yankees already were under fire for a similar maneuver. General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians, complained to Commissioner Ford Frick that the Yankees had no right to place Infielder Billy Hunter on the disabled list when he had been in uniform all season. They said it was a trick and they would not stand for such an evasion of the rules.

The Philadelphia Phillies sent Pitchers Angelo Lipetri and Duane Pillette to the Miami Marlins of the International League on 24 hours recall.

Pillette, 33, a veteran of the majors, made a comeback effort with the Phillies and pitched with fair success in relief roles this season.

Maglie to Dodgers.

The Dodgers pulled the most unlikely of all deals by acquiring Pitcher 'Sal Maglie from Cleveland, the same Maglie, who used to brush curve balls past their ears when he was with the Giants. In turn, Brooklyn kept within the player limit by sending Relief Pitcher Jim Hughes to the Chicago Cubs.

The Indians announced today they obtained Preston Ward from the Pittsburgh Pirates in exchange for Catcher Hank Foiles. Ward, a utility player at first base and the outfield, was obtained in an effort to strengthen the Cleveland bench, club officials said.

The Indians also learned from their ailing outfielder, Gene Woodling, that he would be of little service to them until he recovers from an illness, and he was placed on the disabled list, Woodling, who has been a dependable outfielder and good left-handed hitter, suspected he had diabetes, then found out that was not the nature of his illness and was ready to rejoin the club. But last night he advised he could not play and was made hors de combat.

The Kansas City Athletics optioned Pitchers Art Ceccarelli, Bill Harrington and Arnie Portocarrero and sold Catcher Joe Astroth today. They also purchased righthanded Pitcher Jose Santiago from the Cleveland Indians.

Astroth, who batted .252 for the A's in 1955, was sold outright to San Diego. Harrington (1-0) was optioned to the same club.

Ceccarelli (0-1) was optioned to the Columbus Jets, while Portocarrero to the Birmingham Barons on option.

The White Sox sent down Right-hander Harry Byrd, the Carolina lumberjack, who at one time was considered one of the most promising hurlers in the majors. He was sold to Charleston of the American Association outright, which means he will be subject to the major league draft this fall if he has a good year there. Byrd's departure left 29 men on the White Sox roster.

Delsing to White Sox.

The White Sox, in addition to sending away Byrd, traded two lesser-light players to the Tigers, in exchange for a pair of bench warmers. The White Sox obtained Infielder Fred Hatfield and Outfielder Jim Delsing for Outfielder Bob Kennedy and Infielder Jim Brideweser. The Byrd transaction also was involved in this trade since Charleston is a Detroit farm club.

The Cubs sent both Outfielder Gale Wade and Catcher Elvin Tappe to their Los Angeles farm club. Both had been cut previously from the Chicago roster but they had not been assigned to minor league teams. Wade went on option and Tappe was released outright.

Tigers' Maxwell Regular In Majors After 6 Years

DETROIT, May 16 (UP)—It took Charley Maxwell six years to land a full-time job in the major leagues and the Michigan-born outfielder is making the most of the opportunity.

He's leading the Detroit Tigers in hitting with an average just a shade under .400 and he also tops the club in home runs with seven.

Before the season, the 29-year-old Maxwell had never been able to earn a regular job in the majors. But fortune started to smile on him when he moved to the Tigers from Baltimore on waivers last summer.

"The part of the season I put in with the Tigers last year was my best in the majors," Maxwell pointed out. "I hit seven homers in 109 times at bat. I had only three in my whole major league career before that."

"Never a Spring Hitter."

Despite his seemingly good showing with the Tigers during the last half of the 1955 season, he was overlooked as a possibility for Detroit's regular left field job this spring. He didn't hit on the few occasions he got in the lineup in spring training.

"That's a funny thing," he said. "I've never been a spring hitter, not even when I was in the minors. I remember 1949 and 1950 were both bad springs for me. But I wound up with 29 homers for Roanoke the first year and 32, counting the playoffs, for Birmingham in 1950."

Maxwell got his chance as a starter after the Tigers lost their first three games this season.

Manager Bucky Harris installed him in left field to see if he could give the sagging Tigers a lift. He responded with a rash of hits and has been in the lineup ever since.

Charley, who was born at Lawton, Mich., figures it's quite a thrill to be a regular but he said his biggest baseball thrill was with the Boston Red Sox in 1951.

He Socked Ole Satchmo.

"I hit a grand slam homer off Satchel Paige as a pinch-hitter to win a game for the Red Sox," he recalled. "In fact, the only three homers I hit before joining the Tigers came in 1951—always as a pinch-hitter."

Maxwell declined to predict how many homers he would hit for the Tigers this season.

"If I keep playing regularly, I'll hit my share," he said. "Briggs Stadium is an ideal park for me with those three decks out in right field. They make an imposing target."

There's every reason to believe Charley will keep playing regularly and that he'll be the most productive home run hitter for Detroit since the days of Hank Greenberg.

Erskine Can't Accept No-Hit 'Bonus' But He Can Take $500 'Raise'

CINCINNATI, May 16 (AP)—After a long distance debate—with newsmen relaying the conversation — Carl Erskine can keep the $500 "bonus" he received from the Brooklyn Dodgers for his second no-hitter Saturday.

The Dodgers will have to figure a way to make the reward legal in the eyes of National League president Warren Giles, however. Bonuses for individual performances aren't permitted.

In Brooklyn, Brook president Walter O'Malley replied: "We are not Indian givers. If Mr. Giles has ruled on the matter, we will respect his ruling. But, in compliance, will not penalize Erskine for having been Brooklyn's first two-time no-hit pitcher."

This, in turn, was relayed to Giles, and he answered: "I'm sure Brooklyn can find a way to reward Erskine without violating the rules."

One method to escape a violation of the rules and still give Erskine the $500 for his 3-0 job on the New York Giants would be to tear up his present contract and give him a new one—with a $500 increase in salary.

No Decision in Managers' Meeting On Umpire Strike

THE North Side and South Side Muny senior baseball leagues still are without umpires and decisions, but are keeping active with meetings on the subject. They met last night, and will meet again tomorrow night, trying to settle the difficulties that began Sunday when the umpires called a strike, work-stoppage variety.

Tomorrow night's meeting will decide whether the North and South Side leagues accept umpires from the Greater St. Louis Umpires Association, or look elsewhere, said Monte Gummels, speaking for the managers. Last night's meeting didn't produce action because the managers had to report back to team sponsors, he explained.

Salary demands by the umpires led to the controversy.

Two St. Louis Nines in State Action Today

Two St. Louis teams, Beaumont and Laboure, are scheduled to play in state high school baseball tournament games today. A third team from the St. Louis area, Wehlville, was scheduled to meet Cape Girardeau Central, at Cape Girardeau, today but wet grounds caused the game to be postponed until Friday.

Beaumont is to play the Festus area winner at Festus today, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. Laboure's opponent is to be the Rolla high school team, at Rolla.

Tomorrow afternoon, St. Louis University High School will oppose Smith-Cotton High of Sedalia, at Sedalia, in a 2:30 o'clock game. St. Mary's, originally scheduled to meet Shelbina in a night game at Hannibal Thursday night, now will play Shelbina in a day game, Friday, instead.

The winners of these five games, as well as the winners in three other sectional contests, will compete in the state finals in St. Louis next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Don Seabaugh, with six straight victories this season and 15 in a row over the last two, will pitch for Cape Girardeau Central against Mehlville.

Central won the championship of the Southeast Missouri High School League with a 7-0 record and is 10-0 for the season. The Tigers dropped Ste. Genevieve, 8 to 2, last week for the district title.

St. Louis U. Athletic Award Dinner Tonight

Basketball, golf, tennis and swimming letters will be awarded St. Louis University athletes tonight at the annual dinner at the De Soto Hotel.

The winner of the John C. Murphy Memorial Trophy, awarded for sportsmanship in basketball, will be announced. A new trophy, the John E. McLaughlin Memorial, will be presented to the university in memory of the freshman basketball player who was killed in an automobile accident last December.

Dr. Kenneth C. Marshall, member of the university athletic council, will be toastmaster, and Globe-Democrat Sports Editor Bob Burnes the featured speaker.

Trials in Chaminade and ABC League Track Meets Scheduled to Be Held Today.

By Harold Tuthill

After having been prevented from holding their trials yesterday, schools in Chaminade's seventh annual invitational track and field meet will try again late this afternoon.

The finals will be held tomorrow. St. Louis U. High is the defending champion and Gene Hart's Junior Billikens could duplicate the effort of the 1955 squad which carted off senior, junior and meet honors. Then the Little Bills almost doubled the score of their nearest competitor, McBride, with a final overall count of 136 to 73½.

The four schools in the ABC League also will not wait too long to go from the preliminaries to the finals. The trials will be held at Taylor Field this afternoon and the finals Friday at the same place.

Country Day is the defending champion, having won the twenty-eighth annual affair a year ago by one point, 46 to 45, over John Burroughs.

Principia Academy, the host school, will be favored to supplant the Codasco Rams. The other contender is Western Military Academy.

Leedio Cabutti, Herrin High coach, will be in charge of the third annual Herrin decathlon, May 26, a warm-up for the Junior Olympic meet here the following week.

Cabutti's ace again will be Charles Hamilton, third in the 1954 meet and first last year. Hamilton qualified for the 1956 Illinois finals in the shotput with an effort which went 53 feet, 7 inches in the Carbondale district meet last Friday night.

Cabutti is in his final weeks at Herrin. He will move to Champaign to coach basketball there next winter.

Jumpin' Jim Hoffman of Kansas City Northeast, who impressed prep followers in the 1955 basketball finals at Washington U., continues his excellent high jumping. He leaped 6 feet, 3⅛ inches, to post a new record in the recent St. Joseph relays.

Hoffman will be at Columbia Friday and Saturday to compete against the best St. Louis and other cities with "A" schools have to offer.

Assumption High School of O'Fallon, Mo., captured the first Daniel Boone baseball championship with a 4-0 triumph over Wentzville. Art Vanderbos, who struck out nine, allowed only two hits in posting his third victory. Steel and Wilmes pitched for Wentzville. Together they yielded five hits.

C.B.C. Keeps Title in Mark Twain Relays, Sets Record in 440

HANNIBAL, Mo., May 16 (AP)—C.B.C. of St. Louis won the sixteenth annual Mark Twain high school relays held here last night for the third straight time. Coach Bill in winning from 11 other teams. Klemm's squad scored 55 points

Two records were set and another record was tied. Donnie Brackelsberg of Keokuk, Ia., topped the 180-yard low hurdles in :20.3, bettering the mark of :20.5 set in 1951 by Lowell Bonifield of Hannibal.

C.B.C. broke the 440-yard relay record, running in :45.0 to eclipse the old mark of :45.3 set by C.B.C. last year. The Cadets also tied the record in the 80-yard relay, running it in 1:34.5 to match Maplewood's 1945 team. Members of the C.B.C. 440-yard team were Pat McFarland, Joe Lindhares, Charley Wirts and Tom Edinger.

The other finishers and their totals: Keokuk, 32; Hadley Tech of St. Louis, 28; Quincy, Ill., 22¾; Maplewood of St. Louis, 19; Hannibal, 18¾; Mehlville of St. Louis, 15¾; Kemper of Boonville, Mo., 14; Hickman of Columbia, Mo., 11¾; Normandy of St. Louis, 10; Mexico, Mo., 9; and Mexico Military Academy, 6.

Pigeon Racing.

Two pigeons from the N. Gion loft were clocked in the fastest time on a 100-mile race from Newburg, Mo., to St. Louis. The first traveled at 1457.53 yards per minutes and the second at 1450.52. Third place went to T. Christensen, 1432.97; fourth to L. Weber, 1430.93, and fifth to R. Hatchard, 1429.83.

Sam Snead in British Open; Ben Hogan Out

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—Sam Snead has decided to shoot for the British Open Golf Championship at Liverpool July 2-6, but Ben Hogan will skip it.

Snead, winner of the title in 1946 at St. Andrews, today formally filed his application with the Royal and Ancient, enclosing the required two pounds, approximately $5.60 in Yankee cash.

"Sam doesn't shell out even a small fee like that unless he's deadly serious," a friend remarked. "He's playing very good golf and he'd like to win the British open again."

Hogan, who will team with Snead in the Canada Cup and International Trophy Matches at Wentworth late next month, won't remain in Britain to try to duplicate his historic triumph at Carnoustie in 1953.

"My competitive plans are confined to the international matches and the National Open at Rochester," said Hogan, who is in semi-retirement. The National Open is scheduled at Rochester, N.Y., June 14-16.

Snead and Hogan, dominant figures in American golf through the last decade, will leave for Britain on June 18, the Monday following the National Open at Rochester.

They will team to play rivals from 27 other nations in the Canada cup matches and will seek the International Individual Trophy put up by John Jay Hopkins, American industrialist.

The two veteran Yanks, with scores of turnament victories behind them, will be stoutly favored. Strongest opposition is expected from the Australian team of Peter Thomson, who holds the British Open Championship, and Norman Von Nida, a longtime campaigner on the United States pro tour.

Sterling and Kewanee In North Central Loop

STERLING, Ill., May 16 (UP)—Streator High School of the Big 12 Conference and Kewanee of the old Northwest Conference have been admitted into membership of the North Central Illinois Conference which includes Sterling, Rock Falls, Dixon, De Kalb, Princeton, Mendota, Rochelle, Ottawa, Geneseo, and Hall of Spring Valley, it was disclosed here.

The new members will participate in everything but football and basketball next season.

England Sweeps Series.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, May 16 (UP)—England swept the two final singles matches to enter the quarter-finals of the European zone Davis Cup tennis eliminations with a 5-0 victory over Yugoslavia. England clinched its triumph yesterday by taking a 3-0 lead in the best-of-five series. Roger Becker defeated Ilipa Panajotovic, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0, and Michael Davies defeated Ivko Pleicevic, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1, in the last two singles contests.

Bluth (881) Eliminates Weber (857) in Masters Pin Meet

Hoover and Nagy Still Undefeated

By a Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ROCHESTER, May 16 — If Dick Weber of the St. Louis Budweisers tries to get a new doubles partner next year, no one can blame him.

Weber, who teamed with Ray Bluth recently to win the national doubles crown, was ushered out of the sixth annual Masters tournament late last night by the same Mr. Bluth.

Monday night, Bluth had tagged Weber with his first loss in the double elimination tournament by five pins, 846-841. Last night, Weber upped his scoring tempo to 857 — an average of just under 215 per game—but it wasn't enough as Bluth averaged 220 in rolling 881.

It appeared unfair to the large crowd that Weber and Bluth, the only St. Louis survivors in the field of eight, should be pitted against each other, but the Masters is run by a blind draw system. The Pfeiffers suffered the same fate when Lou Sielaff beat Therman Gibson and then was beaten by George Young.

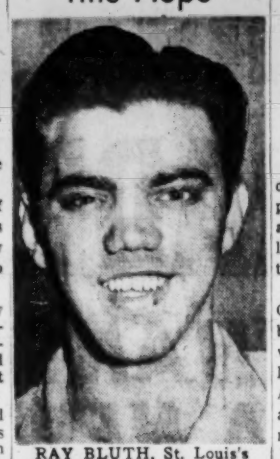

Bluth was good last night, but in the afternoon it was a different story. Paired against Carl Lundquist of Jackson, Miss., in the winner's bracket, Ray was tagged with his first loss as he suffered from ten pin trouble. In one game of the set which he dropped, 809-777, Ray had nine pitches dead in the 1-3 pocket and came with only two strikes.

In the evening, Ray banged home 852 to rout Tony Lindemann of Detroit's Strohs by 79 pins and then beat Weber. Bluth had games of 214, 226, 226, 215 for his 881 while Weber hit 206, 215, 192 and 244 for 857.

Weber had already bowled three four-game matches—beating Joe Wilman of Berwyn, Ill., by 54 pins; Danny Thomas of Detroit by 45; and Jim Allen of Alexandria, La., by 184.

There are now six bowlers left in the Masters with Steve Nagy of Detroit and Dick Hoover of Akron, Ohio, still undefeated. Tagged with one defeat, in addition to Bluth, are Lundquist, Marvin Lowry of Birmingham, Ala., and Carl Richard of Parsons, Kan.

Wrigley: 'Cubs Not For Sale; Matthews Will Not Be Fired'

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP) — Owner P. K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs today extended a vote of confidence to Wid Matthews as the club's personnel director and asserted the Cubs are not for sale.

Responding to printed hints this was Matthews' last Cub year and that the Cub franchise might be moved from Chicago, Wrigley declared he intended to bring his son, Bill, into control if he wishes the "opportunity."

"Wid Matthews is remaining as director of player personnel," said Wrigley. "He has worked hard to bring up the Cubs. We believe the team will improve, and he is staying."

Wrigley's son, Bill, is 23 and now a Navy lieutenant.

The Cub owner said he hoped the Cubs would be much improved by the time his son returns to civilian life.

"The Cubs are not for sale," said Wrigley. "There is nothing wrong as far as laxity or indifference on anybody's part is concerned. Maybe this year, it's going to be different. Instead of starting like a house on fire and weakening at the finish, the Cubs will finish strong."

The Cubs yesterday suffered their fourteenth defeat against five victories and since 1947 have finished sixth or worse except for a fifth spot windup in 1952.

Sellout in 21 Hours For All-Star Game

WASHINGTON, May 16 (UP) —The major league All-Star baseball game here July 10 was sold out today—less than 21 hours after the Washington club began accepting ticket applications for the classic.

The ticket office received 25,000 pieces of mail, representing requests for possibly 100,000 tickets, inasmuch as each applicant could seek a maximum of four seats. This also would mean that the initial demand for tickets was about four times as great as the capicity of Griffith Stadium, which will seat about 28,000 for the big game.

Irish Boxers Win.

MONTREAL, May 16 (AP)—Ireland's team of international amateur boxers scored a 7-3 victory over a combined team of Quebec Golden Gloves champions and top Montreal boxers in a 10-bout card.

Saxton Favored To Beat Turner

CHICAGO, May 16 (INS) — Welterweight boxing champion Johnny Saxton of New York makes his first appearance since winning a highly controversial decision from ex-title holder Carmén Basilio tonight in a scheduled 10-round non-title bout against Gil Turner at the Chicago stadium.

Both Saxton and Turner will exceed the 147 weight limit for the division in the fight which will be televised but is not scheduled to be carried in St. Louis.

Turner was an 8 to 5 underdog for the match, chiefly because he has lost four of his last six fights, but he believed he could down the smaller titleholder because "I beat him before and I can do it again."

Saxton's defeat by Turner was on a split decision June 15, 1953, and was the first loss in Saxton's pro career after 39 straight wins and one draw.

Your best buy is DODGE... and we can prove it!

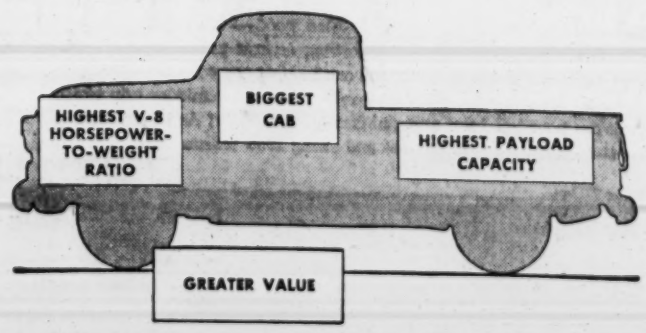

Buying a new truck is pretty serious business—not exactly a dime-store affair. So why risk not getting the best buy?

Doesn't it make sense to take a few minutes and check to see for yourself just how much more Dodge actually gives you per dollar?

You'll find Dodge leads other makes in the really important ways. For example, when you buy a Dodge, you get:

1. Maximum hauling power. Dodge sets the pace for the entire industry in many models!
2. Top payload capacities—up to 22% more!
3. Lowest operating costs. Exclusive V-8 Power-Dome combustion milks extra miles from every gallon, practically eliminates power-robbing carbon.
4. Sharpest turning—makes parking easier, cuts time loss in maneuvering through traffic.
5. Biggest cab—for real comfort on even the longest hauls.
6. Low cost—lower than any other make for many models.

Do right by yourself—take a few minutes to look into DODGE before you buy your new truck. After all, why pay more and get less?

Public Links, P.G.A. Trials Setup Outlined

Conditions for various St. Louis golf events in the near future were outlined today by Association officials.

United States Golf Association public links representative Milton Frank, 4714 Seattle avenue, announced entry blanks for the National Public Links tournament may be obtained from him.

Entries must be filed with Frank by 5 p.m. June 1. The national tournament will be played at San Francisco, July 9-14. Sectional qualifying is scheduled at Forest Park, June 17.

Frank announced that $3 of the entry fee of $5 will go into the players' pool to help defray expenses of qualifying. Greens fees at Forest Park must be paid by the player.

Sectional qualifying for the National P.G.A. championship at Canton, Mass., July 20-24, will be played at Westwood Country Club Monday, local secretary Alex Bopp announced.

One player will qualify from the Eastern Missouri section for the national tournament. Don Clarkson, Glen Echo; Milon Marusic, Algonquin, and Ted Neist, St. Louis Country Club (last year's qualifier) have entered.

Westwood's Ed Furgol is exempt from P.G.A. qualifying because he was among the top 25 money winners of 1955.

The Eastern Missouri's annual pro-officers' tournament for country club officers has been set for Algonquin Golf Club and will be played tomorrow, starting at 1 p.m.

Van Noy's Grand Slam Smash Gives Rochester Victory Over Toronto

ROCHESTER, May 16 (UP)—Jay Van Noy, Rochester's No. one pinch-hitter, enabled the Red Wings to hold their shaky lead atop the International League by slapping a bases-loaded home run Tuesday night for a come-from-behind victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

It was the only game played since rain washed out Miami at Columbus, Havana at Richmond and Montreal at Buffalo.

With Toronto in front, 9-6, in the last of the eight inning, Van Noy jumped on reliever Tony Jacobs for the circuit blast that gave the Wings the decision, 10-9. Cotton Deal who took over for Johnny Mackinson in the fifth inning, gained credit for the victory, while Jacobs, the third Toronto pitcher, took the loss. The win kept Rochester a half game in front of Montreal.

Mechanical Brain's Lapse Costs Race Track $77,134

SAN MATEO, Calif., May 16 (UP)—Delighted daily double players at the Bay Meadows quarter horse opening shared in a $77,000 windfall yesterday because the track's mechanical brain suddenly had a mental lapse.

The track said 313 holders of winning double tickets were overpaid "at least $77,134.20" because the mutuel board only recorded 27 tickets sold and toted up the odds accordingly.

The lapse was blamed on "defective wiring" in the Universal Totalizator Company mutuel machines.

Due to the error, the board showed only 27 ducats sold on the winning combination of Violet Rose in the first and Mario Tass in the second race. This figured to a payoff of $269.70 per ticket.

Actually, 313 tickets were sold and the holders cashed in for $269.70 each — or a total payoff of $84,416.10.

McLarnins Inherit Ex-Manager's Estate

LOS ANGELES, May 16 (AP) — Former welterweight champion Jimmy McLarnin and his family received the bulk of the estate of $200,000 left by the fighter's late manager, Charles (Pop) Foster. Foster, 83 years old, died about 10 days ago.

His will left about two-thirds of the estate to McLarnin and his wife, another third to their four children. The estate consists mostly of cash and bonds.

TRUCK REPORTED STOLEN; CIGARETTES AND CASH IN IT

Theft of a panel truck containing cigarettes and cash with a total value of $1500 was reported to police yesterday by David Gibbs, driver for the G. J. L. Sales Co., 518 North Vandeventer avenue.

Gibbs, 2620 California avenue, left the truck in the 600 block of Tower Grove avenue when making one of his last deliveries for the day, he said. He started out with 698 cartons and more than $100 in change, it was reported by Dan Landsbaum, partner in the firm.

Almost all the cigarettes had been distributed by the time the truck was stolen. The truck was locked and it was equipped with a burglar alarm which apparently failed to function, Gibbs said.

$551,000 FLOOD CONTROL AID FOR CITY IS FAVORED

Money Approved by House Group Would Be Used to Plan Protective Steps.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 16—A $551,000 appropriation for initial planning of a multi-million-dollar flood protection system for St. Louis has been approved by a House Public Works subcommittee, it was learned today.

A favorable report on the request will be filed by the subcommittee with the full House Appropriations Committee next Monday, it was reported.

The subcommittee action was viewed as increasing chances that the planning funds will be approved by the full committee and the House.

The St. Louis request is included in an omnibus appropriation bill for civil works projects by the Army Corps of Engineers in the next fiscal year, beginning July 1.

In a closed session yesterday, the subcommittee, headed by Representative Michael J. Kirwan (Dem.), Ohio, completed work on the omnibus measure. A similar Senate subcommittee is considering the $551,000 request.

Original Figure Boosted.

The Eisenhower Administration originally asked for $101,000 to begin actual planning of the project. This was increased by $450,000 after the engineers said a larger sum could be used in the first year.

The proposed system of flood protection, a series of earthen levees, concrete floodwalls and pumping stations, would be designed to protect against a flood stage of up to 52 feet on the Mississippi river at St. Louis.

Estimated total cost would be $130,987,000, with about six years required for construction after planning was completed. As authorized by Congress, the federal share would be $123,020,000. A city bond issue voted a year ago included $7,547,000 as St. Louis's contribution.

About two years will be required to plan the project, at an estimated cost of $1,200,000, the engineers have said. The $551,000 request would be the first installment.

The subcommittee held hearings on the omnibus appropriation bill. A delegation of St. Louis civic leaders headed by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker appeared before the House and Senate groups last March to urge approval of the request.

6TH FLEET FLAGSHIP GIVEN MEDITERRANEAN HOME PORT

NAPLES, Italy, May 16 (AP)—The heavy cruiser Salem, new flagship of the United States Sixth Mediterranean Fleet, has been given a home port in the Mediterranean, the Navy announced today.

Wives and families of the 800 men attached to the Salem will be transported by the Navy to Villefranche on the French Riviera. A Navy mission is there now lining up quarters and setting up facilities including a comissary and dispensary.

Customarily ships attached to the Sixth Fleet are transferred back to the United States east coast after a tour of about four months in the Mediterranean. Families are maintained on the east coast.

The new policy applies only to the Salem, the Navy said.

G. CHADBOURNE TAYLOR NEW HEAD OF RED CROSS CHAPTER

G. Chadbourne Taylor was elected chairman yesterday of the St. Louis Chapter of the American Red Cross for the fiscal year beginning July 1, it was announced today by the board of directors. He succeeds Whitelaw T. Terry, chairman for the last two years.

Other officers elected include: Leicester B. Faust, vice chairman; Mrs. Arthur H. Wallace, vice chairman; Mrs. Robert W. Bartlett, secretary, and Claude I. Bakewell, treasurer.

GUESSING FOUND IN MANY DRUNKEN DRIVING CASES

Chemical Tests Only Way to Determine Intoxication, Expert Tells Conference.

Testimony against many motorists charged with drunken driving is only guess work, Robert L. Donigan, chief counsel for the Northwest University Traffic Institute, declared here today.

"Visual symptoms of drunkenness also can be caused by any of 65 other diseases," Donigan said. "Chemical tests of blood, breath or urine is the scientific way to determine whether a person is intoxicated." He spoke at the Missouri Traffic Conference at Washington University. The meeting ends today.

St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph now use chemical tests to determine whether a motorist is intoxicated.

PoliceJudge Robert G. Dowd told the conference that before the introduction of the tests here "most drunken driving convictions were upset on appeals for jury trials in the Court of Criminal Correction. He attributed this to testimony that contended the defendants "only had two or three bottles of beer," and defense lawyers who would tell the jury, "all of you on the jury have driven after drinking onl ytwo or three beers."

Dr. Herman A. Heise, of the American Medical Association at Chicago, said the moderate drinker is three times more likely to have an accident than the non-drinker. He said a moderate drinker is one who drinks three or four bottles of beer or their alcoholic equivalent. "The heavy drinker is 55 times more likely to have an accident," he added.

In a speech at the conference yesterday, Gerald O'Connell, director of training at the Northwestern University Traffic Institute, declared the traffic detail of the St. Louis Police Department is 60 per cent smaller than that in the average big city.

"Most cities assign 25 per cent of their policemen to traffic work," O'Connell said. "In St. Louis, only 10 per cent of the department is assigned to traffic."

Police Judge Morris Rosenthal and Judge Dowd agreed in panel discussions that the present traffic detail here of 72 should be doubled. They said by thus improving law enforcement the number of traffic accidents and deaths would be greatly reduced.

Although automobile traffic on St. Louis streets has doubled since before the war, the traffic detail now has 24 fewer men than it had in 1939, Judge Rosenthal pointed out.

HELD 3 MONTHS WITHOUT CHARGE, THEN GETS 60 DAYS

Glenn J. Glass, who was held at St. Louis county jail for three months without criminal information being filed against him, was sentenced today by Circuit Judge Fred E. Mueller to 60 days more in jail on a plea of guilty of petty larceny. He was charged with theft of a radio valued at $40.

Judge Mueller declined to accept the prosecuting attorney's recommendation for a 90-day sentence in view of Glass's confinement since Jan. 15. An information against Glass, 29-year-old Wellston laborer, was filed April 21, the day after he himself filed a handwritten petition seeking a writ of habeas corpus.

Glass had waived a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Raymond I. Harris, who said delay in filing of transcript had been caused by a clerical error. The Glass file had been placed in "closed files" by mistake, he said.

CONCERT TONIGHT ON STEPS OF SOLDIERS MEMORIAL

An outdoor concert tonight on the steps of Soldiers Memorial Building, 1315 Chestnut street, will be presented by the Scott Air Force Base Band and the Black Knights Drum and Bugle Corps of Belleville, Ill.

The 75-minute concert, beginning at 7:30 p.m., is provided as part of Armed Forces Week, which is to better acquaint the public with the armed forces. The Scott band will consist of about 35 persons under the direction of Capt. Bennie Maniscalco.

The Black Knights corps, about 75 teen-age boys, was the Amvets' national and Illinois state champion musical corps in 1954 and 1955. The group is directed by Forrest Green.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD GROUP INSTALLS NEW DIRECTORS

Three new directors of the Planned Parenthood Association of St. Louis were installed at a meeting of the board today. They are Mrs. Edwin Levis Jr., 7521 Byron place, Clayton; Mrs. E. Gary Davidson, 400 North Gore avenue, Webster Groves, and Mrs. Joseph Sunnen, 400 South Warson road, Ladue.

Three volunteers who have served 100 hours or more in recent months received certificates. They are Mrs. Levis, Miss Katherine Baker, 6044 Washington boulevard, and Mrs. Berkley Roberts, 109 Aberdeen place, Clayton.

TAKES POSITION WITH BOYD'S

F. J. Jacobson Jr., advertising manager of the "downstairs store" of Stix, Baer & Fuller Co., has been appointed advertising director of Boyd's downtown and Clayton stores, it was announced today.

Jacobson is a graduate of Brown University and lives at 10 Burroughs lane, Ladue.

The course being followed by the Administration in Washington in declining to send arms to Israel is not in itself a policy. Without a constructive approach to the big outstanding problems of the area restraint is merely a brake which may serve to prevent an arms race, but it cannot be a substitute for a positive policy that has never been evolved. The outlines of such a policy were contained in Dulles's speech of last August but no steps have been taken to follow through on that speech.

Hammarskjold succeeded just in the nick of time in applying another brake. The Uniten Nations checked the slide toward open conflict. What is needed now is an interval of quiet negotiation furthered in private by all concerned, both the powers in the region immediately involved and the big powers with the great stake of 70 per cent of the world's oil. Any attempt to lay down a grand solution through the United Nations, and this is the point to which Hammarskjold comes back again and again, is bound to fail, and failure will open up the same sources of conflict that brought war so close in mid-April.

MIDWEST FARM VOTE WOULD GO TO G.O.P. TODAY

a vote of gratitude to someone who has assumed the role of the farmer's champion.

2. The survey results show that neither Kefauver nor Stevenson has been able, to date, to capitalize fully on the farmer's economic plight.

If the "pocketbook nerve" were the controlling factor in the farm vote, chances are there would be a landslide victory for the Democrats this fall in the Midwest rural areas.

As of today, the Midwestern farmers feel—by a vote of more than 2-to-1—that the Democrats are more likely than the Republicans to increase the farm incomes.

The farmers particularly like Kefauver's campaign methods. Kefauver, with his promise of 90 to 100 per cent of parity, dealt out with a friendly handshake and a big smile, looks to the farmer like someone who is really concerned about the farmer.

The conclusions that this reporter has reached after studying the viewpoint of hundreds of farmers are as follows:

Just before the election this fall—regardless of soil banks, price supports and parities—he will look at his pocketbook and add up his bank balance just as he did in the last few days before the 1948 election. Weighing the pros and cons, he will then make his decision on how he is going to vote.

Because of naturally Republican leanings and the high regard he has for President Eisenhower, he will give the G.O.P. every advantage he can.

U.S. DISTURBS ITS ALLIES AND RUSSIA GAINS

tive. The effect may be to weaken American leadership.

It only seems a matter of time, if this country hopes to retain its leadership, that it will have to strike out on bold new lines to match and outdo the Russian changes.

Already the new Russian maneuvers seem to be having an effect in an area which has been vital to this country: The North Atlantic Treaty Organization, this country's military alliance with 14 friendly nations. Cracks are beginning to appear in NATO.

That Secretary of State Dulles is concerned about the progress the Russians are making seems clear. He has suggested the NATO partners enlarge their alliance outside the military. But neither he nor the other 14 foreign ministers seems to know just what to do.

When Russia announced it would cut its military forces by 1,200,000, there was the usual skeptical reaction in this country. The Russians made propaganda by that move. And they can use the manpower in factories and on farms.

But the American reaction could hardly be shared entirely by American allies living closer to Russia. Each Russian move which makes United States allies breathe easier turns their eyes toward this country for a positive, not a negative, response.

WEST PRESSING DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM IN IRAQ

to murmur the warning, "I have 10,000 rifles," whenever the government in Baghdad seemed to disregard his wishes. But there was something very like a peasant uprising in Arabil province two years ago; and when this happened the grandee had to plead with the government for protection against those very rifles he once used as a threat.

Communist organizers, inspired by the Tudeh party in Iran, were in many of the villages then. There was a movement to take the land from the rich agas who live in Arbil city. There was even one deputy in parliament from Arbil province with known Communist leanings. By a great deal of persuasion and some pretty sharp pressure, Gov. Hakki set the province in order again. All is outwardly peaceful now.

All the same, beneath the surface, the pressures and the tensions still exist. The peasants still want the land the Agas own. There are still aspirations for better things that cannot easily be satisfied at once. And the development program is very slow, as all great programs must be—so slow indeed that five more years may pass before really large new farming acreages are opened to Iraq's people.

This makes the race between the forces of construction and the forces of destruction. I asked Gov. Hakki which was likely to win, and he answered, "Who can tell the winner of any race with real certainty?"

WITNESSES CALL TAX EXPERT NO EXPERT

Had to Pay More to Government After He Prepared Returns, They Say.

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—Several witnesses have testified they had to pay back taxes to the Government after accountant Joseph Ford prepared returns for them.

Ford is the chief government witness in the income tax evasion trial of Mrs. Hattie Freeman Dodson, secretary to Representative Adam Clayton Powell, (Dem.), New York.

The series of witnesses who testified in United States district court yesterday said they were not prosecuted, however, for the returns prepared by Ford.

Earlier in the trial, Ford testified that when he was preparing Mrs. Dodson's 1946 income tax return, she told him her congressional salary "belonged to the Congressman."

The Government called that a kickback. But Powell took the stand to deny he had ever received a penny from Mrs. Dodson. He said Ford ran "a "tax mill" with offices at the Harlem church where the Congressman is pastor. Ford was once Powell's campaign manager.

Three character witnesses also testified for Mrs. Dodson yesterday.

The Negro woman is charged with evading $5000, in taxes from 1948 to 1952 and illegally collecting $2000 in tax refunds.

RHEE WINS THIRD TERM BUT VOTE MARGIN IS CUT

His Running Mate Trails Democratic Party Candidate for Vice President.

SEOUL, May 16 (AP) — Doughty old Syngman Rhee won his expected third term as South Korea's President today but strong opposition cut his vote to only about 55 per cent of the total ballots cast.

The 81-year-old conservative, South Korea's only President since the republic was established in 1948, polled 72.6 per cent of the total vote in the 1952 election.

In the separate vice presidential ballots Rhee's running mate, Lee Ki Poong, was trailing Democratic party candidate Chang Myun, a former Ambassador to the United States. However, Lee was still given a good chance to pull ahead in the rural counting.

Because of Rhee's advanced age, many politicos think the next vice president may well turn out to be the old man's presidential heir.

Rhee piled up a big lead in the country districts. In the big cities of Seoul and Taegu he trailed the combined total of his opponents—a dead man and a former Communist—and ran a poor second in the capital.

With nearly all of the ballots from Tuesday's election counted, unofficial returns from the national police gave Rhee 4,864,596. His living opponent on the three-man ballot, reformer Communist Cho Bong Am, polled 2,073,450.

Patrick Henry Shinicky, Democratic party candidate who died of a cerebral hemorrage May 5, was the choice on most of the 1,762,767 ballots declared invalid. Votes for Shinicky were automatically thrown out.

An estimated 8,600,000 voters —90 per cent of those registered—went to the polls in South Korea's second national presidential election. Rhee, a fiery old patriot who crusaded for years abroad for his country's independence from Japan, was elected by the National Assembly for his initial four-year term in 1948.

Counting of the vice presidential vote, cast on a separate ballot, lagged far behind the presidential. With more than 40 per cent tallied, Chang was ahead with 2,725,982 and Lee was in second place with 2,310,139. Four other candidates trailed behind, but no majority is necessary and the job goes to the high man.

The 1,000,000-plus vote for the dead Shinicky and Chang's strong showing were interpreted as expression both of sentiment over the presidential candidate's death and support for the Democrats' "time for a change" appeal.

Otherwise Rhee's Liberals and the Democrats campaigned on similar conservative platforms. The progressives urged more spending of foreign aid on economic rehabilitation and less on arms.

The opposition charged police intimidation during the campaign and irregularities at the polls and in vote counting. Spokesmen for Rhee's Liberal party government denied the charges or said they had no information about them.

However, a foreign expert said:

"All the irregularities you can imagine cannot offset the fact that if the people had really wanted to badly enough, they had the machinery to overthrow Rhee's regime . . . When you consider that in 1945 Korea had no faint trace of democracy, you realized they have covered 1000 years in a very short time."

MORE FREQUENT USE OF BLOOD TESTS ADVOCATED

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (INS)—Biologist Frederick P. Thieme says law enforcement officers can do themselves a favor if they use blood tests more frequently in their criminal and paternity investigations.

Thieme runs a research blood-testing laboratory at the University of Michigan that, in addition to research problems, frequently does work for law enforcement agencies and courts of law.

The biologist pointed out you don't necessarily have to have the blood itself to determine the type. "Even the saliva left on a cigarette at the scene of a crime can be used to determine blood type," he declared.

Thieme said it is definitely possible to exclude suspects on the basis of tests.

PRAISES ALASKAN DIET OF RAW MEAT

Government Doctor Says Eskimos Have Excellent Teeth, Resist Disease.

The native Alaskan's diet of raw fish, raw meat, seal oil and berries gives him much better health than an American diet with canned goods, sweets and white flour, Dr. Robert Van Norman, said today.

Dr. Van Norman, a government-employed doctor in Mt. Edgecumbe, Alaska, explained in an interview that in his two years of service there he observed that old Indians and Eskimos who kept to their traditional diet had excellent teeth and rarely suffered from tuberculosis.

"Those natives who have Americanized their eating habits as well as their other customs often have bad teeth and are more likely to contract tuberculosis," he declared.

The physician, a 1950 graduate of St. Louis University Medical School, is visiting relatives here with his wife and daughter.

Dr. Van Norman, an enthusiastic hunter and fisher, likes Alaska because "it's a sportsman's paradise and preserves much of the pioneer way of life." His home is on the ocean and deer, bear and evergreen forests can be seen from his back yard.

Mrs. Van Norman, the former Mary Hennessy of St. Louis enjoyed living in Alaska although she is less interested in settling there. "If you don't get to the stores there just after a boat has unloaded, you might as well not go shopping," she commented.

Dr. Van Norman will leave St. Louis Saturday to return to Alaska for a hunting trip. His wife will remain here for about a month, returning to Alaska, she said "when the St. Louis weather gets hotter than that in Alaska."

How about a new color scheme for your home?

The modern trend is toward gayer, more distinctive outside house colors. You can bring new beauty and charm to your home with exciting new exterior hues.

More than 100 colors to choose from—famous Pittsburgh Sun-Proof House Paint
HERE'S WHY PITTSBURGH FAMOUS SUN-PROOF HOUSE PAINT LASTS YEARS LONGER
• Ordinary paints allow much of their oils to soak into the painted wood surface, leaving the paint-coat itself oil-robbed and dry. Because the brittle paint-coat cannot expand and contract with changes in the weather and the temperature, it is soon ready to crack and peel.
• Pittsburgh's SUN-PROOF lets enough of its special Vitalized Oil penetrate the wood to form a firmly-locked bond between the paint-coat and the surface. The rest of the oils stay in the paint-coat to keep it "live," tough, elastic for long-lasting protection.

• Made with special pigments, SUN-PROOF is fume-resistant. It's self-cleaning, too—dust and dirt wash off with each rain.

• Ask your Pittsburgh dealer to show you the Color Selector with the hundreds of colors available in WALLHIDE Rubberized Satin Finish and WALLHIDE Alkyd-Type Flat for walls; WALLHIDE Gloss and SATINHIDE Enamels; SUN-PROOF House Paint and Trim; Shake and Shingle Paint; New Rubberized CEMENTHIDE Masonry Paint.

IRREGULARLY LOWER STOCK PRICE COURSE

Session Rather Quiet—Close Sees 467 Issues Higher and 407 Lower.

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—The stock market closed mixed today with the price trend slightly lower.

The market moved irregularly throughout the session—up in the morning and down in the afternoon despite a timid attempt at a rally.

Price changes covered a range of around two points either way with a few leading issues outside that range.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 40 cents at 184.40 with the industrial component off $1, railroads up 20 cents, and utilities down 10 cents.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 2.14 points lower at 492.69 at the close. The 20 rails gained .43 of a point at 174.56 while the 15 utilities dropped .01 to 65.89.)

There were only 1139 individual issues traded, and there were more up than down—467 gainers and 407 losers. Fourteen stocks hit new highs for the year, and 43 touched new lows.

Volume dwindled down to 2,080,000 shares, as compared with 2,650,000 shares traded in yesterday's lower market.

Today's market started higher. The rise represented a rebound from the shake out in prices suffered in the past two days following the Russian promise to cut its military forces.

General Motors, however, weakened at the start and finally unsettled not only the motor division but also the rest of the market. The turn down came after H. H. Curtice, G.M. president, announced a new reduction in G.M. production and cut back his estimate of this year's output for the entire industry. He said it would be down some 22 per cent from last year.

The market's decline, never severe, was halted and reversed in the fifth hour by strength in the steels and coppers and a new firmness in the motors.

Among higher stocks late were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, United Aircraft, International Telephone, Kennecott Copper, Lukens Steel, Aluminum Ltd., New York Central, Kerr-Mc Gee oil, and Pan American World Airways.

Lower late were Republic Steel, Goodrich, RCA, Phelps Dodge, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, General Electric, Southern Railway, and Sinclair Oil.

Anaconda Co. was up between 2 and 3 points on the news of record high first quarter profits.

Textron American was higher but declined under its best after the announcement of plans for a spin-off of its textile operations.

Houston Oil, up 4½ yesterday, opened today on 2000 shares up 3 at 163¼ in reflection of a favorable tax ruling on the sale of its properties to Atlantic Refining. Twentieth Century-Fox was off a fraction as directors declared the usual dividend.

GRAIN PRICES FIRM ON CHICAGO BOARD

Old Crop Soybeans Advance on Strength of Soybean Meal.

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP)—A firm tone ruled in grains on the Board of Trade today. In moderately active dealings old crop soybeans pushed ahead several cents, leading the advance. Wheat also was quite strong, particularly the May delivery. Gains in feed grains were limited mostly to fractions with oats more in demand than corn.

Good soybean meal exports helped soybeans. France bought 2,345,000 bushels of wheat and more export business was expected. A good demand for light supplies of cash corn and oats aided these cereals.

SOVIETS' SHIFT TO ECONOMIC WARFARE

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP).

A FURTHER SHIFT to economic warfare between the East and West could follow the Russian plan to take men out of the army and put them in the factories and the fields. American business men operating abroad report a continuing step-up in recent months in the attempt of Russia to win world markets through promises of goods on easy terms.

Sam Dawson

The big question mark has been: can Moscow fulfill its promises and deliver the goods?

With more men going into economic production, and with a cut in spending on defense and an increase in spending on industrial expansion, the Soviets may make fulfillment more of a possibility now.

The West has had the best of it so far. Industrial capacity is about twice as high as that of Russia and her satellites. But the Russians have set a goal of overtaking American production totals within 10 to 15 years. And their rate of increase since the war has been faster than our own—large as that has been.

ONE OF RUSSIA'S HANDICAPS has been a labor shortage. With a huge standing army and a government policy of keeping as many youths as possible in scientific and engineering schools, the industrial labor force has been curtailed. There should be plenty of room in the factories for the 1,250,000 men that Russia now says will be demobilized. In making their bid for world trade the Russians have had some advantages, notably in the underdeveloped areas. The Reds have been able to offer markets for the raw materials and food that these areas produce. Here, the desire to protect American industry and agriculture from such imports has been strong. One example: Cuba has sold to the Reds some of the sugar it couldn't send to the United States.

THE RUSSIANS AND THEIR SATELLITES have been able to offer the non-industrialized countries some of the machinery and equipment they crave. They can't produce this in the quantity that Americans can, but increasing amounts of such equipment are coming on the world markets from behind the Iron Curtain. Examples: The Soviets are building a steel mill for India; Czechoslovakia is building a rubber factory in Egypt; Poland is building ships for other countries and peddling railroad cars.

IN FINANCE, THE RUSSIANS HAVE a large store of gold they could use to buy up any commodities they want. And they are offering credit terms, or barter terms, which American competitors find it hard to match. Cost of production concerns government-run Soviet factories very little in setting prices to under-sell the West. Russia doubtless has political as well as economic motives in trying to drum up foreign trade. It is wooing the nations where it is offering trade and aid and it is trying to get more than just trade away from Americans. Until recently most American business men were unimpressed by the Russian trade moves. The chief reason was the East's industrial inferiority to the West.

THE UNITED STATES ALONE TOPS THE INDUSTRIAL capacity of the entire Communist bloc in almost every particular. The United States produces about twice as much steel, almost that much more pig iron, around four times as much oil, nearly three times as much electricity. Add to the United States capacity that of its allies in the West and the comparison becomes even more impressive.

BUT IN MAKING THEIR BID FOR ECONOMIC warfare the Russians apparently aren't fooling. They are pouring money, and now more manpower, into building up their industrial etrsngth. On the same day they announced the cut in the army and the build-up of the labor force they also announced a 20-year bond issue to help finance the new industrial drive. And their traders are spreading out over many areas of the world trying to sell both goods and propaganda.

PRAVDA HAILS SOVIET 'STEP TOWARD PEACE'

But Adds Russia Can Defend Self Despite Armed Forces Cut.

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—Pravda said today that the Soviet Union's plan to cut its armed forces is a practical step toward peace. The Communist party newspaper added, however, that Russia has a "number of means" with which to defend itself.

A Pravda editorial broadcast by the Moscow radio said Russia's plan to demobilize 1,200,000 in the next year was a striving toward implementation of the United Nations disarmament program.

"Until now no decision has been taken which would put this problem on a practical basis," the paper asserted. For this it blamed the western powers, saying they "prefer to carry out endless discussions on disarmament while at the same time continuing to intensify the arms race still further."

Pravda said the Soviet decision had caused "alarm and confusion in the camp of the opponents of disarmament."

In what seemed to be a reference to Russia's nuclear warfare potential, Pravda added: "The Soviet decision was based on the fact that forces of peace are today much stronger and better organized and have a number of means at their disposal in order to fully rebuff any attempts at violating peace."

Russia's decision to cut its armed forces "sounds like the pealing of the bells of peace," the Peiping radio quoted the Chinese newspaper Kwang Ming as saying.

"There was no word that Communist China intends to reduce its own armed forces.

Kwang Ming accused the United States of failing to cut its forces in the last 10 years, ignoring reduction of American armed strength from 12,000,000 at the end of World War II to around 2,800,000 today.

Yugoslavia's official press hailed the Russian decision to cut its armed forces. It said this was proof of Russian readiness to contribute to further lessening of international tension.

BIBLE DISTRIBUTION TOTALS 14,918,353 IN U.S. IN 1955

NEW YORK (UP) — The American Bible Society announced it had distributed 14,918,353 Bibles in the United States and abroad in 1955.

The society, holding its 104th annual meeting, said it has distributed a total of 466,231,012 Bibles since it gave away its first volume in 1816.

ENGINEER BUILDS SMALL TRAIN, RUNS IT IN BACK YARD

EVERETT, Wash., May 16 (UP)—Lawrence Griffin, a 36-year-old engineer for the Milwaukee Railroad, is one of the most popular men in town with the kids.

Griffin, a bachelor, operates a miniature steam locomotive in his backyard. It can carry him and a number of children on the ride over 300 feet of track. The youngsters ride on the flat cars.

The train is built to a scale of three-quarters of an inch to the foot to a regular, steam-engined train.

"When I start firing up the engine I think every kid in a radius of 10 miles can smell it and comes running," Griffin said. "I seldom operate the train without 12 or 15 kids waiting to ride."

The train operates under 100 pounds of steam pressure and weighs 165 pounds with the coal tender empty, Griffin said.

"The diesel is here to stay, I know," said Griffin, "but I always did like those steam puffers, and that's why I built my own. Besides I'm probably the most popular guy in town with the kids, and that's half the fun of my hobby."

HEARINGS OPENED ON B. & O. ELECTRIC SIGNALS AT FLORA

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP) — The Illinois Commerce Commission Tuesday opened hearings on three requests by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for authority to install automatic warning lights at Flora railroad crossings.

The railroad seeks to replace the manually-operated crossing gates at the Main, Mill and Locust street crossings with flasher signals.

The City of Flora opposed replacement of the crossing gates unless the automatic warning systems also included electrically operated gates. City Attorney E. Harold Wineland and Mayor Norman Bryden represented the city at the hearings.

CANADIANS REJECT DESIGN FOR RED EMBASSY AS DULL

OTTAWA, May 16 (AP)—The Board of Control yesterday refused a building permit for a proposed new $340,000 Russian embasy on the ground that the design is disappointing and dull.

The board suggested the embassy modify plans for the building to replace the embassy destroyed by fire last January.

An architectural subcommittee said the design showed a dull arrangement of windows, provided for different exterior finishes on various sides of the building and generally failed to take advantage of the site overlooking the Rideau river.

TEACHES WIFE TO DRIVE, CRASH RULED HIS FAULT

NORWICH, Conn. (UP) — Deputy Sheriff Paul A. Del Monte gave a driving lesson to his wife who promptly ran the car upon a sidewalk and knocked over a parking meter. Police arrested, not the wife but the deputy sheriff, who was charged with failure to have a motor vehicle under control while instructing an unlicensed person.

SPRINKLER WATER CAUSES MORE DAMAGE THAN FIRE

PLACERVILLE, Calif. (UP)—Owners of the Hotel Raffles here are torn between praise and criticism of the hotel's sprinkler system. A small blaze set off by a cigarette started the sprinklers, but the firemen couldn't find the shutoff valve and the water caused more damage than the fire.

TRUCK HITS VINEGAR TANK

Johnson grabbed for the bird and lost control of the truck. The pickup crashed into a vinegar tank car standing on a railroad siding, causing $250 damage to the truck and $150 to the tank car.

The bird got away.

3-YEAR HUNT OVER REFUND

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A Detroit gas company completed a three-year search for a former customer, a newspaper man who began working here 37 months ago. The company presented him with a refund check for 40 cents.

In the Soup.

WARREN, O. (UP)—Restaurant owner Pete Costianes filed a $25,000 suit against Lloyd Cose, who allegedly said "this soup is slop," in front of other customers. Costianes said the remark was embarrassing, injured his business and was untrue.

Gives Up Locking Doors.

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP)—Cecil Blake has decided to leave his automobile doors unlocked from now on. He reported he has locked his car only twice in the long time he has been driving—and both times it was broken into.

L. O. GOEDDE SR. LEFT $1,540,354 ESTATE

Vinita Park Man Directed That Most of It Go to Foundation.

Lawrence O. Goedde Sr., retired Vinita Park druggist and real estate investor, who died Feb. 18, left an estate worth $1,540,350, mostly in closed corporation stock, it was shown in an inventory filed today in probate court in Clayton. About $1,150,000 will be used to set up a benevolent foundation, his son, Charles, estimated.

Principal assets in the inventory were capital stocks in holding companies for real estate owned by Goedde, much of it commercial buildings purchased in the 1920s and leased to tenants. Total value listed for these stocks was $1,153,019. Notes were listed at $297,792.

Goedde, 71-year-old widower, directed in his will that all his interest from class "B" stock in the holding companies go to "The Goedde Foundation," established by him last December. Foundation funds are to be used "for scientific, educational, religious and charitable purposes, all for the public welfare."

Charles Goedde, one of three sons named trustees of the foundation, said the class "B" stock constituted almost all of the income from the holding companies. Negligible interest from the class "A" stock will go in equal shares to Goedde's four children and to the foundation.

The will provides further that the remainder of the estate be left in trust for the benefit of the four children, each to receive a one-fourth interest. In addition to Charles, of 1312 Purdue avenue, University City, they are William, of the same address; Lawrence O. Goedde Jr., 2005 North and South road, Vinita Park, and Mrs. William Frain, 8100 Washington avenue, Vinita Park.

Trained as a pharmacist, Goedde retired about 30 years ago after operating a St. Louis drugstore. He then devoted himself entirely to putting his money to work for him and became known for his ability to analyze the real estate situation accurately Charles Goedde said.

His investments were diversified, including both farmlands and city residential property. He lived thriftily and with few outside interests in a modest 10-room house at 8100 Washington, also the home of his daughter. The foundation is still in a formative stage, Charles Goedde said.

RICE IS BIG WEAPON IN PLAN TO CRUSH MALAYAN REDS

KUALA LUMPUR, May 16 (AP)—Malaya's Federal Executive Council yesterday approved Chief Minister Prince Abdul Rahman's plans to smash the remnants of Communist Guerrilla forces in the Malayan jungle.

Rahman announced after the failure of peace talks last December with Communist Secretary General Chin Peng, that he would wage an all-out war. Details of the plans were not disclosed today, but the main feature, it is believed, will be establishment of communal kitchens in areas where terrorists are operating.

All rice will be cooked and then doled out to villagers. Cooked rice is highly perishable and the system is designed to prevent food going to bandits.

Military patrols will keep the guerrillas on the move and prevent them establishing supply lines. Shelling and bombing will keep the rebels on the move at night.

SOCIALISTS LOSE SEAT IN AUSTRIAN VOTE RECOUNT

VIENNA, May 16 (AP)—Austria's Socialist party yesterday lost a seat it thought it had won in Sunday's parliamentary election.

A recount in Linz, capital of Upper Austria, showed one seat previously credited to the Socialists actually went to the small right-wing Freedom League, giving the league a total of six seats.

The Socialists now hold 74 seats against 82 for Chancellor Raab's conservative People's party. Had the disputed Linz seat gone to the Conservatives it would have given them an absolute majority in the 165-member legislature.

IN MEMORIAM 16

PIERSON, CLIFFORD E.: In loving memory, died May 16, 1955.
You are not forgotten loved one,
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memories last,
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by we miss you more
Your loving smile and gentle face
No one can fill your vacant place.
Sadly missed by wife, WILMA,
children, WILLIAM ARTHUR,
CLIFFORD JR. SHARON and
DIANNA PIERSON, daughter-in-law, brothers, ALBERT, HARRY JR. and EDWARD PIERSON, nieces, nephews, son-in-law.

TALKS COLLAPSE ON SINGAPORE INDEPENDENCE

In Conference Deadlock

DAVID MARSHALL

The New York Times News Service.

LONDON, May 16—Negotiations on Singapore's demand for self-government have collapsed.

The breakdown resulted yesterday from Britain's insistence on retaining control over internal security in the strategic island bastion. The Singapore delegation, headed by David Marshall, chief minister of the crown colony's government, was insistent on rejecting British control.

Marshall had suggested as compromise solutions that the deciding vote in internal security matters be given to a United Nations representative or to a representative of the Federation of Malaya and, finally, that a three-year time limit be set for British control.

Alan Lennox-Boyd, colonial secretary, who conducted the British side of the talks, rejected these compromises. He maintained that Britain's responsibilities for Commonwealth and Western defense necessitated continuing supervision over matters affecting the seclurity of the Singapore naval base.

Marshall to Resign.

After the collapse of the talks Marshall said he would resign on June 6, the date of the next meeting of Singapore's council of ministers.

Speaking of the next general election, Marshall, visibly upset by the failure of the conference, said: "The Labor Front (his coalition political party) will put up 25 of the most advanced lepers in Singapore to show our contempt for the present constitution. We will put up lepers and we will return lepers."

He repeated the statement for a television newsreel and repeated it again in a speech last night. He described the outcome of the talks here as "a great victory for Communism" and called British proposals "a Christmas pudding with arsenic sauce."

"It seems that Singapore will have to wait until the fascism of the Colohial Office and the Communism of Peiping have expended themselves fighting each other," he declared hotly.

Lennox-Boyd Statement.

Reading a brief statement, he said of the British offer: "In my view it would have gone far, very far, to satisfying the aspirations of the people of Singapore without ignoring the strategic realities and the menace of Communism in the island."

Both sides acted with unusual haste to publish their versions of the talks. Both sides voiced uneasiness lest Communist-inspired violence break out in Singapore.

Singapore Residents Fear Outbreak of Violence.

SINGAPORE, May 16 (AP)—Singapore residents were fearful today that violence may erupt on this British colony island after the failure of independence talks in London.

There were predictions among those still awake in the post-midnight hours when the news on the talks was flashed from London that trouble may erupt comparable to what is happening on Cyprus.

Fear was expressed of what may happen on this tightly packed island of 1,200,000 population, where the Chinese-origin majority of 800,000 controls the economic life. Many of these Chinese are sympathetic toward Red China.

The European population is only a little more than 17,000, or less than 1.5 per cent of the total.

The London announcement by Chief Minister David Marshall that he will resign on returning home could mean the immediate assumption of power by the People's Action Party. That party has been strongly leftist.

POLICE IN JOPLIN EMBARRASSED BY 13-YEAR-OLD THIEF

JOPLIN, Mo., May 16 (INS)—Embarrassed police, night watchmen and bank officials speculated yesterday over how a 13-year-old boy broke into five places — including a bank — in the heart of Joplin's downtown district last night without detection.

The youth was arrested early today only after a ticket agent at the Union Bus Depot, who sold him a ticket to St. Louis, thought he might be running away from home and called officers.

When they opened a metal fishing tackle box the boy carried, they found a deposit bag of the First National Bank containing $104. The boy admitted he gained entrance by prying open a window with his pocket knife.

Then the young burglar also confessed four other break-ins, which included two lawyers' offices, a cafe, and a hotel. However, he obtained only about $7 in these places.

The youth has been involved in other burglaries, juvenile authorities said.

ELMER P. LUSK FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for Elmer P. Lusk, former vice president of the Illinois Electric Works, will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at Kurrus undertaking establishment, 2525 State street, East St. Louis. Cremation will be in Valhalla Crematory.

Mr. Lusk, 59 years old, died of a heart ailment Monday at Barnes Hospital. He retired from the electric company six months ago, when he and his family moved to Dunedin, Fla. He was active in Masonic affairs and was a past commander of the S.t Louis United States Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ruth Van Antwerp; a daughter, Miss Evelyn Lusk of Dunedin; two sons, Warren J. and Elmer Lusk, Collinsville; a brother, Harry Lusk, Seattle, and a sister, Miss Elise Lusk, Chicago.

HUNT FOR SCOTT WIDENS AFTER HE FAILS TO APPEAR

Second Time Husband of Missing Woman Has Not Shown Up in Court.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, May 16—A police search for L. Ewing Scott, whose wealthy wife has been missing exactly one year, spread across the United States and Mexico today as the result of his second failure to make a scheduled appearance in court.

He was indicted on 13 counts of forgery and grand theft, based on his handling of his wife's $600,000 estate, and was free under $25,000 bond.

The case has several puzzling aspects. Mrs. Scott's eyeglasses and her dental plate were found under a thin layer of leaves and dirt near their fashionable Bel-Air home last month.

Scott did not report her disappearance, and it did not become known until her brother, E. Raymond Throsby, requested legal appointment as trustee of the estate.

Another unexplained circumstance is the existence of two $10,000 accounts in Mrs. Scott's name in two St. Louis banks—First National Bank and Mercantile Trust Co. The money was deposited by check in March 1955 following correspondence that began the previous month. There have been no withdrawals. She was not known at the banks.

Scott left St. Louis 20 years ago. He attended Washington University and was an auditor for Standard Oil Co. He was Mrs. Scott's fifth husband.

He vanished early this month. He did not make an earlier scheduled appearance in court, in connection with a $6000 judgment against him for expenses of publishing a book, "How to Fascinate Women."

About that time, an automobile that had belonged to Mrs. Scott was found abandoned with a bullet hole in the windshield. The shot apparently had been fired from inside, and District Attorney S. Ernest Roll said: "This may be another of those fantastic things he likes to do, like putting two envelopes of sand in a safe deposit box."

CHARGES LOWEN WILL BE CAPTIVE LEADER OF CAA

Monroney Says Nominee Will Be Subservient to Economy Practices of Weeks.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) — Senator Mike Monroney (Dem.), Oklahoma, yesterday told Charles J. Lowen Jr., President Eisenhower's appointee to head the Civil Aeronautics Administration, that he feared Lowen would be a "captive administrator."

Monroney, chairman of the Senate Aviation subcommittee, explained that he meant by this Lowen would be subservient to what the Senator called "penny-pinching policies" of Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks and Under Secretary Louis Rothschild. CAA is under the Commerce Department.

Lowen replied that he considered himself a presidential appointee responsible to the chief executive, and added:

"Secretary Weeks and Under Secretary Rothschild have told me they expect me to run the agency, and to bring up the budget I think is needed."

Monroney said the subcommittee had received testimony that Frederick B. Lee, Lowen's predecessor who was fired last December, had been told by Weeks to hold down his budget requests. This happened, the Senator said, despite Lee's insistence that CAA's navigation facilities for aviation safety badly needed modernizing.

"They've put no wraps on me yet," Lowen said. "I haven't been there long enough to submit a budget to them."

This was the third public session at which Lowen has appeared on his nomination, submitted by Mr. Eisenhower Jan. 9. Monroney announced he had no further questions, although he said some Senators might want to question the nominee further.

However, Monroney said that at the request of Senator John Marshall Butler (Rep.), Maryland, there would be no vote in the subcommittee before May 23. The Oklahoman told a reporter he would not make public as yet his own decision. Lowen is from Denver.

The appointee came under fire again at yeterday's session for the recent CAA order to withhold federal grants for airport facilities in which racial segregation is practiced.

Senator Thomas Wofford (Dem.), South Carolina, demanded to know whether there was any basis for it in any law passed by Congress.

Lowen said he knew of none, but that the order followed "the high policies of this Administration," and also the Supreme Court rulings in segregation cases.

Lowen said that if the segregation practiced at an airport were voluntary, he would not withhold federal aid for any of the facilities.

Wofford asked if Lowen had not testified last Friday that he had not withheld any funds for Hawkins Field at Jackson, Miss.

Lowen agreed this was correct. The South Carolinian then produced a telegram, signed by the administrator, and addressed to the CAA regional director at Fort Worth, Tex., stating that the grant to that airport would be forthcoming on receipt of assurances that all facilities were operated on a non-segregated basis.

Lowen said he did not remember sending the telegram, but added he did not question its authenticity.

He said that so far as he knew no money had been withheld yet for the Jackson Airport. Wofford said the field would lose $5000 because of the order.

BRITAIN'S REDS ADMIT MISTAKES; STALIN IS BLAMED

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—Britain's Communist party, following the Moscow line, confessed today to a "number of mistakes" and blamed the late Joseph Stalin for them.

These mistakes, said a party statement, included "our support for the accusation against the Yugoslav Communist leaders as traitors, and our condemnation of a number of those falsely convicted."

The statement followed last weekend's shakeup of the British party hierarchy. Harry Pollitt, 65 years old, a longtime admirer of Stalin, resigned as general secretary. He gave bad health as the reason. John Gollan, 45, a leader in promoting Communist youth units, took over.

MILITARY AUTO DEATHS

CHICAGO, May 16 (UP) — Col. Harvey C. Slocum of Walter Reed Hospital said last night that three out of every four military deaths in the United States last year were caused by automobile accidents.

Slocum, speaking at the 116th annual meeting of the Illinois State Medical Society, said automobile deaths accounted for 74 per cent of 455 military fatalities in 1955. All but 7 per cent of the deaths involved private, not military, vehicles.

WOULD PUT 'WAR' IN COATS OF ARMS OF BRITISH WOMEN

LONDON, May 16 (UP)—The editor of Britain's famed guide to royalty launched a campaign today to carry the "emancipation" of women one more step.

He said Englishwomen should be premitted to adorn their dresses like Englishmen—with warlike coats of arms.

Editor C. F. J. Hankinson of Debretts, the Who's Who of British blue blood, said he believed women have earned the right to mount warlike symbols on their coats of arms.

Titled Englishwomen have coats of arms but cannot bear symbols such as shields and helmets that the men wear.

For example, the shield, which forms the basic design of the coats of arms of aristocratic Englishwomen, is considered indelicate for a feminine family symbol. The women use diamond-shaped backgrounds instead.

This state of affairs exists "despite the fact that during the war thousands of women serving in the forces, or engaged in civil defense work," wore such armor as steel helmets, Hankinson wrote.

CONTRACTORS OPPOSE EASING SCHOOL CURBS

Against Lifting Limits on Size of Jobs Board Employes May Perform.

A sharp protest against any attempt to remove present limitations on the size of a job which can be performed by Board of Education employes was made yesterday by the St. Louis chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Association, Inc.

In letters sent to Board of Education members, directors of the chapter argued that such action could result in "an extravagant burden" on the school system.

"The school board and the taxpayers of the city could ultimately find themselves in the construction business" if the restrictions are removed or weakened, the contractors asserted.

The board's legislative committee is expected to consider soon proposed changes in the existing law, which requires that all jobs in which labor costs are $2500 or more be handled by contractors submitting competitive bids.

If the committee and the full board approve raising the $2500 limit or wiping it out entirely, the State Legislature would be asked next year to take appropriate action to change the law.

Oscar A. Ehrhardt, a board member, has said that if the limit were removed, board employes would not engage in any major construction or repair work.

V. Harry Rhodes, commissioner of school buildings for the board, has maintained that many jobs in which labor costs exceeded $2500 could be done more efficiently by workers in his department.

At a recent board meeting, he dropped a request for a $102,194 appropriation which would have permitted work on a school project to be done by his employes. Rhodes agreed to ask for outside bids on the job after one board member indicated he would challenge the item as a violation of the $2500 limit.

Russell E. Vierheller, secretary-manager of the electrical contractors' group, said it was felt that work could be done more efficiently and more cheaply by outside contractors because of their experience and the competition of bidding.

PRACTICING FOR PARK PRODUCTIONS

As regular a harbinger of the summer season as the rising temperature are these members of the Municipal Opera's dancing chorus, rehearsing in the Forest Park theater yesterday for circus scene from "Annie Get Your Gun," which opens the 1956 season's productions. The show, opening June 7, will run for 11 performances.

STAR GAZERS

Fellow-passengers focusing gaze on movie actress Rita Hayworth as she walks deck of the liner Queen Elizabeth on arrival in New York yesterday. En route to Trinidad, B.W.I., for her first movie role in three years, the actress said that after five or six weeks on the island, she will return to London for completion of the film. Her two children are attending school in Paris. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

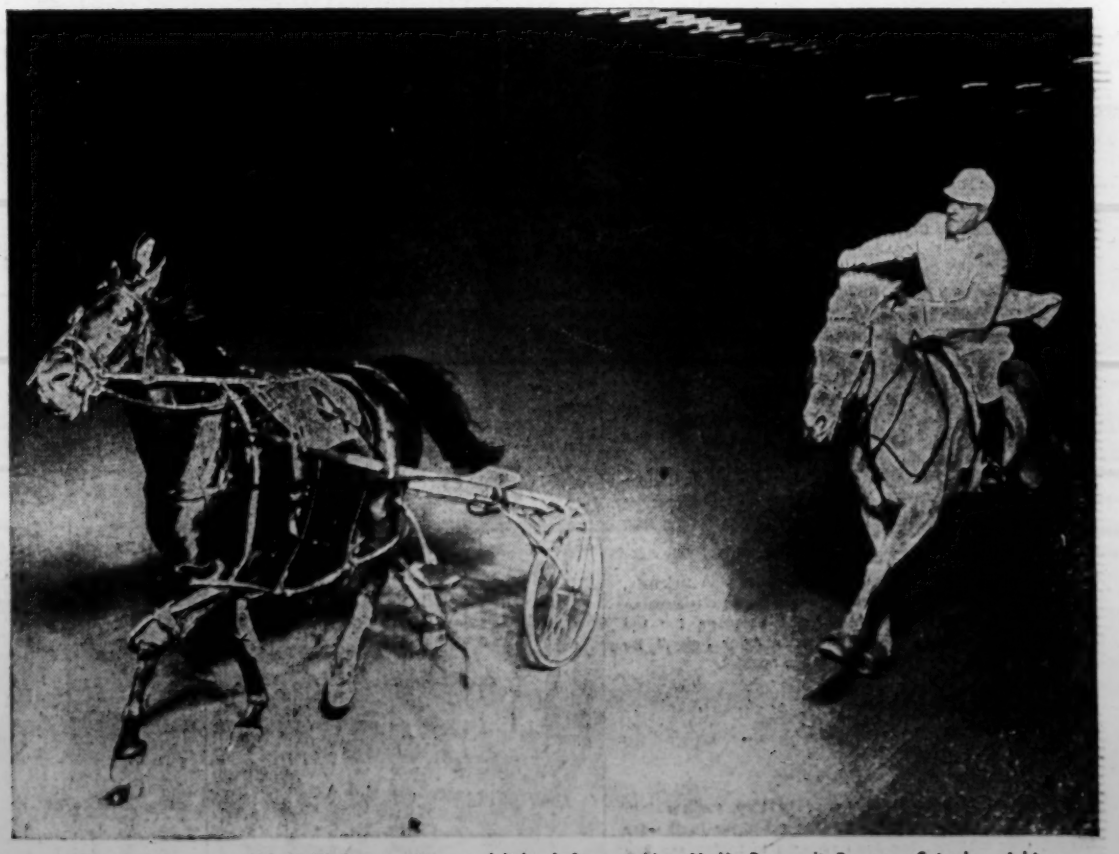

SCENE AT FATAL CRASH

Leafless tree is silhouetted against blazing shell of the Ville St. Louis, a Roman Catholic home for convalescent nuns, on the Ottawa river at Orleans, seven miles east of Ottawa, Canada. Fire followed crash of a Canadian Air Force jet fighter into the building last night which killed the two-man crew and left 13 persons dead or missing. Most of the victims were members of the order of the Grey Nuns of the Cross.

SHARK-LIKE GRIN

Weatherbeaten Caribbean shark fisherman George Middlebrook proudly displays the homemade shark-teeth dentures which won him a part in the movie version of Ernest Hemingway's Pulitzer prize winning novel, "The Old Man and the Sea," now being filmed on location off the Isle of Pines, Cuba. Middlebrook took a wax impression of his mouth, transferred the impression to wet sand, poured hot lead into the mould and inserted the shark teeth to make the unique dentures.

ADIOS, MARSHAL

Unscheduled entertainment delighted fans at New York's Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night as driverless pacer Dick Adios hightailed around the track with track marshal Herb Sondericker in hot pursuit. The high-stepping pacer reared up and dumped his driver after parade to the post, then took off for lone gallop around the oval before being nabbed by Sondericker after rodeo-style chase. Judges scratched the horse on grounds that solo effort impaired his chances in race which was run a few minutes later.

A Series Designed to Show U.S. as It Is

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, May 16.

"REPORT From America" is a filmed TV series designed to show this country to Britons—and any other country that wants to look—as we really are. It is produced by an NBC film team headed by Don Cash under the auspicies of the British Broadcasting Corp. and the United States Information Agency and already, after only three shows, it is a huge hit with the British public.

JOHN CROSBY

As an example of the sort of comment the new series has evoked, the Bristol Evening Post has remarked: "It is astonishing what a great disservice the majority of American films do to their native country; how inaccurately they portray the American way of life. Alistair Cooke's 'Letter From America' did much to remedy this. The new 'Report From America' series is meant to be the visual equivalent of these. And I think they will succeed."

THE SERIES is designed not to boast about America—there has been entirely too much of that abroad already and it does not win us any friends—but to show our problems and how we meet them. The first one, for instance, was about our parking and other traffic problems and it started out by showing that it is practically impossible to park not only in New York but anywhere in the country. Well, traffic and parking are not just American problems, they are almost world-wide problems and are especially acute in England. The English reaction to the fact that we had the problem as badly or worse than they did was universally sympathetic.

This, I think, is propaganda at its wisest. For one thing, it makes human beings of us. For another, it's honest. The traffic show started with a shot of Joseph C. Harsch, the NBC Washington commentator who narrates all these films, trying to find a parking space and not finding one. Then you see the congested city streets, the innumerable "No Parking" signs and you meet a lot of Americans, grappling with the problem as best they can.

THERE ARE some nice touches of quiet humor in this one which ought to win us some friends, too. Of course, the picture isn't all black. America's great superhighways, its cloverleaf intersections, its freeways all get very good notices. Harsch pointed out that much of the nation's cargo moved freely on our 3,000,000-mile network of highways. Of this bit the London Evening News said: "Such things as the conversation between the long-distance truck driver and his acquaintance in a roadside cafe were so convincing that one could hardly believe they had been staged for the purpose." (But they were. The "long distance truck driver" was actually an NBC announcer.)

Second of the series was about the small town newspaper, the Suffork County News of Sayville, L.I., and how it managed to compete with New York's big newspapers with local crusades and local reportage. This afforded an opportunity to show a picture of one of our older small towns. Sayville was shown to be a town where people chipped in to build a new Lutheran church and started an ambulance service manned by volunteers. After this was shown on the BBC, thousands of letters from Britons poured in on the Suffolk County News. One man sent a coat, explaining that regulations forbade him from sending money out of Great Britain but that they could sell the coat and turn the money over to the fund to rebuild the church.

SO FAR there have been five "Reports" completed and a sixth is in the cutting stage. Three have been shown on BBC and the idea is to supply one every fourth Wednesday from now on. The others are concerned with how Pittsburgh licked its smog problem (which instantly started Londoners to asking why London couldn't do the same thing about its own smog problem) education, American shopping habits, and automation.

Already the program has received the highest rating of any flimed documentary on the BBC. So far Britain is the only country it has been shown in but the program will be translated into practically all languages including Arabic and Chinese and it is hoped that it will get worldwide circulation. That is, it will be shown everywhere except here because there is a regulation forbidding the showing of any material put out by the United States Information Agency in this country. Don't ask me why.

Feminine Themes in Summer Play Clothes

The fashions illustrated here are available in St. Louis Shops. Patterns are not obtainable. For information call MAin 1-1111, Station 386, between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m., Monday through Friday, or mail self-addressed stamped envelope to Fashions Illustrated, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

By Sylvia Stiles

NOVEL fabrics and decorative features, a greater emphasis upon very feminine themes, and a trend toward co-ordinated ensembles characterize the summer play clothes on display in the St. Louis stores. Many of the swim suits have their matching coats or skirts. Illustrated are some of the interesting ideas available.

2—Pink and white plaid cotton in a moderately sheer weight is attractive for a play suit and matching skirt. The play suit also may be used for actual swimming as it has a matt jersey foundation. Eyelet embroidered cotton beading finishes the top of the bodice and the large patch pockets of the skirt. The beading is threaded with banding of pink cotton satin.

3—Woven glen plaid cotton in red or gold shades with white is a striking choice for this beach ensemble. A Chesterfield style of coat has a collar of ribbed cotton matching the dominant tone of the plaid. Weskit of the same ribbed cotton has a halter neckline. Shorts match the coat. The hat is one of the popular coolie types made of rough straw and available in a variety of shades.

4—Designed for the gardener or any "do-it-yourself" expert, as well as for leisure wear, is this interesting skirt made of blue denim. Appliques in different colors are of such appropriate items as scissors, spools of thread, hammers, forks and screws. There also are matching shorts. The white broadcloth blouse has novel tabs on the pockets. V neckline has a modified rolling collar.

5—Roman striped cotton that has a satin finish is an arresting fabric used for this two-piece ensemble. The overblouse has a bateau neckline. Stripes are arranged so that there is a horizontal strip at the side front of the overblouse and the matching shorts. The shorts button at the side.

6—Polka dotted cotton poplin is used for this dressmaker suit which has a matching circular skirt. The suit has a bib front finished with cording that forms a halter. Princesse silhouette features a brief skirt under which are matt jersey bloomers. The skirt is lined with pellon. Costume may be obtained of white poplin with turquoise or tangerine dots.

WORD GAME

TODAY'S vocabulary test is based upon 10 fairly common words, all beginning with "M." For each numbered word you will find a word of almost the same meaning among the three words and phrases following it. Thus the word numbered 1 may mean practically the same as the word lettered b. Write this down as 1b.

WHEN you have all the answers, check against the correct pairings at the bottom. Score 10 points for each correct answer—100 is excellent; 80 or 90, superior; 60 or 70, fair.

1. Madrigal: (a) medieval minnesinger; (b) girlish-acting dowager; (c) sixteenth century love song.
3. Maelstrom: (a) bad storm; (b) whirlpool; (c) angry rage.
5. Maenad: (a) Roman nymph; (b) mystic maze; (c) unit of Greek currency.
6. Marimba: (a) Afro-Cuban dance; (b) xylophone-like instrument; (c) display of lotus blossoms.
7. Malaise: (a) bad medicine; (b) physical discomfort; (c) French doctor.
8. Marinate: (a) pickle; (b) braise; (c) fry lightly in butter.
9. Mallard: (a) kind of dormer window; (b) high-style wainscoting; (c) kind of duck.
10. Marline: (a) kind of deep-sea fish; (b) undersea cable; (c) lashing to prevent frayed rope-ends.

A Comparison With Communism

By Fulton J. Sheen

SOME years ago, there was a comparative study made of the amount of food supplied to the Russian people before Communism, and the amount of food supplied after Communism.

Fulton J. Sheen

As might be expected, the people were receiving less after Communism. Even theoretically, when there is only one producer for 200,000,000 peoples, namely, the dictator, there will not be the same interest in production as when many citizens are responsible for the output. The Soviets now know that their theory that Socialism and state ownership of the methods of production makes for better living conditions, is challenged by facts.

If it be permitted, we shall quote the one whom the Soviets now call a wife-murderer—though it is difficult to see why, under materialism, that is wrong for a dictator. And why scruple about that when the millions of Russians, Chinese, Polish, Hungarian, Korean, Latvian wives were just as precious as the wife of Stalin.

STALIN SAID on Nov. 7, 1929: "Without heavy industry we shall be doomed as an independent country." Two years later he said: "We are 50 or 100 years behind the advanced countries. We must make good this distance in 10 years, or they will crush us."

Those 10 years are up, and more too, but the Socialist theory has not worked out in practice, though the emphasis on heavy industry continues.

Materialism, by its nature, can never give the primacy to consumer-goods over heavy industry for two reasons.

First, Communism does not place any value on the individual person. Marx said that a person has value only inasmuch as he belongs to a revolutionary class. One-fifth of the heavy-industry output is produced by slave-labor.

Second, the philosophy of Communism is geared to world-revolution, with tactical withdrawals here and there along the line, to befuddle the prey about to be devoured.

Malenkov, during his brief hour as dictator, promised consumer-goods to the people who could not consume armaments and dams and atomic bomb plants. Such a policy was contrary to Communism and to the reiterated propaganda from Lenin on, to the effect that the Soviets were encircled by capitalist enemies bent on their destruction.

With the emergence of Bulganin and Khrushchev, the emphasis was once again placed on heavy industry and war potential as the people queued up for food and clothing. Bulganin said that the priority of heavy industry would remain "the general line."

HEAVY INDUSTRY continues to increase, but the personal supplies of the people still remain below what they were before Communism.

On the heavy side, according to Soviet figures, the Communist regime is producing, at the present time, 11 times more coal, six times more crude petroleum, and 10 times more steel than it did a little over 25 years ago. All well and good for a regime which is based on the primacy of the state over the person; but how about the person who has nothing whatever to say about the state regime?

Russia is a cold country and wool is important for the warmth of the people, and yet the wool produced per person is only about one and one-half yards per year. If it takes five yards to make a suit for Malenkov to appear well clad in England——and that is low—that means that four people for one year had to go without wool. In the visit of, Bulganin and Khrushchev to England, if each of them took two pairs of shoes, it means that one person has to go without shoes for a year. The United States produces three pairs of shoes for every person; the Soviet production is less than one-half that amount.

While the output of electricity is increased in the Soviet Union, the amount of living space in cities has decreased a pace. The housing space per head in urban building in 1923 was about 71 square feet per person; in 1939 it fell to 42 square feet, and a few years ago to 41 square feet

It might be interesting to compare the prisoners of the Soviet Union — meaning the citizens who live under tyranny, and the prisoners in the United States who were convicted of crime. It is a federal law that every prisoner must have 60 square feet. But why compare these figures? The problem in democratic countries is to increase the convenience and the joy of living; in Russia, it is to prepare for war.

After-Forty Diet

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

IT is not possible or practical for every woman to go on a diet. If you have professional advice, fine; follow it because you will have your own special diet planned for you. But if you just want to lose a little weight to improve your figure, don't go on a starvation diet. You should practice food control. Many of you, when you reach maturity, just let your figure go, and then you take on the posture of age. Good posture is especially important to you after 40 not only for good looks but as a good health factor.

Often after a hard day's work you sit watching television or listening to the radio, and you munch on any nuts or sweets that are handy—result, there is more of you right away. If you don't want your husband to do a "double take" when he starts to notice your figure, you had better get busy on your figure future.

Eat sensibly—three meals a day and no more. Toss out your desserts and eat fresh green tossed salads. Drink black coffee instead of coffee with cream. Never eat until you feel full. Keep just under that well-satisfied feeling and, of course, you should count your calories. Also, you need a few basic exercises to control your hip spread and that worrisome waistline.

Exercise makes you feel better but it will not reduce you. You must, of course, follow a diet plan but exercise will make you feel better and it aids in perfecting your posture.

If you want to take this diet and exercise plan seriously, send to Edyth Thornton McLeod in care of the Post-Dispatch a long, self-addressed 6-cent-stamped envelope for the booklet, "Diet and Exercise for Beauty After Forty." Be sure to include 25 cents in coin for the booklet.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

IT'S not as easy as it was once to trap suckers into joining the Communist party. One organizer in the far west, they whisper, has been reduced to telling the few faithful remnants of his flock, "Sign up two new members and your dues will be cut in half. Bring in five and you have a free ride for life. And, comrades, enlist 10 and get the most fabulous reward of all: An engraved certificate, signed by me, swearing that you have never been a member of the Communist party."

Chili Con Carne

Ingredients: Two tablespoons butter or margarine, one medium-sized onion (chopped), one-half pound ground beef, one can (one pound) red kidney beans, one can (one pound) tomatoes, one garlic clove (crushed), chili con carne seasoning, chili powder, one-fourth teaspoon cumin seed, salt.

Method: Melt butter in 10-inch skillet over low heat; add onion and cook, stirring occasionally, until yellowed. Add beef; mash with a two-tined fork over moderate heat until beef loses its red color. Add beans, tomatoes, garlic, chili con carne seasoning and chili powder to taste and cumin seed. Stir well and add salt to taste. Cook, covered, over low heat about 45 minutes; stir occasionally. Serve over rice in soup plates. Makes four small servings.

Note: If you like chili very hot, use about one tablespoon chili con carne seasoning and one teaspoon chili powder.

On Broadway

By Walter Winchell

THE torrent of rhythm that gushed from "The Most Happy Fella" began—as all music does—as an experiment in sound. Inevitably, enchanting melodies leap the borders of time, overcome the barriers of geography and the obstacles of language. Music has no language, no creed, no nationality. It is as universal as the sun. The songs of Broadway have echoed around the world. . . . When Cole Porter was in Zanzibar he was stunned to discover a group of East Africans squatting around a scratchy phonograph enjoying the throbbing magic of his "Night and Day." The recent international triumph of "Porgy and Bess" represents another case in point. Incidentally, "Most Happy Fella" is the closest approach to a popular modern opera since Gershwin's classic. Gershwin surrendered $250,000 in movie contracts to create his masterpiece. He spent a year in Dixie dwelling among the people he later immortalized. Gershwin caught the rhythm of their love in the haunting "Summertime" and expressed their easygoing philosophy in "I Got Plenty of Nothin'."

WALTER WINCHELL

GERSHWIN'S BEST efforts were inspired by profound emotions. He once explained "Rhapsody in Blue": "This piece seems to sweep through my mind. It was the heart of America, the feverishness of life, the musical welter of races, of people, their joys and their emotions, their dissipations and their exaltations." Gershwin composed the rhapsody in three weeks when he was only 25. By way of contrast, he poured two years of his genius and energy into creating the score for "Porgy and Bess." Incredible as it seems in retrospect, Gershwin's rhapsody made an indifferent impression on critics. One scorned it as "trite, feeble and conventional."

THE ORIGINAL MELODY for "Star Dust" was a syncopated tune without words, according to George Marek's essay in a recent Good Housekeeping. Later Isham Jones played it as a "sweet" arrangement by Victor Young. . . . It was composed nearly 28 years ago by Hoagy Carmichael. . . . Long after Hoagy thought his classic was a flop, Mitchell Parish (one of the colyum's pet poets) wrote its delicious lyrics. . . . "When our love was new and each kiss an inspiration." . . . It has been recorded more than any other song. . . . About 350 times. . . . It has been translated in about 40 languages. A French favorite, too. They call it: "Etoile d'Amour."

Parish's other lyrics embellished "Hands Across the Table," "All My Love," "Deep Purple" and "Stars Fell on Alabama." . . . Artie Shaw's recording of "Star Dust," made in 1940, has sold 1,750,000 discs and is still a seller.

SONGS ARE speculative products, of course. Porter's "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" and Berlin's "There's No Business Like Show Business" became popular classics although they were originally composed as throwaways. They were created to fill stage waits. . . . Frank Loesser, a most happy fella, has turned out 1500 songs. Out of that mass of melodies only about 30 have been outstanding hits. Which indicates the odds against creating a winner.

"I HAVEN'T the faintest notion how one writes hits," Cole Porter has told the world. "I don't know of anybody who sits down to write a hit with the possible exception of Irving Berlin who can't help writing hits. I certainly don't know how."

Despite the foregoing, Porter's successful songs are not simply hit-or-miss affairs. He is a shrewd, careful craftsman. "I can tell a bad line by watching audiences," he has noted. "The minute they look at a program I know the line's got to be thrown out. Pretty often though, you've got to have a bad line so the next one will look good. It's planting, you know."

Fitting Centers to Neighborhood Needs

By Mary Kimbrough

ST. LOUISANS who preach and practice the gospel of good neighborliness have invited several hundred folks to town for a four-day visit over a figurative backyard fence, around the dinner table or over a cup of coffee.

They will be discussing their common problems as they gather for the thirty-ninth conference of the National Federation of Settlements and Neighborhood Centers from tomorrow through Sunday at Hotel Statler. One room will be reserved for a continuous coffee klatch and conversation about such concerns as changing neighborhood patterns and needs to be met.

Host group is the St. Louis Federation of Settlements, comprising 10 agencies scattered througout the area, some new, some old, some in bright, fresh buildings, others bulging at the seams. But this purpose they have in common: To help people get along better together.

The other day, I sat down with four of St. Louis's good neighbors to talk over their dreams of the future. There was Carl Obenauf, executive director of Grace Hill House and president of the St. Louis Federation of Settlements. There was the Rev. Louis Huber, executive director of Fellowship Center, the youngest of the city's settlements, where we were meeting that day. There were Earl Underwood, vice president of the federation and executive director of Monsignor Butler Neighborhood Center; and Les (Pop) Gardner, retired director of Wesley House, who left behind his job but not his love for people and his concern about what's happening to them.

Each represented a different center and came from a different type neighborhood but they all agreed with Obenauf's statement that, "if members of a family learn to live together peaceably, that peaceful acceptance of one another will affect their lives on a large scale in the community.

"In other words," he continued, "if we have happier, more harmonious families, we'll have happier, more harmonious communities. That's why our programs are all geared to the effort to make people better neighbors."

"And that," said Gardner, "is why we have no static program, no manual to go by. We meet the needs of the neighborhood and its people as we see them."

Obenauf's agency, Grace Hill House, for instance, has a health clinic. Fellowship Center, across the street from John Cochran Housing Project, has a tenants' relations council for consideration of mutual problems in the housing project. Fellowship Center also has worship services. Some of the agencies give music and dancing classes. Most have programs to appeal to senior citizens as well as children.

Some must get behind the drive in their respective neighborhoods for better housing. The rest have other community problems they must meet.

"The prime concern of a settlement house," said Obenauf, "is to improve the life and living conditions of the neighborhood around it."

There are 10 agencies in the federation: Caroline Mission, Carver House, Fellowship Center, Grace Hill House, Kingdom House, Monsignor Butler Neighborhood Center, Neighborhood Association, Wesley House, Community Music School and People's Art Center.

"Art and music have always been an integral part of settlement house programs and for that reason, Community Music School and People's Art Center are included," said Gardner. "We feel that music and art can add much to a person's life. One of the great music schools of the country, Curtis Institute, grew out of a settlement house."

EVEN those agencies which do not specialize in the arts give them a prominent place in their programs. Crafts as well as music and dancing are taught to the young people who troop into the centers after school or on Saturdays.

"Now here's where we feel we can meet another need," said Underwood. "Suppose a man in the neighborhood sees that the children next door can afford to take music or dancing lessons and he can't provide those for his children. Naturally, that man will suffer from a sense of inferiority, but if we can give those lessons to the youngsters whose parents cannot afford them, we are doing something not only for the children but for the parents themselves and for a feeling of family pride and harmony."

In fact, the entire family is important in settlement house programs, and Dad and Mom as well as the children find clubs and activities geared to their particular interests. In addition, there are family nights which bring the family to the center for entertainment or special activities. What those activities are depends on what the people of the community want and need.

"But," said the Rev. Mr. Huber, "these recreational activities aren't just a method of filling leisure time. They are a means to an end—and the end is to enable people to live more happily together not only in a family circle but in a neighborhood and in a city.

"As persons learn to accept each other for what they are, they're bound to be happier and to become better adjusted citizens of their community."

Our meeting was interrupted just then as the door opened and members of the "Jolly Sixties," a senior citizens group, came in for an afternoon of games and conversation. Downstairs we could hear the rattle of pots and pans as four young boys got ready for their cooking class, across the hall from a crafts group for little girls. Also gathering for a meeting were members of the tenants' relations council.

"This illustrates," said the Rev. Mr. Huber, "the wide scope of a neighborhood center's program. Wherever we see a need, and however we can teach people to get along better together, we go to work at that level."

Housing was the need given prime importance some years ago by the oldest of St. Louis's settlement houses, Neighborhood Association, established more than 60 years ago. Following a comprehensive survey, the association tackled the job of raising funds for a forerunner of today's public housing projects, and built Neighborhood Gardens to provide moderate-cost housing for families on the north side.

That ambitious project still remains as the most dramatic move on behalf of the people yet undertaken by a settlement house. But equally important, Obenauf pointed out, are the gains made in the building of good citizenship among young people who come to the center.

"I WON'T say, of course, that a bad boy comes in the front door, participates in our program and automatically walks out the back an Eisenhower or a Lincoln," he said. "We've had our failures, plenty of them. But we have also had our successes, and we're proud of the good citizens who have come out of these centers."

"But we do no moralizing," said Underwood. "If we see boys' gangs forming, for instance, we try a positive approach of giving those boys an interest in something better rather than preaching to them."

"I remember one neighborhood," said Gardner, "where there was a gang of 18-year-olds, and a junior group of 16-year-olds, and an even younger group of 14-year-olds, all calling themselves by the same name. You see, a neighborhood gang pattern was set up and these younger boys were destined to grow right on up into the older groups.

"So we found a clubhouse for them, offered them a good program and pretty soon the older boys changed their gang name and became interested in the program. Then the younger ones changed, too.

"It's not always that easy, but it makes you feel mighty good when you succeed."

Contract Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

SOMETIMES, when a player like Mr. Masters makes an amazing-looking defensive play like leading directly into a tenace holding in dummy, a casual kibitzer might consider him to be wizard, capable of seeing through the backs of the cards.

♣AK1073

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♥	2♦	2♥	3♦
Pass	4♣	Pass	5♣
All pass

Such is not the case. Mr. Masters makes a play like this after a careful consideration of the bidding, the opening lead, the looks of the dummy and the play to previous tricks. The time element is usually of the utmost importance. Mr. Masters's reasoning is that if his daring lead does not defeat the contract, then it cannot be defeated.

Mr. Abel had an opportunity to make a fine defensive play, but he muffed it. Mr. Meek opened the deuce of hearts, the four was played from the board and Mr. Abel won with the 10. Without much thought he returned the king of hearts.

This seemed to be a "safe" lead and it was—as far as hearts were concerned. Considering the hand as a whole, though, it gave Mr. Dale time to make his contract.

Mr. Dale ruffled the second heart, took two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy, and returned the nine of diamonds. This was ducked around and Mr. Meek won with the king. He led back a spade, but it was too late.

Dummy's ace was put up and Mr. Dale got rid of the other two spades on the board by discarding them on his diamonds. He then ruffed his losing spade in dummy and spread the hand.

Mr. Abel should have returned a small spade at trick two. It was clear that Mr. Meek had four hearts and therefore Mr. Dale had only one. Further, Mr. Dale could be figured for at least 10 cards in the minor suits.

If the defenders had a spade winner at all, it had to be set up before Mr. Dale established his diamond suit. If Mr. Dale had the king of spades, the contract could not be beaten anyway, so there was practically nothing to lose by attacking spades. Safe leads are very commendable but they are no good in "emergencies" like this.

Day in the Night

By Frances Ilg, M.D., and Louise Ames, Ph.D.
Of the Gesell Institute of Child Behavior

"I READ your column and have received plenty of good advice," a mother writes. "However, there is one problem I have with my 19-month-old son that I can't seem to correct. He turned his nights into days when I first brought him home. I have read where babies do this, but soon correct themselves. Jackie still insists on sleeping mornings and staying awake half the night. He is a happy boy when he can get up between 9 and 10 a.m.; nap from 4 to 6 p.m., and go to bed between 11 and 1 a.m.

"I have tried getting him up at 8 a.m., allowing a two-hour nap at noon and put him to bed at 8 or 9 p.m. Then he wakes up at 2 or 3 and is ready for a two-hour play. I have tried feeding him before bedtime, but this gave no results. He gave up his bottle at 16 months."

THIS MOTHER IS QUITE RIGHT. It is not too unusual for a very new baby to turn night into day in his waking and sleeping rhythms. However, most do settle down to our more customary rhythm of being awake (more or less) in the daytime and sleeping through much of the night.

If they do not come to this on their own, usually they can be helped into it, as this mother has done with Jackie. The snag in all this, however, is apparent in that Jackie now wakes up between 2 and 3 a.m. and is ready for a two-hour play period. This, obviously, is not a matter for discipline. Jackie isn't being "bad," and punishment probably won't cure him. The two things you can do are, first, try to prevent him from waking. Second, try to prevent him from bothering you if he does wake.

There isn't too much you can do to prevent him from waking. Pediatricians rarely prescribe sedatives in these cases, and even when they do, the sedatives often are ineffective.

ONE THING you can be a little more aware of than are many parents is the matter of temperature control. As you know, many adults tend to wake in the night, even from a rather sound sleep, if the room suddenly becomes too cold. Babies and pre-schoolers too are affected by temperature changes and might sleep better if the temperature could be better controlled than it often is. Also, since many of them kick off all the covers, it is important to be sure to dress them warmly.

Once they are awake, food is usually the most effective means of calming them down and getting them back to sleep. A bottle, crackers, a bit of dried fruit may do the trick. Some will quiet and stay quiet if a favorite toy is available. A soft light may help, though most young children seem to see in the dark. If they play without calling you, it is best not to go to them. After they fall back to sleep it may be important to check to see that they are covered. But if the temperature is regulated and they are dressed warmly without the need of blankets they do not need to be checked.

Creamed Ham on Cabbage

INGREDIENTS: One small head green cabbage, one-fourth pound natural sharp cheddar cheese (shredded), two tablespoons butter or margarine, one small onion (finely diced), two cups cubed cooked ham, one-fourth teaspoon black pepper, six tablespoons flour, one-fourth to one-half teaspoon salt, three cups liquefied instant nonfat dry milk, potato chips.

METHOD: Shred cabbage into strips about one-half inch thick. Place in small amount of boiling lightly salted water. Cover; boil rapidly about 15 minutes or until just tender. Drain well. Place cabbage in baking dish (12 by 8 by 2 inches); sprinkle with cheese. Melt butter in large skillet; add onion and saute until tender but not browned. Add ham and pepper; cook until onion is lightly browned. Place liquefied instant nonfat dry milk in deep bowl. Sprinkle flour and salt over surface. Beat with rotary beater until just blended. Pour over ham mixture; mix well. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Pour over cabbage. Top with crushed potato chips. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven about 20 minutes or until sauce begins to bubble. Makes six servings.

Insect Screening

Be sure that such openings in your home as attic louvers, fan exhausts, etc., are covered with insect screening or you'll be bothered by bugs in spite of the window screens.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

Answer to Question 1.

YES, at least among married couples: (1) Justifiable jealousy — when one partner is clearly interested in another person or is known to be unfaithful. (2) Unnecessary, unjustifiable jealousy. No. 1 may come to the most normal or the most neurotic person. The normal person will handle it intelligently; the abnormal, foolishly. No. 2 comes only to the neurotic—is always handled unwisely and if continued, makes marriage unhappy for both, or wrecks it completely.

Answer to Question 2.

"Just before you are going to use it," said psychologist E. L. Thorndike. He showed that learning ability declines about 1 per cent a year from the time of our learning peak—around 25. But this slight decline does not compare with what we lose by forgetting what we have learned in early years by never using it. This loss between 25 and 45, of what we do not use, is usually around 70 to 80 per cent. Plainly, if a man needs to learn any subject, he should learn it just before he has to use it.

Answer to Question 3.

Frustration tends to cause aggression, and we can do several things to stave it off. First, try to remove the cause. If this is impossible, work at something. Go out in the garden and dig like fury, take a long walk—these physical outlets are the most immediately helpful, according to Dr. Karl Menninger. He points out that children in all societies are necessarily frustrated almost from birth. A baby's first major decision is "whether to holler or swaller"—when he discovers that the two acts can't be done simultaneously.

GETTING ALONG WITH PEOPLE. Dr. Wiggam's nonprofit booklet shows how your personality type and seven basic emotions affect this vital faculty. Send 15c (coin only) and self-addressed, stamped envelope (name city and state) to Dr. A. E. Wiggam care of the Post-Dispatch.

Creosote Stain

Creosote stain has a tendency to bleed through paint and therefore it's best not to use this material as a wood preservative if the wood is to be also painted. There are, however, wood preservatives on the market which can be painted over with success. Of course, if the wood is not going to be painted, creosote is fine.

Junior League Move, Final Events Planned

Marilee Chadeayne Martin

AFTER more than 30 years on Maryland avenue, about 20 of them in its present location at 4932 on the second floor of the Lockhart Building, the Junior League tearoom will close its doors Tuesday, May 29. Clubrooms are to be opened next fall in a new location, since the present headquarters has been taken over by a concern which has purchased the entire building now housing the tearoom along with several shops and offices. In the mid-20s the Junior League, established in 1914, opened its first offices on the second floor of the Galeria Building, on the Southeast corner of Maryland avenue and York drive.

Until closing day, however, four events are on the calendar. The education committee will present a luncheon-lecture tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock on the 1904-1956 St. Louis Expositions, the Louisiana Purchase in 1904 and the Mid-America Jubilee this year, which will take place during the month of September on the waterfront. Mrs. Frank Groom Kirtz, supervisor of education for the Missouri Historical Society, will open the program with an illustrated talk on the 1904 World's Fair and her accompanying slides will show the Exposition Hall, foreign buildings, the giant Ferris wheel, gondolas, Pygmies from Africa and exhibits from every state.

Also on the program will be Alfred Stern, managing director of the Mid-America Jubilee, who was a former member of the production and design staff of Radio City Music Hall in New York and served in an executive capacity on entertainment for the New York World's Fair, 1939-40. Mr. Stern will discuss some of the major attractions of the Jubilee, which is the first in what is hoped to be an annual exhibit of regional scope. His points of emphasis will be a model farm, which is to have daily judging of livestock; the various modern design and new building techniques, and a nostalgic reminder of the 1904 era, the planned German beer garden complete with a costumed band and appropriate music.

Two events of next week include a talk and demonstration on flower arrangements Monday at the tearoom by Mrs. Orval C. Sutter, nationally accredited flower show judge. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock. The annual Junior League Play Day will be held next Wednesday at the St. Louis Country Club. Buffet luncheon will be served at noon and prizes will be awarded for the afternoon's events — canasta, bridge, golf and tennis tournaments. Miss Julia Terry is Play Day chairman.

The final program of the year will be a luncheon and style show May 29 at the tearoom featuring fashions made by members. Approximately 20 members will model their own clothes.

Mary Institute May Crowning Today.

"A MAYPOLE OF ROSES RAISED IN A WOODLAND BOWER" is the theme of the 1956 Mary Institute May day to be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the Rodemyer Garden Theater on the school grounds, Warson and Ladue roads. In case of rain the program will be postponed until tomorrow, and if necessary, until Friday.

A new Maypole, which may be telescoped to within a few feet of the ground, has been built in the center of the recently re-landscaped meadow, surrounded by three circular tiers of deep green platforms. The pole is devised so that it can be raised one level at the end of each dance. At the crowning of the queen the platform will become a throne.

The entire May day fete will be waltzed to "Tales from the Vienna Woods," by Johann Strauss, played by musicians from the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. It will open with a dance by fourth grade children who will drop pink and red flowers in a wire basket at the top of the pole. After this "coronation" of the pole, first, third and seventh grade girls, dressed in shades of pink and red, will waltz.

Maypole streamers tinted from white at the top to deep green at the bottom, will be brought in by tenth graders who will attach them to the rose basket. Then the ninth grade, representing pink petals, and the eighth grade, "rosebushes for the woodland bower" will dance. When the pole has been raised to its full height, the streamers will be unfurled by the eleventh grade students who will be dressed in a large rose print fabric from which all the shades of pink, red and green in the entire fete were chosen.

Last on the program will be the Maypole dance by the 24 seniors and the crowning of one of their number as May Queen. The seniors, each accompanied by an attendant from the second grade, will wear filmy long white frocks which they will also wear at graduation. Receiving their streamers from the eleventh graders they will waltz around the pole, weaving singly and doubly, and end their dance with a deep bow. The new queen, chosen by her classmates, will be identified by two sixth grade girls and will be crowned by Miss Andrea Maxwell, senior class president.

Maryville College Spring Prom Scheduled Friday.

GUESTS at the annual spring prom to be given Friday at Maryville College will be introduced to the Showboat theme of the party as they enter Duchnese Hall over a gangplank. An orchestra will play from what will appear to be the stern of a paddle-wheel riverboat and the balcony will be decorated to resemble the gallery of a plantation house hung with Spanish moss sent from New Orleans.

Make-believe gamblers will preside over tables of chance at which stage money will change hands while seven Aunt Jemimas will serve refreshments.

The prom is to be a formal dance from 10 until 12 o'clock. The following are in charge: Miss Hope Ann Sullivan and Miss Lane Kennedy, seniors; Miss Mary Agnes Dreiling and Miss Mary Ann Kessler, juniors; Miss Una Kelleghan and Miss Joni Cento, sophomores, and Miss Penny Oelrich and Miss Mary Ann McNeive, freshmen.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Dear Martha:

I AM a young housewife, 25, married three years. Seven years ago my mother-in-law got a divorce and her only son stuck by her and supported her and in five years had a small home paid for. She is in her late 40s, in reasonably good health and doesn't want to go to work. Her spending money comes from rent from the home she formerly occupied when she was married, which, incidentally my husband also bought for her from his father. I love her as I did my own parents. She is young in appearance and has a modern outlook on life but is never satisfied. We bought her a gas furnace, modernized a lavatory, redecorated her house and now she wants a television set, a chaise lounge, scenic wallpaper and other things that we just can't afford. There are so many things we could use ourselves. My husband has suggested that she do baby sitting or work part time, but to no avail. Personally, I think she is just lazy. I have suggested that I go back to work but my husband is against that. We feel sorry for her but my husband doesn't know how to say no to her. Last summer we suggested she come live with us, but I will give her credit for saying no. Martha, please tell me if I am being too selfish. I would gladly take the advice of any person who has had to cope with the same problem. WIFE.

Readers are requested to keep their letters short when writing to Martha Carr. For a personal reply inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope with the letter you send to Martha Carr, in care of the Post-Dispatch. Letters of a medical or legal nature cannot be answered.

I don't think you are being selfish at all. I do think your husband is far too willing to buy luxuries for his mother when his own family needs that extra money. Providing for one's comfort, and providing generously, are a far cry from spending to the point of sacrifice and spoiling someone who demands too much. I think, now that your husband has bought two homes for his mother, he should put her on an allowance and let her buy out of that the television set and the fancy wallpaper and the other luxuries she desires. He can fulfill his obligation to her—and as her only son he certainly should take care of her—without being her slave.

Dear Martha:

IN RESPONSE to the letter written to you and signed "Wife Without a Husband," I would like to make some observations. As wives we are told to keep ourselves attractive, prepare good meals, keep our homes clean and decorative, etc., ad infinitum. All of this is to the good but no one seems to mention the general atmosphere of the home. Regardless of income or educational background a wife can make a home so pleasant and interesting a place to be that not only her husband but her chidren and she will find it comfortable and stimulating. I can remember a friend who accused me of "liking to stay home because your home is so much fun." Mother and Dad made it that way. . . . If a wife would read the Post-Dispatch from front to back she might surprise her husband at first but he would take his cue from her and contribute his share gradually. My husband didn't have the type of home I had and he used to stare at me in wonder at the dinner table. Now he is inoculated and is as anxious as I to impart his observations and bits of news. When your children and husband come home and their look is one of interest and they want to find you and tell you what they have done and they want to hear what you have to say, then you have done something for them which they will treasure and you have enlarged your own horizon so that you will never be alone no matter what your age.

AN OBSERVING HOUSEWIFE.

I am only sorry that space doesn't permit my printing your entire letter. It is full of good common sense and excellent suggestions for those whose home atmosphere has lost its verve and has become drab, meaningless, routine—and, consequently, quarrelsome. If parents would take a vital interest in their children's views as well as their activities, not only would they be rearing better thinkers and more attractive and stimulating personalities, but they would cut down on the juvenile difficulties caused by a complete disinterest in the home and a desire to seek a flimsy, surface excitement elsewhere. Thank you for your contribution.

Write today for Martha Carr's free leaflet of prayers for children and grace to be said at table. Please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Decorating a Home

By Ruth Millett

SUE has just furnished a new house and it is as pretty a picture of a home as you'll ever see in a decorating journal. Sue's friends are asking each other, 'Have you seen Sue's house? It's lovely and it is exactly like Sue."

RUTH MILLETT

What's wrong with this picture? Well, it so happens that Sue isn't a career woman, living alone with only herself to please. Sue has a husband and two children. But look from one end of the house to the other and you'll find no traces of their interests, their personalities or their tastes. From front door to back, upstairs and down, it is definitely Sues' house. And that is how all of their friends unconsciously refer to it.

In her zeal to have a home that is perfect for entertaining, in her desire to have a home that will impress her friends, in her narrow view that a home should express her personality and preference, many a wife like Sue makes a home that the rest of the family must fit itself into as best it can.

A daughter's bedroom turns into what the mother thinks a girl's bedroom ought to look like, not an expression of the daughter's tastes and individuality. A son's room must look like a picture of a boy's room. Never mind whether he can display his treasures and store all of his keepsakes that come under the adult term of junk. As for the man of the house, he just has to fit in as best he can.

Such houses may make a woman proud. They may be a flattering background for her. They may make other women "ooh" and "ah."

But are they homes?

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A WIFE writes me: "Every time it rains my husband and I have a disagreement and I would like you to settle it once and for all. He objects to holding my umbrella over me, which I insist every gentleman walking on the street with a lady should do. He says he doesn't mind not sharing my umbrella but he thinks as long as it is not large enough to keep both of us dry I should hold it over myself."

If it is a woman's size umbrella, he is right. A woman holds her own small umbrella over herself. A man's, large enough to keep both dry, he would hold. She would take his bent arm to bring them as close as possible under the center of the umbrella.

Make Your Own Sandwiches

By Edith M. Barber

AT this time of year every so often we are likely to get a hot enervating day. Probably we feel it more than we would later in the summer when we have more or less adjusted to the weather.

Instead of the usual type of meat, potatoes and vegetable menu for the evening meal, we may enjoy a supper of make-your-own sandwiches. There may be several different types of bread as well as fillings for our choice. Some of the fillings should be hearty and we often turn to tuna fish, a can or two of which is often on hand. Salmon, lobster and crab meat or chicken are also useful products to have in reserve for sandwich or salad use.

AN ASSORTMENT of salad greens, perhaps sliced cucumbers and tomatoes, diced celery and shredded carrots all combine well with seafood. When we are given a choice so we may select anything that takes our fancy we are inclined to work up an appetite we thought had been completely lacking.

Of course, if you like, you may have spreads all ready for the bread which can be buttered ahead of time. Hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped, stuffed olives and celery, moistened with mayonnaise, combine well with tuna and shell fish. Cucumbers, sliced or minced, or sour pickles add contrast in texture as well as flavor to spread. Variations in flavor can easily be made by the addition of a little curry powder and more chili sauce or catsup.

Curried Fish Sandwiches.

Three hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped, one 6½ ounce can tuna or shell fish, drained, two tablespoons finely chopped celery, one-half cup chopped pimiento-stuffed green olives, one teaspoon curry powder, one-half cup mayonnaise. Buttered bread slices.

Combine eggs, tuna, celery and olives. Add curry powder to mayonnaise and mix well. Add to tuna mixture and blend. Spread on bread to make sandwiches. Yield: about two cups filling.

Tuna Cucumber Sandwiches.

One cup thinly sliced cucumber, one-half cup thinly sliced onions, one-third cup lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste, two teaspoons sugar, one 7-ounce can solid-pack tuna, drained one-third cup sour cream, buttered whole wheat bread.

Combine cucumber, onions, lemon juice, salt and pepper and sugar. Mix well and let stand one hour. Drain cucumber mixture and chop. Break tuna into pieces. Combine cucumber mixture, tuna and sour cream. Mix well. Spread on bread to make sandwiches. Yield: about two cups filling.

MAKE-IT-YOURSELF SANDWICHES WILL BE POPULAR ON THE SUMMER MEAL SCHEDULE AS THE WEATHER GROWS WARMER. CHICKEN, FISH AND EGG COMBINATIONS ARE AMONG THE MANY FAVORITES IN SANDWICH FILLINGS.

She's Out to Glorify the Grapefruit

By Lu Murphy

THERE is a man and his name is Mr. Turnbull and he wants to glorify Florida grapefruit.

Lu Murphy

And I'm going to help him.

I do not know Mr. Turnbull. I can even control my emotions over grapefruit. But Mr. Turnbull said one thing that proved his sincerity. In speaking of the need for a grapefruit Reducing Course, Mr. Turnbull turned away unbelievers with a casual, "What if it does cost a couple of million dollars?"

And—well—that's the kind of talk a girl can understand.

So, I feel it is my duty to help Mr. Turnbull glorify his grapefruit. And with me at the helm, he won't have to bother with advertising agencies, either. I admit I can't think as glorifying as some junior account executives I have known. But I can spend two million bucks just as fast.

ACTUALLY, this isn't going to cost Mr. Turnbull a penny. I always make it a practice to glorify grapefruit free. But before I start, something has got to be done about the color of Florida grapefruit. That mousey yellow has got to go! I know from personal experience it doesn't do a thing for anybody. Except possibly a lemon.

I think a whole simply kaleidoscope of color would be great fun. Have brilliant red grapefruit and mad purples and Eleanor blues. Coral, emerald, puce—puce?—gad, what's a puce, Bruce?—carnation and maybe a few dyed a nice clear-thinking ruddle. Black and white and flame apricot. Yummy, isn't it? And think of the perfectly divine centerpieces you could build!

Oh—before I forget, I intend to start playing down that jolly nutritional good-for-you theme. So a grapefruit's got vitamins—so's a squash. Monroe didn't get there because she was the wholesome type.

I'LL HAVE to raise the price, too. Simply as a public service. I mean, people are so much happier buying things they can't afford. Especially in a really clever box.

Full-page testimonials have been hacked to death—but they still have a certain amount of brute appeal. Subtleness here, I feel, should be the keynote. For example, I can visualize a full page in color—say page 11 of Popular Mechanics—just a stark white page—and in the lower right-hand corner the shadowed slightly out of focus figure of a jockey, holding a vivid (in focus) periwinkle tinted grapefruit. And under that the simple quote:

"Ah me, if only I had known about Florida grapefruit—before!" Then very discreetly at the bottom of the page something like, "The Florida Grapefruit Industry wishes to thank Group Captain et cetera."

And please, somebody, remind me to put a call in for Mr. Ernie. I want to see how much he'll charge to change the ending to:

"St. Peter, don't you call me with a rootie toot toot—
I ain't full yet of Florida
Grapefruit!"

Tasty Tricks

From the same basic recipe, you can vary the role of the thin pancake in your menu. The simple breakfast pancake becomes divine blintzes using caviar and sour cream and then on to the sweet crepe suzette for dessert.

My Day

Answer to A Southern Resolution

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

I HAD a meeting Monday morning at my American Association for the United Nations office of the nominating committee for the purpose of selecting a new president of the A.A.U.N.

Dr. Charles Mayo, who served us for two years, feels he must be relieved of his duties. The President sent him to the coronation in Nepal as the United States representative.

Dr. Mayo then proceeded to Geneva as United States representative to the World Health Organization meeting there. So it is evident that we must find a new president of the A.A.U.N. and we canvassed possibilities at our Monday meeting.

I HAVE JUST RECEIVED a "personal and unofficial" communication from Assemblyman James C. Thomas of New York state. He inclosed his answer to a letter sent to every one of our congressional legislators from the state of South Carolina and gave me permission to use his answer. This I am happy to do.

The communication concerns a joint resolution passed Feb. 14, 1956, by the legislature of South Carolina. The resolution condemns the alleged usurpation and encroachment on the reserve powers of the states by the Supreme Court of the United States. It calls upon the states and Congress to prevent this and other encroachments by the Federal Government.

The gist of the statement seems to be that the interpretation of the United States Constitution always must remain the same and that, in no case, must it change with the changing world.

OF COURSE, it would mean that no progress ever would be made. Even the South probably has forgotten that for more than 100 years it was a crime punishable by death in 13 Southern states, including the sovereign state of South Caroline, for a white person to teach a Negro to read or write. Not even in South Carolina would they like to return to that concept.

I like the way Assemblyman Thomas answered, first with the legal quotations and then with his own reaction to the South Carolina resolution. He said what needs to be said:

"With two-thirds of the world members of the colored race, White Citizens Councils are an affront to all Americans with courage and vision." He went on to say that we need American citizens councils. I think, too, that everyone will join in the belief that these councils should represent every race, creed and color in the United States.

Neither South Carolina nor any other Southern state can, in the long run, dissent from this kind of thinking.

By for and about Women

Secrets of Charm

Impeccable Grooming

IF you could play reporter and interview any half dozen women on the best-dressed lists, some of your notes would repeat themselves a half dozen times.

Your interview subjects would tell you how important it is to wear only what's becoming to you regardless of fashion, how important it is to have exactly what you need for the life you lead and to wear the right thing at the right time.

AND it's more than likely that they'd say an elaborate wardrobe isn't necessary—many best-dressed favorites state frankly that their own wardrobes fall far short of fabulous and that they wear "classics" for years.

What they might not talk about is impeccable grooming, the enormously important part it plays, the effect it creates that nothing else can equal. The fashion standout may own a sound and tasteful wardrobe rather than a bedazzling one, but she never settles for less than perfect grooming. The best dressed is the best groomed every time.

Hot Potato Salad

Ingredients: Five or six medium size potatoes (two pounds), one-half cup diced celery, one tablespoon finely chopped onion, two teaspoons salt, four tablespoons butter or margarine, two tablespoons flour, one-fourth teaspoon dry mustard, three tablespoons sugar, one-half cup cider vinegar, one-fourth cup water, pepper, one tablespoon finely chopped parsley.

Method: Cook potatoes in skins until tender, peel and dice. Put in a one and one-half-quart casserole; add celery and onion. Sprinkle with one teaspoon of the salt. Melt butter over low heat; add flour, mustard, sugar, and remaining one teaspoon salt; stir until smooth. Add vinegar, water, and pepper to taste. Cook over moderately low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Pour over potatoes; sprinkle with parsley. Mix lightly with a fork, being careful not to break potatoes. Let stand one hour. Cover and reheat in a moderate (375 degrees) oven, 20 minutes. Makes six servings.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

THE residents of Chichen Itza (che-CHEN-eet-SAH) knew nothing about the calendar which was used in Europe during the time of Columbus. Nevertheless they counted time after inventing their own calendar.

Those people also had a system of arithmetic. As numbers they employed bars and dots. One bar was equal to our number "5." A bar and three dots made "8." Three bars, one above the other, were equal to "15."

There was a "zero" in the number system used by the Itza Indians and other members of the Mayan race. The Mayan zero was an outline of a shell.

IN THAT RESPECT, the Mayas were ahead of the ancient Romans. The Romans were without a sign for zero. If you had asked one of them to tell the reason, he might have replied:

To express their numbers, the Romans used letters of the alphabet, as "I" for "1," "V" for "5," "X" for "10," and "C" for "100." If a Roman had been asked to write "1956," he might have written "MCCCLVI." Another way to write the same number was "MCM-LVI," and in this case the "C" for "100" was subtracted from the second "M" for "1000."

THE ROMAN SYSTEM worked, but it was awkward. In modern days, when we express sums of money in millions and billions of dollars, we should have a very hard time if we used Roman numerals.

"A "figure for nothing" is highly important. It made the decimal system possible.

The decimal system was invented in India. A system of a similar nature, the "vigesimal" (vy-JES-ih-mal) system was employed by the people of Chichen Itza and other cities of the Mayas.
